The chief value of Klondike gold just now is that it is worth its weight in bacon or potatoes.

It is estimated that over 200,000 children in North Carolina do not attend school. Can North Carolina afford to add 200,000 illiterates to her adult population?

The Charleston chaperones have given Miss Crane, the actress, almost as much free advertising as if they had stolen her diamonds. Religious weeklies and liquor dealers' organs even, have taken up the discussion of the ball room episode.

While some of our statesmen are trying to do away with the civil service system altogether, certain political writers are discussing a civil service retirement fund. We have no doubt that some of our republican friends would be willing to vote for such a fund if the present incumbents could be put upon it immediately.

After the holidays is one of the most important seasons to advertise. Trade is apt to be dull. Stimulate it by offering bargains and special sales. No man who depends upon the patronage of the public can succeed at any time without informing the public of the nature and character of the wares which he has for sale. He must reach the consumer and when trade is duller he must offer special inducements for custom.

Bombay is plagued again and there is an exodus of inhabitants. Less than a century ago yellow fever emptied Philadelphia and caused as terrible devastation in that city as the plague does to-day in Indian cities. A recent biography of Stephen Girard relates that he was one of the few who remained in the city to care for the sick and dying. There was at that period no known preventive or help for this disease. The progress that medical knowledge and sanitary science has made since that date can be measured by the comparatively few epidemics that get even a foothold in our great cities to-day. It is safe to predict that this generation may see the discovery of a curative and preventative for most contagious and epidemic diseases.

TOPICS OF TODAY.

Despite the fact that some of the strict party organs are saying very many harsh things about those who are opposing the election of Mr. Hanna to the United States senate from Ohio there is very little national politics in the contest. Ohio has had for many years two factions in the ranks of the republicans of the state and each has been anxious to control the offices and patronage within the state. The quarrel has been exceedingly bitter upon several occasions and has been carried into the national conventions of the party, where it has made and unmade presidential nominations. In 1880 it defeated Sherman for the nomination for the presidency and effected that of Garfield, who came to the convention as Sherman's friend. The success of one faction or the defeat of the other is simply the triumph or failure of leaders in a particular controversy, and in no sense involves the status of the party in the commonwealth or the nation. There is little use in attempting to dispute the fact that Mr. Hanna is not an ideal sensation in the eyes of a large number of Ohio republicans. When fresh from his great success in the last campaign, which possibly entitled him to the highest consideration of the republicans of Ohio, it required all the power and persuasion of the administration to induce Governor Bushnell to appoint him to succeed Mr. Sherman, who entered the cabinet. Mr. Hanna as a campaign manager and Mr. Hanna as an Ohio senator are two entirely different propositions, however grateful his party may have been to him for his work in the McKinley campaign, a seat in the senate was not regarded as a proper reward for the services rendered.—Chicago News.

POSTSCRIPTS.

—Ben Butterworth is still improving, though slowly.
—The hearing at Salisbury before Special Master Craig in the case of the lease of the North Carolina railroad to the Southern railway was yesterday adjourned until Wednesday next.
—John Govey, United States consul general at Yokohama, has furnished the state department figures of the census of Japan, excluding Formosa, showing that the total population at the beginning of last year was 42,708,264, of which 40,635,892 were common people and the remainder nobles and Shizoku. This was an increase of 437,944 in population in one year.

—A special dispatch from Shanghai says that a Japanese fleet of three battleships, ten first class cruisers and numerous smaller vessels, has received orders practically packing them at the disposal of Sir Alexander Buller, British commander-in-chief of the China station, this step being taken "in case Russia persists in ignoring the joint interests of England and Japan."

—A cablegram at the war department Friday from Lieut. Devore, who was sent with Dr. Jackson to Europe to secure remainder for the Klondike relief expeditions, said that 2 steamers had been chartered for transportation of the remainder to the United States, and it was expected that the party would be able to sail for New York on the 20th inst.

—Since W. J. Bryan's visit to Austin, Texas, stories have been in circulation that he and ex-Governor Hogg, of this city, arranged for the latter to run as Vice president with Mr. Bryan in 1900; and further that Gov. Hogg intended moving to New York at once with a view of securing the support of Richard Croker, ex-Gov. Hogg says that there was no truth in any of these statements, but that he was not now nor will he be a candidate for vice president, but at the proper time he would support Gov. Robert Taylor, of Tennessee, for the position.

W. A. Smith, Esq., has an interesting article on the "Six Per Cent. Law" in yesterday's Asheville Gazette, which is a full and careful review of the subject, showing how capital has been driven from the state by this law.—Hendersonville Times.

NORTH STATE NUZZETS.

The state auditor is at work on his annual report.

The public school committee of Raleigh has been on an anti-cigarette crusade.

During the past year sixty-two miles of railroad were constructed in this state.

It is said that 400 Masons will attend the annual communication of the grand lodge at Oxford this week.

A handsome set of North Carolina china will be made for the executive mansion. The fine kaolin from the state will be used.

Plans are being matured by the Agricultural department for an extensive work next summer in the way of farmers' institutes.

It is claimed that some new evidence will be presented in the case of John Bryan, the Rockingham negro in jail at Raleigh under sentence of death.

Charlotte Observer: Not long ago a Frenchman with a wife and several children arrived in Raleigh from Asheville. He had been the gardener at Bill Nye's farm, at Arden and some rough people near there set upon him and nearly killed him. He was on the charity of the city. But the King's Daughters took the case in hand and raised $150 with which all the family were returned to "La Belle France." The man was so devoted to a Frenchman that he positively refused to learn English.

The third annual meeting of the North Carolina Colonial Dames was held in Raleigh Wednesday. The National Society of Colonial Dames is composed of the societies of the thirteen original states and the society of each state after adopting the national constitution is permitted to elect its own president and other officers and send a delegation to Washington to the council which meets in that city biennially. The headquarters of the North Carolina society is in Wilmington, but it has many members in other sections of the state.
