

GLIMPSES OF LIFE IN THE OLD NORTH STATE

Floating Items That Show the Trend of Industrial and Social Progress.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN THE LAND OF THE SKY

Gleanings From the Columns of Local Papers in Various Towns of State.

Mr. J. J. Richardson, a leading farmer of the Currieville neighborhood, was in town Saturday, and in speaking of the hindrance of hawks to the poultry business of the county, said that since last spring one year ago he had caught on his plantation twenty hawks in traps. The traps are ordinary steel traps, which were nailed to the tops of posts.—Carthage Blade.

Did anybody ever hear of crows catching young chickens? What they do with the chickens is not known, but all this spring crows have been darting down in Mr. A. A. Hoover's barnyard and carrying off young chickens. They are beating the hawks at the hawks' own game ten to one. There is no mistake about this, because they have frequently been seen in the act of grabbing up the chickens and flying off with them.—Newton Enterprise.

Last Tuesday morning J. M. Hammock, of this place, came very near losing his life in Mrs. S. W. Brewer's well. He had gone down to remove a lot of rock, a blast having been made the evening before, and was engaged at the bottom of the well, when he was heard to breathe heavily and was also seen to fall forward on his face in a small hole of water. Messrs. John Abernathy, Geo. Brewer, and Paul Williams went down at once and put him in the tub and had him drawn up quickly. He had been overcome with gas and was nearly dead, but Dr. Chapin applied the necessary retortives and he soon revived. It was a close call.—Chatham Citizen.

On last Tuesday afternoon, Zeb, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. F. Rush, Jr., while blowing a toy whistle, happened to have the misfortune to swallow it. Physicians were called in but could not locate the whistle. On Sunday morning after being hardly able to swallow for three days, he was driven to High Point, where with his mother, he boarded the train for Salisbury. Dr. J. W. Long, of that place, located the whistle in the lower part of his throat by using an X-ray machine. No operation was necessary to extract it, as the doctor worked it out with his hand.—Ashboro Courier.

In the western part of Davie county, the wife of Mr. Yank Gaither became unbalanced and the unfortunate woman slipped away from home and wandered about in the woods for six days without food before she could be found. Hundreds engaged in the search, but succeeding rainy days greatly impeded the work. At one time fully one hundred persons were engaged in the search. The unfortunate woman kept away from all dwellings, never traveled a road, but little in the field, sought the most dense forest, and on approaching a stream, although so small that she might step across, would pull off her shoes and wade, thus leaving shoe tracks on the other side. When found she was sitting on some bark with her apron stretched between a bush and a tree over her head for shelter. It was evident that she could not have traveled much more if she had not been found. It was feared, as she had been gone six days and as a storm of rain had fallen every day but one after she left home, that she might be found a corpse.—Winston Republican.

Of all the States of the American Union, North Carolina has the smallest per cent. of foreign born inhabitants, the percentage being .007. In New York 54.8 per cent. of the population is of foreign birth, in Massachusetts 60.5, while in North Dakota 80 out of every 100 inhabitants are foreign born. The average for the United States is 14.77. Or to put it in different form: Go to New York and more than half of those you meet were born in foreign countries. In Massachusetts, call upon 100 people and you will find only 40 of them native Americans. Or take 100 average Americans and you will find that 14 of them are of foreign birth. In North Carolina, however, if you pick out 1,000 people and range them in rows of 100 each, you will find seven of the rows with but a single foreign born person and 300 in the remaining rows all native Americans. In no other State in the Union must you pass 100 people before finding one person of foreign birth, being a single person of foreign birth. These thoughts are suggested by the statement that North Carolina's commissioner of immigration, Hon. John W. Thompson, finding his work brought forth no fruit, has resigned and will engage in other business hereafter.—Exchange.

CHILDREN'S ABILITY. All boys and girls show the same percentage of brightness, but the girls have five per cent. less dullees, and so in general may be said to be a little brighter than the boys. But this may be due to the fact that girls reach maturity sooner than boys, says Arthur McDonald in Everybody's Magazine. Children (boys and girls) of American parentage are brighter than both children of foreign parentage and children of foreign and American parentage. This seems to indicate that a mixture of nationalities is not always advantageous in its effect upon the offspring. Children of the non-laboring (professional and mercantile) classes are superior to those of the laboring classes in any of the advantages of good social conditions are favorable to mental brightness.

A PROFESSION FOR WOMEN. Landscape gardening is a calling that must be learned the same as any other. A young man would be expected to devote some years to its study and practice before he could be entrusted with the commission of work of much importance, and there is no reason why less should be expected of a woman. Good work is demanded, and in order to meet the demand there must be thorough knowledge of all its details, and this can only come through practical experience. If a woman has aptitude for the profession and is willing to serve an apprenticeship at it, as a man must, there is no reason why she should not physically strong.—Eben E. Rexford, in The Ladies' Home Journal for June.
