CUBAN TARIFF BILL PASSED

THE RECIPROCITY BILL AMENDED TO ABOLISH DIFFERENTIAL DUTY ON REFINED SUGAR

This Amendment Effected by Combination of Beet Men and the Minority.

VOTE ON THE PASSAGE OF BILL WAS 247 TO 52

THE ALLEGATION THAT THE CRUMPACKER RESOLUTION WAS USED IN A "BARGAIN" PROVES TO HAVE BEEN MERE BUNCOBBER TALK.

Washington, April 18.—When the house met today at 11 o'clock there was a prospect of a memorable session ahead. The general debate upon the Cuban reciprocity bill was to close at 3 o'clock and it was the intention of the leaders, if possible, to hold the house in session until the final vote was taken. The action of the democratic caucus last night, which decided to vote solidly for the removal of the differential on refined sugar, gave the leaders much confusion as they were unable to figure out exactly what strength the proposition had on the republican side. The disclosures of Mr. Underwood last night relative to overtures made to the democrats on the basis of an abandonment of the Crumpacker resolution added a new complication to the situation, and there seemed a likelihood that it might figure in the debate today in a sensational fashion. The whole atmosphere of the house in fact was charged with electricity and presaged the coming storm. Mr. Richardson of Tennessee, the democratic leader, was the first speaker today.

He made a careful, dispassionate speech explaining why he had voted in favor of reporting the bill. He stated frankly that he doubted whether the enactment of the bill would do much to bring about the reciprocity trade relations between Cuba and the United States, which was earnestly to be desired. But he had voted for it in the hope that it might accomplish something. It would, at least, reduce by 20 per cent. the outrageously high rates of the Dingley law so far as Cuba was concerned. These high rates could not stand and he said Mr. Grosvenor's speech a few days ago was a warning of the coming storm.

He thought the time for a revision of the tariff was at hand and that the fact that the pending bill began it in a modest way commended the measure to him. Mr. Richardson called attention to the action of two counties in the district of Mr. Babcock, of Wisconsin, endorsing the latter's bill to remove the duties from steel, and amid democratic applause he said that the democrats proposed to give Mr. Babcock an opportunity later on to vote for the bill his constituents had endorsed. He also outlined the democratic program relative to offering an amendment to abolish the differential duty on refined sugar. If this amendment carried, he said, five or six million dollars would be taken from the sugar refiners and given to the American consumers of sugar.

Just before Mr. Richardson took his seat, Mr. Bromwell, of Ohio, asked him this question: "Does the gentleman from Tennessee know anything of a reported bargain between the leaders on this side and the democrats on that, by which the Crumpacker resolution is to be smothered in order to aid the passage of the pending bill?"

"Absolutely nothing," replied Mr. Richardson.

Mr. Fordney, of Michigan, opposed the bill.

Mr. Hepburn, of Iowa, aroused considerable excitement by bringing forward the revelation made in the democratic caucus last night concerning the alleged overtures made from the republican side to abandon the Crumpacker resolution if the democrats from the states threatened would vote against overruling the chair. After reading the account of the caucus in a morning paper he proceeded with great emphasis to declare that the charge is true or the statement made was of a very serious character. "If charges some members of this house with attempting to traffic with the legislation before this body," he said, "it charges them with a willingness to shelve legislation which members here consider very important, in order to secure the ultimate triumph of this bill."

"I do not believe it. I think the gentleman from Alabama (Mr. Underwood) must have been mistaken or misinformed, but nevertheless, I think it his duty to this house to be more explicit and to locate this offense where it belongs."

Mr. Hepburn continued to express his doubt whether such alleged methods be resorted to to pass a bill which he was convinced ninety per cent. of the republicans were indifferent or opposed to it. He quoted from the speech of Mr. Grosvenor (Ohio), the statement that Mr. Grosvenor declined to support a bill for a fifty, forty, thirty, or twenty-five per cent reduction. It was only when the concession was reduced five per cent further that he was induced to support it. In other words, said Mr. Hepburn, had it not been for the last nickel of reduction the gentleman from Ohio, to quote his own language, would today have been with the insurgents attempting to divide the republican party and to destroy it.

"Great God!" exclaimed Mr. Hepburn, "on what a slender thread hang everlasting things." (Great laughter and applause.) Mr. Hepburn also satirized the two and a half hour speech of Mr. Long, of Kansas, which he described as a "great physical effort," which befitted the Kansas statesman for a championship in the prize ring under the Marquis of Queensbury rules. He denounced the feature of the bill to compel Cuba to accept our immigration laws when the greatest need of Cuba today was labor. If the Yankee was what he sometimes was said to be—cunning, grasping, avaricious and adroit—then he would say this section of the bill had been written by a Yankee.

The remaining time, after Mr. Hepburn concluded—two hours and twenty minutes—was divided equally between Mr. Tawney (Minn.), who closed the debate against the bill, and Mr. Dalzell (Pa.), who concluded for the measure.

Mr. Tawney, at the outset, defended the course of those on the republican side who had not surrendered their convictions that "thrift might follow law."

Mr. Tawney argued that if the best sugar industry were properly protected, in a few years it would supply the entire domestic consumption. It was for this reason, he declared, that the sugar trust was seeking, through the agency of this bill, to cripple and destroy its great rival of the future.

Mr. Dalzell insisted that it was our duty now that Cuba was to be set up on the pedestal of the world's republics that she started under fair auspices. While Mr. Dalzell was speaking several of the senators came into the chamber. The galleries had also filled to overflowing and almost every member was in his seat. Repeatedly he stirred the friends of the bill to applause.

Mr. Dalzell, in closing the debate for the friends of the bill, declared that it was not an attack upon protection. "It is not a revision of the existing tariff law or its schedules. It will not harm a single American industry or deprive an American workman of a single day's wage. This bill contains a single proposition for reciprocity trade relations, and is justified on plain business principles. But it is more than that. It is a step toward the redemption of the pledge we made, not to Cuba, but to ourselves, when we volunteered to intervene to fight the wrongs which she was suffering under the Spanish regime."

The united vote of the minority and the beet sugar republicans was sufficient to override the ruling of Chairman Sherman and attach an amendment to the reciprocity bill abolishing the differential duty on refined sugar during the existence of the reciprocity treaty with Cuba. With that amendment added the bill passed, 257 to 52.

The combination was exerted only on the motion of Morris (Minn.) to strike off the differentials, all other amendments being either ruled out or voted down. It was shown first and most effectively in committee of the whole, when, after Chairman Sherman had ruled the Morris amendment out of order, he was reversed on appeal by Morris, over thirty republicans joining the democrats in sustaining the appeal.

VIRGINIA WINS FROM CAROLINA

UNIVERSITY LOST IN TENTH INNING AT CHAPEL HILL YESTERDAY.

Virginia Scored Two in Fifth on a Doubtful Ball, which Umpire Called "Fair."

A LARGE CROWD AND GREAT ENTHUSIASM

Special to the Gazette. Chapel Hill, April 18.—The Carolina vs. Virginia game played here today, was the most important of the season played here. The game was a tie at nine innings. Virginia scored 1 at the tenth inning and won.

In the first inning Carolina went to bat score, nothing. Second inning, Carolina had two out when Sweeney makes fine hit and Carolina scored two. Virginia did not make first. Score, naught. Third inning, Carolina scored naught. First Virginia man made good hit but next three got out at first and did not score. Fourth inning, neither scored. Fifth inning, Carolina scored 1, Virginia 2, on doubtful fly. Here Carolina lost the game by the umpire not calling a foul.

Sixth inning, Carolina score 1, Virginia 2. Seventh inning, Carolina 0, Virginia 0. Eighth, Carolina 0, Virginia 0. Ninth, Carolina 0, Virginia 0. Game tied.

In the 10th inning Carolina scored 0, Virginia 1, and won game. The general opinion is that the umpire made an error in Virginia's favor when he called a line ball "fair" giving Virginia two home runs. But for this Carolina would have won the game.

Score by innings:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
N. C.	0	0	0	0	1	1	0	0	0	0
Va.	0	0	0	0	2	2	0	0	0	1

Carolina struck out, 8; hits, 7; base on balls, 2.

Virginia, struck out, 7; hits, 10; base on balls, 2.

There was an enormous crowd and great excitement. This is the first of three games, one in Raleigh tomorrow, and one at the University of Virginia Monday. There was great interest in this contest on both sides, and much money at stake.

Batteries: Mason and Crabcraft; Counsel and Sweeney.
