

THE MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH

Yesterday's Quotations on the New York Exchanges Chicago Grain Market

FOREIGN HOUSES BUY HEAVILY

Highest, Lowest and Closing Prices For Active Stocks Cotton Market Point.

By private wire to Muroby & Co., stock brokers, 11 Church street.

New York, May 2.—The stock market opened active and with a rather feverish tone with declines predominating. London furnished a lower range of prices for our railroad stocks and foreign houses were sellers here to a moderate extent. Nothing that was new was reported from London as explaining the reactionary tendency of the American market there. There was a number of very notable exceptions to the general tendency of the early market. Union Pacific advanced with particular rapidity with the trade continuing in enormous volume. Atchison, St. Paul, Texas Pacific and the Wash. & Annapolis were likewise firm. Declines appeared in the Erie stocks, Pennsylvania, Louisville & Nashville, Missouri, Pacific and the Southern Railway. The U. S. Steel stocks were exceedingly active, but moved within narrow limits. In the industrial quarter, American Tobacco in sharp advance was a conspicuous feature, but the movements otherwise were rather uninteresting. Aside from the transactions and the course of the stocks in the market there was nothing confirmatory of recent reports respecting the status of the Union Pacific property. The marked irregularity of the market continued throughout the first hour of business. There were a number of sharp reactionary movements after the initial transactions, on the other hand some new stocks forged to the front in striking advances among them being the Hooking Valley issues. Interest in the Railway list, however, again converged largely upon the Union Pacific and Atchison issues.

COTTON.

New York, May 2.—The volume of business transacted in cotton today was quite moderate with initial prices 2 to 5 lower. A number of buying orders preventing any further decline on the feeling that the market may do better. Liverpool continued to display nervousness one of features of the day was the reported sale of some 100,000 bales of print cloths. In the judgment of long headed cotton men the dry goods situation and especially the attitude of spinners is all worth watching. There are inklings of nervousness on the part of some mill men owing to stocks having run low and the effect of their appearance in the market as buyers should not be overlooked and again the Liverpool situation gives shorts no little uneasiness spot prices in the market today declined to within 1-32 of one point below prices a year ago and this must ere long awaken spinners at Manchester to the wisdom of buying raw material. The various weather stations throughout the South from North Carolina to the extreme Southwest reported clear weather today. Receipts at the various ports were estimated at 100,000 as against 8,000 last year. Futures at Liverpool declined about 1/4 points at the near months while distant positions were 1/4 higher.

New York, May 2.—WHEAT—Trade in wheat was fairly active this morning and prices were strong and higher advancing easily in the early dealings, with the sharp rise in corn. There was a good deal of professional buying and covering with reports of dry weather west of the Mississippi river. The foreign markets were quiet, both English and Continental, showing very little change over night, and few foreign orders were received. Outside of the drought reported the weather conditions were generally favorable. The Price Current report stated that wheat maintained good promise. Wheat was firm in the afternoon with corn and provisions but quiet, closing firm. CORN—The market was excited and much higher Chicago May selling at 4 1/2 cents with a very unsettled nervous feeling, shorts were reported the best buyers with the other deliveries responding moderately to the strength in May. The weather conditions were favorable for farm work but the movement from the country continues comparatively light Chicago reporting only 218 cars today with 15 contract. Corn was unsettled all the afternoon on covering and moving quickly on small orders closing strong. Cash was very strong with some rumors of hot corn and of very large sales by Phillips to New York.

A Woman's Face

Tells its own story. A laugh is often a lie on a woman's lips. It is the pain which is tearing at the nerves. But the eyes have no part in the laugh. Their purple rings speak of suffering. There are lines too about the mouth which only pain can give. Many women look forward to a week of such misery each month. Three months of each year are given up to suffering. It weakens them. It ages them. It robs them of social pleasures and family joys. Can there be any excuse for such women who fail to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription? It has cured thousands of such sufferers. Cured them perfectly and permanently. It cures ninety-eight out of every hundred who give it a fair and faithful trial. It's sure to help. It's almost sure to cure. I had falling of internal organs and had to go to bed every month; had regular monthly periods which would come but last for twelve days, which would come but last for twelve days, which would come but last for twelve days, which would come but last for twelve days. I had no idea that I could not eat anything hardy. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription "Golden Medical Discovery" cured me. Free. GLIMPSES OF LIFE IN THE OLD NORTH STATE

Floating Items That Show the Trend of Industrial and Social Progress.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN THE LAND OF THE SKY

Gleanings From the Columns of the Local Papers in Various Towns of State.

A Goldsboro special says: Several weeks ago the report of the finding of a large chest of gold at Grant's brick yard spread quickly through the city. Enquiry elicited the fact that some workmen at a depth of several feet had dug up a metallic casket—he had spotted was once a burial ground—and at the request of Maj. Grant the casket was re-buried at the burial ground at old Waynesboro. All of the public, it seems, were not satisfied for recently the grave was tampered with and the casket broken into. Evidence of this being plain, Maj. Grant had his workmen open the grave and make an examination with the result as above stated. On the spot was found a Wayne cotton mill pay envelope for the week ending March 23.

Last week in Wilmington at a dance a young lady present lost a handsome diamond earring, valued at $200, and it could not be found anywhere. The Wilson Times gives an interesting account of how it was found. Miss Kate Hawley, of this city, was present and while she was dancing some one called her attention to a glittering object in the folds of her dress. Miss Hawley at once recognized it as the earring lost at a dance in Wilmington week before last, at which she was present. She had worn this same dress twice—once in Wilson and once in Fayetteville—since the diamond had lodged in its hem or ruffle and it is the greatest wonder it was not lost. It was found purely by accident and returned to its owner by registered mail Friday.—Fayetteville Observer.

The raging waters of the Catawba washed from their resting place last week, the bones of one of the members of a tribe of Indians from which that noble stream derived its name. Near Beatties ford, last Friday, a farmer chanced to see near the bank of the stream, what at once seemed, the skeleton of a sheep. Curiosity prompted him to make a more thorough examination. This revealed the fact that the bones were of a human and that, too, of a man. Around the shapeless neck was a string of beads—just the kind that the tribe of Catawba Indians were known to wear. There was other evidence going to show that the skeleton in life was none other than one of the band of Red Men that inhabited that section of North Carolina. Just where the grave of this Indian was located, will never be known. That it was near the waters of the Catawba is certain and that the lonely spot was washed by the flood waters of the recent freshet is also true. "Suppose J. Watt Hood saw the bones and he says that they are those of a man and he is also satisfied they are those of an Indian. When first discovered they were still saturated with water but when allowed to remain in the sun, they became brittle and would crumble almost at the touch. The skeleton was allowed to remain where the waters had washed it for a day or more. Some one passing, dugged a new grave, close beside the river and again covered what the waters unearthed.—Charlotte News.
