CHINESE PERSISTENCY. Why a United States Consul at Canton Bought Sugar Tongues.

The Chinese servant is a very good one, as a rule, but he has his own ideas of things and is very persistent in urging his opinions upon his employer. A former United States consul at Canton tells the New York Sun a bit of experience bearing upon this point.

"He's welcome to his sugar tongues," I said, "but I don't want any. I don't intend to have any, and you need not say sugar tongues to me again."

Two days later I dined with the Belgian consul. Wong went with me, and the next morning he praised everything and ended with, "He have got sugar tongues."

"Never to Be Forgotten." "No, I never shall forgive him," said old Mr. Shlimington, referring to the young man with whom one of his daughters had eloped.

"Good breeding is the result of too much good sense, some good nature and a little self denial for the sake of others.—Cheslerfield.

Conscience is that within us which tells us that our neighbors are doing wrong.—Chicago News.

PAYING MEXICO'S SOLDIERS. When the Private's Turn Comes, There is Little Silver Left. "Things have greatly improved for the private soldier in the Mexican army of late," said a resident of New Orleans...
