OUR INTERESTS IN CHINA.

Atlanta Constitution. The farmers and manufacturers of the south, above all other American interests, should view with anxiety the turmoil in the distant east. The owners of southern cotton mills are just beginning to realize the vast possibilities which await them in the practically unexplored eastern lands, and the more energetic are planning commercial crusades which are of the first importance as affecting the future welfare of the south. The farming element, which is probably giving the matter little thought or attention, is also vitally concerned, as it is their raw product which eventually finds use in the countries under consideration. The loss of any of our advantages in this region means serious disaster to them and a retarding of the progress now so auspiciously opening.

The European nations are alive to the contingencies of the existing situation, and each is jealously guarding and preparing to protect the interests of its commercial population. Should the present difficulties eventuate in the dismemberment of China, a by no means impossible development, such a radical upturning of conditions would ensue as to gravely jeopardize American interests. Americans interested in export trade, and more especially the government, should keep a watchful eye on the affairs around Peking, and if necessary take steps to insure the continuance of the advantages and privileges which we now enjoy under the present treaty system.

CASTORIA.

The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. A bright girl renders it thus: "A thing of beauty is a boy forever."

Last fall I sprained my left hip while handling some heavy boxes. The doctor I called on said at first it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I tried it and one-half of a 50-cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recommend it to all my friends.—F. A. Babcock, Erie Pa. It is for sale by C. A. Raysor.
