

It is something besides bad air that makes a woman faint in a close theatre.

A well woman wouldn't faint. The woman who faints grows faint and dizzy—her heart palpitations—her heart—her stuffy feelings—her hot flushes—her nervous troubles, better look for the cause in her digestive system or in the distinctly feminine organism—maybe in both.

Women who are not quite well and don't know just what is the matter, and women who are really sick and don't know exactly what is the matter, should write at once to Dr. R. V. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., stating their symptoms in detail. They will be advised by Dr. Pierce without charge.

Dr. Pierce is, at present, a forty-year-old physician in the world-renowned Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y. He has treated and cured more suffering women than any other physician in the world, and more of his "Favorite Prescription" for the correction and cure of all disorders and diseases of the feminine organs, except cancer, has been sold than of all other similar medicines.

Write to Dr. Pierce. His medicines are what you need he will tell you so, if they are not what you need he will honestly say so and will tell you what to do. Dr. Pierce's position is a sufficient guarantee that his advice will not be biased by the hope of selling you a few bottles of medicine.

If you wish to study up your own case Dr. Pierce will send you, free of all cost, a paper-bound copy of his great 1000-page book, the "Common Sense Medical Adviser," of which over 750,000 were sold at $1.50 a copy. Dr. Pierce asks for nothing but that you send 21 one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only. If you prefer the book in fine French cloth send 51 stamps. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

IN AN AFRICAN HOME. Natives Will Not Work When They Get a Chance to Play.

The Rev. David A. Carson, a graduate of the Union Missionary Training Institute, Brooklyn, gives an interesting picture of his African home:

"My room in a neat little hut of mud and thatch is 12 by 14 feet. The bed is constructed with branches, holes being angred in posts for the sides and ends to be inserted. The support for the grass mattress is of leather things laced across both ways, thus holding all secure.

"My chair is the same. The table and washstand are of branches with reed mat tops. There are no boards. The desk is the same, with the inside case of my steamer trunk for a top; very good.

"The windows are of white cloth, tacked to a frame which can be opened right back and fastened to the wall. Hinges for doors and windows are of skin. No mats or rugs are used on the floor, as they harbor insects."

Mr. Carson is a member of the industrial mission of the Phil-African Liberators' League, located at Lincoln, on the west coast. And the following will illustrate the difficulties of teaching the African to work:

"There is practically no routine here. The unexpected most always happens. Her is one day out of many varieties: We rise with the sun, 5:35 a. m., have private devotions from 6 to 6:30, then breakfast, after which the ram's horn is blown for native roll call.

"Our superintendent seats himself outside his house; the associate workers sit on a bench beside him while he rattles off the names to which the people shout 'ame'—the personal pronoun 'I'.

"He then asks us how many helpers we need in our various departments. We begin to calculate, and he calls those qualified for certain kinds of work, when there is a terrible barking down in the valley and a shrieking like that of a child.

"Every man with a black or white skin (black always first) runs to investigate, and there is a fine deer at bay with three wild dogs barking at it. They see the rush of people, and jealous of their prey, pounce on him and tear him limb from limb in a twinkling, so strong are their mouths and shoulders.

"The rush of natives on the poor dead beast is more terrific, it would seem, than that of the dogs. They cut him up, indifferent as to whether they have a rib or a steak or the tail or an ear, then march up the hill, blow up the log fires and feast till all is finished.

"The consequence is, no work that day; a day's pay is gladly forfeited for such a treat."—Presbyterian Banner.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know it.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours: a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine & beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

How Peasants Harvest Inaccessible Meadows in Western Norway.

Far above the narrow, sea filled valleys which stretch their arms 100 miles into the country, high above the farms that stud the banks of the western fjords of Norway, among the rocky slopes of the mountains, up under the very edge of the glittering glaciers and the eternal snow that covers the great plateaus of Fostedalen, Hardangervidda and the Jostedalabrae, there are patches of verdure almost invisible from the decks of the passing tourist steamers or only appearing like specks on the rugged slopes of the mountains which tower thousands of feet above them.

On the most accessible of these mountain pastures the peasants have erected small huts as places of refuge for the women that herd the cattle in the mountains during the summer months. In these huts, which are called "saeters" in Norwegian, the milk is made into cheese and butter.

Some of these grassy patches among the boulders are, however, inaccessible to the cattle, but it would never do to let that excellent mountain grass, which produces such rich milk and gives such delicious flavor to the butter and the cheese, go to waste. The sturdy peasant lads and lassies climb into the most inaccessible places and cut the grass, thus increasing their winter stores by many tons of excellent hay.

A very ingenious means of transport has been devised for getting the grass from these meadows among the clouds down into the valleys below, consisting of a wire rope along which the bundles of grass are sent sliding down to the farms of the fjord. The "laupstreng," as this contrivance is called, very often crosses a ford, and besides bundles of grass, it may carry the produce of the "saeters," consisting of big bundles of white and brown cheese, tubs of butter and barrels of buttermilk.—Pearson's Magazine.

Small Dose

The regular dose of most medicines is a tablespoonful. A bottle does not last long. You pay out dollar after dollar, and then are not likely to be cured. The regular dose of

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy
Is a teaspoonful, and a bottle of it lasts four times as long. Quantity is important, but quality is ten times more important. The fact that Favorite Remedy is the surest and best medicines for the Kidneys, Bladder, Liver and Blood, is what you ought to keep in mind more than the small dose. It goes down to the lowest roots of disease, and destroys them. It cures pain in the back; frequent desire to urinate, especially at night; scalding pain in passing water, and discolored urine. It saves from Bright's Disease and Stone in the Bladder. It is a positive and deep-reaching specific for Constipation, Biliousness and Dyspepsia. It is far better and safer than pills or tablets, and makes the bowels move naturally, easily and regularly. A single dose works wonders.

Mrs. N. B. Crispell, of West Shokan, N. Y., says: "I have used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy for Kidney Trouble and Heart Disease, and it cured me. I am ready to recommend it to any one."

A large bottle of Favorite Remedy can be bought at drug stores for $1, or six bottles for $5.

TRIAL BOTTLE FREE.

Put some urine in a glass tumbler and let it stand 24 hours. A sediment at the bottom, or a milky, cloudy appearance indicates that the kidneys are in a dangerous condition and that Favorite Remedy is badly needed. Healthy urine is clear and does not stain linen.

A MOST DEADLY POISON.

Terrible Fate of Those Who Partake of Mushroom Phallia.

"One of the most terrible poisons of which I have any knowledge," said a chemist, "is phallia, of which but few persons have more than the most rudimentary knowledge, though the vegetable from which the deadly stuff comes is to be found in almost every field and swamp in the country, for phallia is the poisonous element in the deadly mushroom, the 'death cup,' as it has been appropriately called. Not only that, when phallia was first discovered, it was found that it was almost identical with the poison of the rattlesnake, so that death from mushroom poisoning is very similar to death from a serpent's bite. But still more wonderful it is not known that various bacteria produce nearly the same poison—the bacteria, for instance, of diphtheria and typhoid fever. It seems odd enough that death from the poisonous mushroom, from a rattlesnake bite and from diphtheria should result from practically the same cause.

"It is said that 25 people are killed every year in the United States by eating the death cup, mistaking it for the edible mushroom. It requires only a bit of the death cup to kill—a piece the size of a pea will do it. One case is cited in which a boy ate only a third of a small uncooked cup of the deadly mushroom, but it was enough to cause his death. Indeed, so harmful is the phallia poison that even the handling of the death cup and the breathing of the spores may produce serious illness.

"The death cup looks very pretty as it grows in the fields, and when eaten it has not the slightest ill taste, either when raw or when cooked. Nor is there any uneasiness felt from 9 to 14 hours afterward. Then come terrible pains in the abdomen, nausea and vomiting, followed by almost certain death, with many of the symptoms of Asiatic cholera. The effect of phallia is to dissolve the red corpuscles in the blood, permitting them to escape through the alimentary canal. The greatest care is necessary, therefore, in gathering mushrooms not to pick any of the death cups. They are easily recognized from the others, and there never is any need of making mistakes."—Chicago Chronicle.

QUESTION ANSWER D.
Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civil world. Your mother and grandmother never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of Appendicitis, Nervous Prostration or Heart Failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower in liquid form to make you satisfied, here is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale at W. C. Carmichael's.

It preserves the body for the strain upon it, and prevents the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. The Quaker and the Duke.

In 1790 the Duke of Clarence, afterward William IV, was a sublieutenant in the English navy, and the ship on which he served touched at Queenstown, then known as Cove. While there, his royal highness staid for some days with a family named Penrose, the head of which was an esteemed gentleman and Quaker. He did his best to entertain the duke in a manner befitting his rank and station, and among other assiduties the old Quaker always sat up to receive him on his return home from the convivial parties which the neighboring squires were only too glad to offer him.

The Duke of Clarence, as was the fashion at that time, had a liking for old port and was not squeamish at the quantity consumed. As a result he several times returned to his host's house in a state which bordered on elation. It is recorded that his host used the gentlest reproof toward him in these words:

"Friend William, thou art late again to-night, and I fear me thou art not too sober. If thou dost not amend I shall have to write to thy father, friend George, at Windsor."
