THE SHARP TRICK THAT WAS PULLED OFF BY A REPORTER.

A SLICK BIT OF WORK

A Case In Which an Alert and Resourceful Newspaper Man Managed to Cutwit a Gathering of Shrewd Politicians.

"One of the sharpest bits of newspaper work in my recollection," said one of the New York correspondents when the subject of getting news under difficulties came up, "was pulled off by a New York political reporter during the snap convention excitement in New York in 1892. You'll remember that the Hill people announced their intention of pulling off a delegate choosing convention in New York state while the cold weather was still on, and the Cleveland people set up a howl that could be heard all over the country. The Cleveland folks soon became known as antisnappers, and they united in denouncing the snap winter convention of the Hill people.

"One day in January the political reporters attached to the New York news papers got the tip by the undergraund method that William C. Whitney 'acalled a meeting of the antisnappers from all over the state, to be held in one of th main parlors of the Murray Hill hotel that night. The political reporters has tled around to get preliminary details a to the purposes of the meeting, but they were turned down everywhere by al hands connected with the antisnapper movement. Not a word could they get about what was going to be done. Moreover, they were told that nary a newspaper man was to be admitted to the meeting or be told anything about what had occurred after it was over. It was an important bit of news, and the men who 'covered' politicals were in a quandary. They held a meeting to consider the situation at the Fifth Avenue hotel. As they were talking, with their heads together. an up state Democratic politician, one of the antisnappers, passed through the rotunda of the hotel. He happened to be the living image of one of the newspaper men. The newspaper men gazed after the receding figure of the politician and commented on the resemblance. The Clay county upon the issue of the camman who looked like the politician spoke paign at the following time and places,

"'He's down here to attend that Murray Hill meeting tonight.' said he thoughtfully. 'If we could only sandbag him or give him knockout drops. I could act as F. Blythe and Hon. J. Williams will his substitute at the meeting.

"He thought it out for awhile and then turned to the crowd confidently. "'I've got it,' said he. 'I'll attend the meeting in his place. He won't be there. You fellows be on hand after the meeting, and I'll give you the stuff."

"It was then about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The political reporter, who was a real 'ringer' for the up state Democratic politician, went after the latter. He

"'By the way,' said the newspaper man, 'there's an old friend of ours up in White Plains taking the gold cure,' and he mentioned the name of a well known Albany man whom they both knew. 'I took him up there yesterday, and he was in a pretty bad way. He's always spoken pretty highly of you. I'm going to take a run up to White Plains to look him over and see how he's getting on. Come on up with me. You can get back by 6 o'clock.'

"'All right,' said the politician, and they got into a hansom and were driven to the Grand Central station. They were so busily engaged in talking that the politician didn't notice which gate they went through to take the train. They got aboard the Boston express, which only hesitates a few times on the way to the town of beans, the first stop being made places: at New Haven. The politician was blissfully ignorant of the destination of the train and figured that he was on a local bound for White Plains. When the brakeman sung out 'All aboard!' the political reporter said to the politician, 'Excuse me a minute; I want to go up forward to see if there's a boy with the afternoon papers on the train.' Just as the train was pulling out he hopped off. Shabby trick? Of course it was, but a political reporter's life is a warfare. "The Murray Hill meeting was called for 7 o'clock. About 50 of the most prominent Cleveland men in the state and city of New York were on hand, and they were solemnly ushered into the parlor where the meeting took place. They had to pass all kinds of guards and doorkeepers and sergeants-at-arms, but the newspapr man got through them all. His resemblance to the politician he impersonated was simply stunning, and he used some bits of make up to increase the resemblance. He took a seat in the rear, and he didn't miss a trick. The whole outfit pledged not to give a single detail of the meeting to the newspaper men first of all, and then the business went forward. Just when the meeting was about to adjourn the sergeant-atarms handed a telegram to Mr. Whitney.

"The newspaper man correctly figured that it was from the politician who had been sent speeding on his way to Boston. He quietly rose, picked up his hat and walked out by the rear door, nobody suspecting anything. We had no means of ascertaining what a bombshell the missing politician's telegram threw into the crowd, but we did learn later that it was from him and that he told in it of the iob that had been put up on him.

"We adjourned in cabs to another hotel, and there the political reporter who meeting gave us all of the details. He man at the meeting had been furnished. town, but he passed his pickings over to all of us, which was a pretty generous thing in itself, for we'd all have been in trouble with our papers had we been beaten on the thing. Every morning paper in New York had four columns on the first page the next morning about the antisnappers' meeting, resolutions and all. I saw Mr. Whitney a few days later, and I couldn't refrain from grinning a bit.

"'I believe you gentlemen could penetrate a vacuum without admitting the air along with you,' he said."-Washington

A Short Lesson on the Meaning of a Camillier Word.

Disease to the opposite of ease. Webster defines disease as "lack of ease, unesiness, trouble, vexation, disquiet." It is a condition due to some derangement of the physical organism. A vast majority of the "dis-ease" from which people suffer is due to impure blood. Disease of this kind is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies, enriches and "italizes the blood. Hood's Sarsaparille cures scrofula, salt rheum, pimples and all eruptions. It tones the stomach and creates a good appetite, and it gives vegor and vicality to the whole body. It reverses the condition of things, giving health, comfort and 'ease' in place of "disease."
