NEVER, NO NEVER!

You never have and never will see furniture in Asheville quoted at the low prices which are prevailing at Blair's this week.

Imperative reasons induce him to quote low prices on high grade articles of furniture, just at a time when you need them the most. Blair's prices this week are a farce on values, and his sales are going to be tremendous.

Still the summer visitors come, and are welcome.

The French detectives have a fine reputation—or at least they had it before Labor's assailant escaped from under their noses.

Several train loads of excursions will arrive in Asheville in the next ten days and the hotel keepers will have their hands full—also their rooms.

Two glasses of beer go for a nickel in New Orleans seven days out of a week, and it is impossible to convince a certain class of people that life in the chief city of a state ruled by a ring is without its compensations.

There is an evident disposition on the part of our esteemed neighbor the News and Observer, to drop the constitutional amendment campaign and boom Bryan.

The worst evil that could come to this state would be that one political party, under the control of a clique of unscrupulous and ambitious politicians, should gain supremacy over it, which the power to make their "supremacy permanent."

The danger of this evil is the issue of the coming campaign. People must reserve the power to punish unfaithful servants in public office.

They cannot do that if these servants are henchmen of a political gang that is stronger than the people. The election law passed by the last legislature, especially in order to force the state to swallow the disfranchising constitutional amendment, and which itself will be an important issue in the campaign, is a measure that no honest political party, with faith in the people—the white people, if you please, for they have a majority in this state of a hundred thousand votes over the negroes—would think of passing.

OUR REIGN IN CUBA.

One result of our victory over Spain and our occupation of Cuba is already apparent in the improved sanitation of the island. Cuba, and especially Havana, has long been the breeding place for the yellow fever in the southern cities of this country.

The result in Havana, it should be said, has been reached by the very simplest methods. So far as the details are concerned, only a very slight progress has been made in sanitation. The American authorities, hampered by the indifference and carelessness of the Cubans themselves, have been able to deal only with the most obvious cases of the contagion.

learning one, they are giving another which it is to be hoped will not be entirely lost on the Cubans. The Americans are displaying before the eyes of the inhabitants of the island what can be accomplished by modern methods. The practical result of these methods have been displayed before their eyes in various ways, and while it has unfortunately not been able for the authorities to adopt just their observation so as to regard matters from the Cuban point of view, still the real results that have been accomplished will undoubtedly make an impression on the Cuban mind.

LAST OF THE SUMMER SCHOOL CONCERTS

A Brilliant Musical Event at the Opera House.

The final concert of the Asheville Summer School and Conservatory might truly be called, a musical event of the highest importance. It was a concert such as large cities might be proud of, and it is only fair that due credit should be given the Summer School Stock company, to whose generosity and enterprising spirit we owe the presence of the splendid New York musicians who have delighted us with their talent throughout their summer campaign.

Mr. Banck and Miss Carrie Hirschman were the soloists of the evening. The former played "Elegie," by Fran. and "Perpetuo Mobile," by Ries. Mr. Banck proved that he is not only an artist of the deepest feeling, making his instrument in turn weep and laugh, drawing from the inanimate strings the most touching and pathetic strains, but in "Perpetuo Mobile" he gave also evidence of the most dazzling technique, dazzling, yet always masterly and classic; his powers were fully recognized and appreciated by the audience which lavished applause upon him.

Madam Gramm sang G. Lane's sweet "Hush-a-Bye" and fairly brought tears to sensitive eyes, but they were soon dispelled and pathos was transformed into rapture by Bohm's dramatic "Waldtenfel," which song suits her voice to perfection. "Blossoms Filling all the Air," by Von Flieitz; "The Night is Soft," by the same, and "She Loves Me," by Edith A. Dick, were given in turn and delighted the audience. Beautiful flowers literally poured on the lovely singer who was recalled several times but to everybody's regret, gave no encore. Madam Gramm is a public favorite. Her queenly bearing, charming personality and magnificent voice have captured all hearts.

The members of the chorus, in recognition of the brilliant manner in which Mr. Schauflier has conducted this part of the concert, presented him with a token of their love for the genial gentleman and friend, and of esteem and gratitude for the capable leader. The present consisted of a beautiful pearl pin. Mr. Lawrence McLeod acted as spokesman and in a happy and witty speech expressed the feelings of the chorus. Mr. Schauflier, touched by these marks of devotion, was yet up to the occasion and expressed his appreciation in fit terms. He in turn would surprise both the chorus and the audience by making the former sing, quite unprepared "The Sea Has Its Pearls," a task which was accomplished most satisfactorily. Then were interpreted the numbers of the program, "O for the Wings of a Dove," by Mendelssohn. In which Miss Gramm sang the solo. This difficult and grand work was rendered with all the mastery of "old hands," yet it should be remembered that the chorus is composed of the most livers elements, gathered at random and drilled in less than six weeks. Truly Mr. Schauflier's achievements as a chorus director smack of the marvellous.

Miss Marie Law, together with the string quartette, played the accompaniment to the chorus. This young pianist has done most excellent work throughout the season and her difficult work is thoroughly appreciated by Mr. Schauflier and the chorus. Miss Helen Collins has accompanied the soloists, and a such her place could not be filled by anybody, as is best known by those who have played with her.
