The girl whose indeterminate character is quite as much a problem as a promise may find the stimulus she needs at Mount Holyoke, and might miss it, presumably, anywhere else. But, fortunately, this is only indirectly the affair of the woman president; sisters, cousins, aunts, and trainers in the secondary schools keep their fingers on the pulse of the machine. The leg immediate and personal responsibility which does rest with the woman president is to be found in her adherence to the body of doctrine, made up of slight traditions, fluctuating customs, and often apparently unreasonable preference, that passes under the name of college spirit. To direct, rule, use, modify transform, and even consecrate, this is one of the important duties of the president of a woman's college. And her position is more difficult than that of a man in the same place; for a woman is expected by her students to "understand" a thousand and one shadings of opinion and feeling, on pain of official death, where dense ignorance would be forgiven in a man, quite as a matter
