NOT ALL WILL VOTE FOR BRYAN.

Hickory, N. C., Nov. 3.-Notwithstanding the fact that ex-Senator A. Y. There was a good crowd out to hear the senator and his speech was well received. Your correspondent talked with a number of the leading populists in Catawba county last week and not one was found who will vote for Bryan. The majority of them will vote for McKinley and a few will not Professor Bernardi de Bach, the noted authority on balloons and airships, etc., and who in the past year has spent a furture, has solved the great problem of airships. Prof. Bernardi's ship is like a huge cigar, with fins and immense fans which make seven hundred revolutions a minute. The ship is seventy feet long and ten feet wide in the middle.

It can carry ten passengers. Run and lighted by electricity. Mrs. Bach made | not yet half suspected by the majority the trip with her husband. When the Professor was asked how he got his idea, he said he noticed that his mother, also his wife, made their cake and bis cuits (which were always light and nice) with the Rumford Baking Powder, so he purchased a can and added a litle water to the contents, and in a few minutes the ship began to rise.

FORECAST OF RESUNT.

New York, Nov. 4.—The republican national committee gave out today the following statement:

"On the eve of election the republian national committee's forecast of the result, based on absolutely authentic and unimpeachable figures and facts, differs from its previous forecast only in increasing the magnitude of the triumph which Tuesday will bring to the cause of national monor and prosperity. All the sources of the committee's information including many that are unwilling witnesses, concur in indicating the conclusion that Tuesday's election will prove a veritable landslide for McKinley and seal the loom of Bryan and Bryanism forever.

"All who have remunerative work to do, all who have wages paid them, and who have a business to protect and develop, all who have money deposits in savings banks or invested in homes of their own, have been confronted with a threat to reduce the value of their prosperity by one half and have been asked to ratify this suicidal proposi-

ALASKA'S WEALTH NOT HALF TOLD.

A Wonderful Climate Prevails in the South With Great Possibilities For the Sportsman and Farmer.

Reindeer have made themselves thoroughly at home in Alaska-that marvellous country whose richness in animal life and agricultural possibilities is of Americans.

The pilgrim fathers of the family were imported from Lapland in the early stages of the Klondike craze to be worked and eaten by the starving miners. They luckily escaped being eaten, and were later reinforced by 700 reindeer doe imported by the Government from Siberia.

From the mixed herd of 1,000 head, or a little more, they have multiplied to 3,000, and under Uncle Sam's protection they promise to play an important part in the future of Alaska and add greatly to its'wealth. The twenty-five Laplanders who came over with the first consignment are on their way home with about $700 each, saved out of their earnings as reindeer drivers and mail carriers.

But Alaska needed no importations to add to its fascinations. Gold? Of course-everybody knows about that, but everybody doesn't know that gold is one of the least interesting things about the country that Uncle Sam was shrewd enough to buy from Russia. Take strawberries. Alaska has near

Big Stone a strawberry bed seven miles long and two miles wide. Fourteen square miles of strawberries! And they are beauties. Nothing finer is grown in this country outside a hothouse. Uncle Sam can produce no nearer approach to the English strawberry, whose haunting fragrance is equalled by no other fruit.

Raspberries and blackberries, too, reach a high pitch of cultivation in Alaska, which is popularly supposed to grow nothing more nourishing than

Oats spilled by mules as they feed grow wild higher than a man's head, bushels to the acre. Alaskan tomatoes are described as big as a man's hat. All manner of fruit and vegetables belonging to temperate climes thrive amazingly and under proper cultivation

All this, of course, is south of Behring Sea, in a region where, thanks to warm ocean current, the temperature seldom reaches zero, even in the long winter nights. As for game, big and little, feathered, finny and furred, it is of unmatched richness, but bids fair to be extinguished by commercial greed and recklessness. Deer exist no longer, and the moose and the sea otter are hovering on the verge of annihilation.

Nevertheless, an Alaskan traveller has just returned home with a collection of the largest moose heads in the

This is how he describes the hunting of the sea otter by Indians, who can sell a skin for from $200 to $500: "At least eleven canoes, each holding a hunter, are necessary. When the hunters start out each is armed with
