ASHEVILLE AND KNOXVILLE TO BE JOINED BY ELECTRICITY, OR STEAM?

And Who Is Behind the Enterprise, the Seaboard, or Some other Corporation? Southern's Purchase of the S. C. & G. E.—Southern and L. & N. Engaged in a Fight in Louisville over Entrance.

Knoxville, July 2.—The Sentinel this evening says: Another straw that indicates that there is a possibility of the Knoxville-Kimberlin Heights and Sevier Electric railway turning out to be a steam railroad and a part of the Seaboard Air Line or whatever road it is which is building in this direction from North Carolina by way of Asheville, is in the fact, that something over a week ago Engineer Harris went to the east to see electrical experts and get them to come and figure on water power and that he came back without them, saying that that matter would rest for a while. Another circumstance is that the road is to have a locomotive which is to be operated along the lines as it is constructed.

If it is to be a steam railroad, the question is could power be supplied to the road for all local traffic between Knoxville and Newport, which would make a big saving to use electric power furnished by damming the Pigeon river and thus making a combination of steam and electric railway.

The surveying corps left the city bright and early yesterday morning for the work. After today the force will not return to the city at night but will quarter at the farm houses along the way.

The contract to begin work on the construction of the road by July 1 has been fulfilled, it is said, with a little work of construction done, that the surveying corps has done.

Southern Now Has 7087.79 Miles
Atlanta, July 2.—The Constitution says:

The Southern yesterday took over the South Carolina and Georgia Extension railway, negotiations which have been in progress for some months being consummated. Under their terms the Asheville and Spartanburg, the South Carolina and Georgia Extension are merged into a new corporation and by lease the Southern acquires all three roads for purpose of operation.

The South Carolina and Georgia Extension's main line is 171 miles in length and extends from Marion, N. C., to Camden, S. C. There is also a branch line from Blacksburg to Gaffney which is 30 1-2 miles in length.

The South Carolina and Georgia Extension is part of what was intended to be a great system, connecting Charleston with the northwest. Recently it has been a strong connection of the Seaboard Air Line. It is thought by many that as a feeder the road will be a valuable accession to the Southern. It will be operated as a part of the Charleston division.

By the addition of this line the Southern gains 181.5 miles of road in North and South Carolina. Its trackage rights over the Plant system between Savannah and Jacksonville gives it an addition of 172 miles. By the accession of the two the total mileage of the Southern is put above the seven thousand mark—7,087.79.

Freight war in Louisville.

Louisville, July 2.—The Times today says: War is on between the Southern railway and the Louisville & Nashville over all shipments out or into this city from competitive points. The Southern today issued a circular offering to Louisville shippers payment of drayage on a number of articles which are sent out of Louisville in large quantities and which competition with the Louisville & Nashville is liveliest.

According to the Times' statement the action of the Southern was on account of the fact that the Louisville & Nashville had recently spent a large sum in terminal and switching facilities in Louisville, putting the competing roads at a disadvantage. While the Louisville & Nashville will allow non-competing roads to use the switches on payment of switching charges, it will not allow business to from a competitive point to pass over its local tracks. The Southern by the payment of drayage to its shippers, seeks to overcome this disadvantage.

At the Southern office here it was admitted that the circular had been issued but the claim was made that it was simply in compliance with the interstate commerce law.

GRAND DUKE BORIS TO VISIT WASHINGTON

Washington, July 2.—Preparations are being made at the Russian embassy for the reception and entertainment of the Grand Duke Boris, first cousin of the czar, who is expected to arrive in this country within the next few days. Upon his arrival the grand duke will come direct to Washington, where a series of fetes are planned in his honor. He will be presented to the president, but will not expect any public functions in his honor, as he is traveling unofficially, though not incognito. While in the United States he expects to devote considerable time to investigation of the immigration problem and the condition of American citizens of Russian extraction in the United States.

KING MAKES GOOD PROGRESS

TOWARD RECOVERY, SAID THE BULLETINS ISSUED YESTERDAY.

Local Pain Is Less, and Days are Passed with Greater Comfort.

ANOTHER REVIEW OF COLONIAL TROOPS

LARGELY A REPETITION OF PREVIOUS DAYS' FUNCTION, BUT A MUCH MORE PICTURESQUE AFFAIR.

London, July 2.—At Buckingham palace the following bulletin was issued this evening: 7 p. m.—The king maintains his steady progress. The local pain being less, the days are passed with greater comfort.

London, July 2.—The 10 o'clock bulletin issued from Buckingham palace this morning gives a hopeful prognosis of the king's recovery, stating that the king passed an excellent night and is making steady progress in all conditions. The wound is beginning to heal and is much less troublesome.

London, July 2.—The review of East Indian troops today was largely a repetition of yesterday's function, but the varied coloring of the uniforms of the representative corps from all parts of Hindustan formed altogether a more picturesque spectacle. Queen Alexandra was again the central figure of the proceedings. The review procedure of yesterday was followed. About 1500 dark skinned troops, headed by a detachment of the bodyguard of the viceroy of India, Lord Curzon of Kodleston, marched in the Horse Guard parade to the strains of Sousa's "Hands Across the Sea."

Members of the royal family who reviewed the colonials yesterday traversed the lines of soldiers of the Indian empire. The prince of Wales representing the king standing by the side of his mother's carriage, took the salute and the proceedings ended like those of yesterday with cheers for the king, led by the duke of Connaught, the Indians drawing their swords and waving them wildly as they joined in the cheering.

NORTH CAROLINIANS LEAVING WASHINGTON

Major Moody Entertains N. C. Army Boys.

Washington, July 2.—It is surprising to see the number of people who are leaving the city now that congress has adjourned. The North Carolina colony is breaking up fast and soon all will be gone except those holding positions.

Major Moody is a friend of the boys who wear the uniform of the army of the republic and he today invited to dinner the following named soldiers who are native N. C. boys and members of the 3d Battalion, Engineer Corps: W. D. Lissenbee, H. A. Hampton, Edward R. Phillips, Robt. Dewese, Victor Phillips and Edgar A. Hawkins. It is needless to say that the boys enjoyed the general Major's hospitality.

In answer to an inquiry from Paymaster S. L. Heap, U. S. N., Assistant Comptroller of the Treasury L. P. Mitchell has declared that S. C. Lemly, a native of North Carolina and Judge Advocate General of the Navy, is entitled to the pay and allowance of a captain on the active list.

Captain Lemly, though by actual rank only a lieutenant commander, was by virtue of his office a captain of the navy and went upon the retired list with that rank. Then he was continued on active duty as Judge Advocate General.

ued on active duty as Judge Advocate General.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon the remains of Lord Pauncefoot, the late British ambassador, were put on board the special train and started on the first stage of the long journey to England.

The removal of the body from the vault at Rock Creek Cemetery, where it has rested since the state funeral, was accomplished without ceremony.

The sealed metallic casket was not brought into this city at all, but was placed on board the special combination car at Stott Station, on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, at a point near the cemetery.

BATTLESHIPS TO BE BUILT ECONOMICALLY

MOODY SAYS HE WILL EMPLOY YARDS WHERE HE CAN GET MOST FOR LEAST.

Washington, July 2.—Secretary Moody says he will build the battleship which the naval appropriation act ordered him to build, "just as if the cost were to come out of his own pocket instead of the national treasury."

The secretary adds: "It will be useless to urge certain navy yards because of political or commercial reasons; for battleships will be built where they can be built best and cheapest."

RICHARD WAINWRIGHT'S SON TRAMPLED TO DEATH BY PONY

Mount Vernon, N. Y., July 2.—Richard T. Wainwright, Jr., the eight year old son of Richard T. Wainwright, a New York architect, was thrown from his pony today and trampled to death. He was out riding with his mother, whose horse threw her to the ground and then frightened the pony, thus causing the boy's death. Mrs. Wainwright was hysterical from terrible ordeal.
