JOKE ON THE RAILROAD.

Experience of a Swede Who Had a Ticket to South Dakota.

The duties of the claim agent's department would be reduced to a minimum if all cases were like one recently related by a railway employee. One evening a short time ago the engineer of one of the trains running west from Chicago, which was clipping along at good speed over the prairie, became suddenly conscious of the presence of a man on the track immediately in front of him. He had hardly time to take in this impression before he felt a slight shock and a dark mass vaguely outlined by the headlight. described a large semicircle in the air to the right and disappeared in the darkness. Shocked and sickened by the event. but conscious of blamelessness on his own part, the engineer pulled the train up at the next station and wired to division headquarters:

"Struck a man mile back from Cedar Grove. Shall we go back and pick up?

Waiting instructions."

There was some delay over the wiring, and a little group gathered around the engineer listening to his story and conversing in low tones over his bad luck. "I only got a glimpse of him," he said, "before we struck him. He went into the air so high that I saw him by the light of the headlight, and he must have struck some ways from the track. I suppose his clothes must have held him together." Then after a pause: "That's the worst I ever had. I hope it's the last." \

This called up some reminiscences of the experience of others of the group. They were interrupted by a panting voice coming out of the darkness behind the

"Des train go to Dakota?"

The speaker being informed that that was the Dakota train, breathed a sigh of relief.

"Vall," he continued, "Ay tank Ay run "bout fas' 's relrode train. Ay bot teeket to Sout' Dakota, en teeket man hay tak ma sax tollar feefty cents en tole may Ay skal go tran tonight. Ay meet tran back here haleways en ben run lak yack-

Just then the reply came from headquarters. "You're to go on, Jim," said the beaper of the order, "and we're to get out a freight engine and send back from here for the man you struck." The Swede became interested.

"Vat fur dees engine go back?" he asked, and then some of those standing near looked at him for the first time. His hat was gone, his clothing was in strings, and what there was of it, as well as the exposed portions of his husky person, was covered with thick mud. Some one explained in a few words. The train was just moving.

"Ay tank Ay get gude yoke on relrode tran." he chuckled as he climbed the steps of the smoking car. And then as he moved away into the darkness he yelled back to the little group:

"Ay got yoke on relrode tran! Ay bane that fallar masalf!"-St. Paul Pioneer-

A LIFE AND DEATH FIGHT.

Mr. W. A. Hines of Manchester, Ia. writing of his almost miraculous escape from death, says: "Exposure after measles induced serious lung trouble, which ended in consumption. I had frequent hemorrhages and coughed night and day. All my doctors said I must soon die. Then I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery which wholly cured me. Hundreds have used it on my advice and all say it never fails to cure throat, chest and lung troubles." Regular size 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free at all druggists.

Wandering In Dreamland.

The young woman's mind was probably away off in the land of cut on the bias and yokes and flarings and plaitings and applique and ruffles and things like that, whatever they may mean.

Anyhow, when she got on an up town Ninth street car the other afternoon, she dreamily opened her pocketbook when the conductor came around for her fare, stuck a gloved finger and thumb into one of the compartments of the same, extracted a couple of foulard samples, and, with that faraway expression still in her eyes, handed them to the conductor. The conductor was a middle aged man. He smiled and waited for the young woman to come out of her trance. But she held the foulard samples out to him, with eyes on vacancy, until the conductor, still grinning, had to fetch her back to earth.

"Yes, they're pretty, miss," he said, "and I'd like to get my wife a dress off that piece on top, but she's"-

The young woman blushed like a red hot stove lid, dug into another compartment of her pocketbook for a car ticket. and she looked real embarrassed when the brutal male persons across the car aisle grinned, so she did .- Washington

Storing the sun's Heat.

One of the optimistic and general expectations indulged in at the present day is the realization during the coming century of what is pronounced the greatest and most important of prospective inventions, namely, a machine for storing the heat of the sun and transforming it into electricity or some other form suitable for ready employment-heat which, though permitted to go to waste, will, by means of such invention, be applied to the running of mills, the warming or houses and every other purpose for which energy is utilized. The field for such an invention and its world-wide importance are at once suggested by the ascertained fact that every square yard of the sun's surface emits an amount of heat equal to that of a blast furnace consuming one ton of coal every ten minutes. The heat given out by the solar globe, too, in one second would raise 195,000,000 cubic miles of ice-cold water to the boiling point and of this heat the earth receives only one two-billionth part.

The Education of Mothers.

The authoritative tone that the majority of young women take with their mothers nowadays is not precisely an indication of good breeding; but then good breeding seems to be rapidly going out of fashion. A few relics of it are still left, just enough to show how delightful a thing it was. A really courteous man is now described as being of the "old school." A really high bred woman is called "old-fashioned." So inegale ici-bas is life pour l'homme et pour la femme, to quote Victor Hugo. Nobody would like to see children go back to the stilted stiffness of the days when they called their parents "Sir" and "Madam." But their present demeanor is the reverse of polite or gentle, and reflects but little credit on themselves or on those who have brought them up. The mothers seem to get accustomed to this kind of brusquerie from their daughters, and do not perceive its effect upon people who hear and see it for the first time.

The innovation of wearing the fancy apron at the afternoon function is disguised under the charitable name of fad, but down in the summer girl's heart she adores the abbreviated little article for the many spots it saves her handsome toilette.

No recommendation for their economy can be given with a description of these aprons, however, for the fanciest ones are quite costly. They are made of embroidered and hand-painted chiffons and silk gauzes and are trimmed in the most artistic manner with ribbons and real laces. In many instances the bib is of real renaissance.

Less econsive designs are made though, and these are developed in sheer lawns in-orted with valenciennes lace and very fine embroidery.

One of the great advantages of going to Texas via Memphis and the Cotton Belt is, that you avoid the annoyances and discomforts of changing cars, necessary on other routes. The Cotton Belt trains are the only ones that run through from Memphis to Texas without change.

These trains carry Pullman Sleepers at night, Parlor Cafe Cars during the day, and Through Coaches and Free Reclining Chair Cars both day and night. The service compares favorably with that of any road in the country. Write and tell us where you are going and when you will leave, and we will tell you what your ticket will cost and what train to take to make the best time and connections. We will also send you an interesting little booklet, "A Trip to Texas."
