OSTEOPATHY. The Willard Institute of Oesteopath-

Meeting at London.

Frankfort, Feb. 3.-William Goebel died tonight shortly after 7 o'clock. The announcement of his death was made by a distribution of the following cir-

"To the people of Ken'tucky-It is with the most profound sorrow that we announce the death of Senator William Goebel. In his last moments he counseled his friends to keep cool and bow o the law in all things. We, his friends and admirers, beg of the people of Kentucky, in this hour of affliction, to carefully abstain from any act of vioence or any resort to mob law. It would MASSAGE. be his wish, if he were alive, that there should be no stain left on his memory by any imprudent act of any who were his friends. Law is supreme, and must be in time re-established, and all the wrongs that he and his party have suffered will find their proper redress." This is signed by Senator Blackburn, the president pro tem of the senate > eral others. When the announcement of his death was made the corridor of the hotel was filled with the friends of Goebel, and there followed a scene of sorrow unusual and in many ways remarkable. Men and women put their arms around each other's necks and wept on etch other's shoulders. There was every manifestation of the deepest grief. Some cried aloud and many sobbed as though their hearts would break. After the first outburst, they became calm and then asked permission to see and the speaker of the house and sev-

the dead. This was granted to those who had been personally acquainted with him. A line was quickly formed to the second hall, leading to the room where the body lay.

It was some time after the announce. ment of Goebel's death had been made that the fact was revealed that he had been dead nearly an hour before the announcement. The purpose of withholding it was not stated. Immediately after the announcement was made, and after the crowd had calmed down somewhat, a conference of the democrats was called. The situation was reviewed and it was decided that Beckham should be sworn in as governor.

Injunction Issued Against Legislature were in a more critical condition than they have been at any time since the shooting. The departure of many legislators for their homes, it was thought, would serve to quiet things. but it had the contrary effect apparently, and for the first time the streets were filled with a more or less incendiary crowd. About noon news came from Goebel's room that he had a sinking spell and that he could not rally. That cam: very near being the match. As soon as it was known a big crowd gathered around Capitol square. Every man was armed with a revolver. All the available police of the town were sent to keep the crowd moving. It was a more or less boisterous crowd, and kept cheering at intervals for Goebel, and addressed foul language to the soldiers The presence of the crowd caused a lot of nervousness inside the square The commanding officers of the soldiers were fearful that an accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of a soldier or the firing of a pistol in the hands of one of the crowd might precipitate trouble. They doubled and tripled the guards at the gates lead. ing into the state house grounds. They stationed a company of troops with bayonets in front of each gate inside the fence. This was to prevent any possible rush. The crowd grew bigger, bigger and bigger as the day wore on

When the news became known that Goebel's condition was critical the mayor of the town issued a proclamation closing all the saloons. After this there was some improvement, and the police succeeded in scattering the crowd in Capitol square. A large part of it gathered in the vicinity of the Capitol hotel, and waited for news from: Goebel. News from the sick room was brought down every few minutes by one of his physicians.

With each successive bulle la from the sick room, showing that the patient was growing steadily worse the cxcitement increased and several in the waiting crowd were affected to tears.

TEMPORARY INJUNCTION RESTRAINING TAYLOR

The chief events of the day were the granting of a temporary injunction restraining Taylor from interferring time in their whole lives when they matter will be decided tomorrow by the brothers of the dead man. One brother arrived from Arizona tonight soon after the death of the Senator. Over five hundred telegrams of con 'clence have been received from democrats in all parts of the country. Frankfort is quiet at midnight and officials are congratulating themselves that tomorrow is Sunday. They are more or less apprehensive over

Monday, becouse that is county court day, and usually hundreds of people come to town. Fiscal court has offered $1,000 reward for the apprehension of the assassin. According to some folks here, Goebel was not shot by a political assassin but by a man who sought to avenge

WORE COAT OF MAIL

Another story is that Goebel wore a coat of mail when shot. This story is said to come from a physician who also said the coat of mail injured Goebel as badly as the bullet, particles of steel being carried into the body by the bullet. The physician is reported to have added that Goebel was shot with a Krag Jorgenson and that a steel bullet was used.

KENTUCKIAN'S OPINION.

Tells From Personal Knowledge, o Affairs There.

S. E. Cohen, of Louisville, Ky., who arrived in this city yesterday, said in an interview with a Gazette reporter, that the newspapers and the public generally had no conception of the true state of affairs in his state. He said that although the board of election commissioners had been coniposed of two democrats and one republican, they agreed in giving Taylor the certificate as governor. Then the legislature took up the case and, although according to the state law, a ballot should be taken in the selection of the judges in an election contest, the democrats having a majority in both houses refused to do so against the protest of the republicaus, and chose their judges as they pleased, who declared Goebel governor. Mr. Cohen says that Governnor Taylor is being supported by the best element in the state, while the Goebelites are for the most part ward politicians and heelers, and that many eminent democrats, among whom are General Basil Duke, who served in the confeierate army during the civil war, and Congressman Sweeney, have, since the advent of Goebelism in Kentucky, voted the republican ticket for the first

New Firm Formed for Extensive Carriage Making and Iron Work.

The firm of Burnett & Lambert has been formed for the manufacture of all kinds of carriages and wagons, blacksmithing, wood and iron working, etc., and particularly fine work.

B. Burnett has been in the city a number of years, and is a fine carriage maker and expert blacksmith.

Dr. Lambert will continue his veterinarian practice, attenu personally to the fine horse-shoeing and look after the office work for the firm.

C. L. Brown has been engaged as the expert horse-shoer. A general supply of wheelwright's and all other stock necessary will be kept for the trade.

They will do unholstering iron wor. and painting on all carriages, the need tion it occupied in the world six for this work on the better class of vehicles having been felt for a long time. Instead of sending vehicles away hereafter they will be prepared to do any work needed on them. They will put on rubber tires, also. Light wagons will be built, to compete with the foreign manufactured article. 'I'ne firm expects to be ready to go to work April 1st, and the co-partnership was formed to take effect on that date.

They will occupy a building on South Main street to be erected by Henry S. Lambert. Mr. Lambert has purchased lots from Mrs. Hilliard, Dr. Hilliard and John M. Compbell, each 100 feet deep, making a surface of 75x100 feet. The building will be of brick, 75x100 feet in size, with pressed brick front, two stories high, and a stone basement.

The building and lot will cost about $6.000. R. S. Smith is the architect. Work will begin as soon as the contracts can be let and will be finished for occupancy by April 1. A boiler and engine will be put in for power.

anxiety for great patriotic declarations from British statesmen in which there would ring out the inspiring self-reliant purpose to redeem the prestige of the British empire and enhance its splendor. Instead the country has listened for four days to a partisan debate, in which excuses, explanations, pettifogging critcism and recrimination have been the principal features. It is not enough to say that England is disgusted. She is indignant and angry. There should be no mistaking the temper of the British public. It is almost true that there are no conservatives and no liberals left in the country except in parliament. The nation is composed of Englishmen whose sole political aim and creed is the restoration of the British empire to the posimonths ago. To this end it demands practical, genuine co-operation of both parties and the effect of futile waste of words during the past four days is already shaping itself into a demand for the formation of a coalition cabinet, which will include ex-Premier Rosebery, George Wyndham, the present parliamentary under-secretary of war: William Broderick, present under-secretary of foreign affairs, and Rt. Hon. Herbert Asquith, M. P., liberal. This idea will undoubtedly grow into a great popular mandate which Salisbury and parliament will be compelled to obey, unless the situation both at Westminster and South Africa is radically and speedily improved.

THE MILITARY SITUATION.

There is a vague popular hopefulness regarding the military situation, based scarcely upon anything more tangible than that there has been no news of fresh disaster in nearly a week. Letters from the Laffan Bureau's correspondents with Buller and Methuen reached London today. All were unsealed and marked "Opened under martial law." They were not hopeful

The general public expects soon to hear of a fresh move by General Buller. But the military authorities think from the nature of the situation this is hardly probable for some time.

An impression has been created in certain quarters that "the main. campaign under General Kitchener may take the form of an invasion of the Orange Free State with General Methuen's force as the nucleus and Modder river as an advanced base.

CZAR MAY INTERVENE.

Paris, Feb. 3 .- It is stated in diplomatic quarters that the Czar will intervene in the South African war in about a fortnight.

RECCONNOISANCE.

Modder River, Feb. 3 .- A strong cavalry recconoissance was made today of the Boer position to westwaras of Moader River station. A balloonist with a party saw a number of Boers going towards Jacobsdal. A British shell fire directed at the Boers was ineffective owing to the presence of a dust storm. London, midnight Saturday night, Fe.J. 3.-The war office is without news of any kind from South Africa.
