

HAS JUDGE GAYNOR, MIGHT RUN FACTORIES AND WORKSHOPS

Running for Mayor in New York, Larger Ambitions?

The Politically Inclined in the Country at Large Have an Eye on Possible Developments in N. Y.

NO GREAT SIGNIFICANCE, SAY THE HEARST PEOPLE

They Take Position That Result of Election Will Have no Effect on Next Presidential Campaign.

Washington, Oct. 23.—A New York special to the Post asks:

Is there an aspirant among the three men now running for mayor of Greater New York for the presidential nomination in 1912? Republican leaders here do not hesitate to say there is, and they spell his name Gaynor.

Mr. Hearst, because of his fight for the nomination in the presidential campaign five years ago, is charged with conducting all of his political moves with this inevitable end in view, and this is being used against him by some of his opponents.

As Seen by Parsons. "It is no secret among those who know Judge Gaynor that he has an ambition to lead his party in a national campaign."

"Of course, if Judge Gaynor were elected by an unusual vote, in the face of the opposition to him and the present practical certainty of his defeat, that very situation might make him available as a presidential candidate, but I do not think any of the ruling spirits in Tammany have ever given a moment's thought to the possibility of their candidate being in the presidential class."

Gaynor's Sacrifice for Nomination. Although the democratic candidate is a man of comparative wealth, his resignation from the bench entailed a loss of income that few men outside the millionaire class would care voluntarily to precipitate, and this fact justifies the suspicion in the minds of some that Judge Gaynor has resigned from the bench to enter politics with the express purpose of keeping in it until nominated for the presidency.

He had ten years yet to serve at $17,500 a year as a justice of the Supreme court assigned to the appellate division. This is a very important court in the State judiciary, and Judge Gaynor was fond of his work.

He resigned this place to accept nomination for an office at a salary of $15,000 a year with a tenure of office of but four years, even if he won the fight. He has pledged himself to serve the four years if elected and not to be a candidate for governor, which usually is considered the stepping stone to the presidential nomination.

THE PRESIDENT IS AT HOUSTON TODAY

There Was a Practical Suspension of Business, and Mr. Taft Is Warmly Received by Great Throng.

Houston, Texas, Oct. 23.—The people of Houston, reinforced by thousands of visitors from Galveston and other points within a radius of fifty miles, gave President Taft a splendid reception during his three hours' stay here this morning.

Would Rather Have Friendship Than Votes.

The president received the most demonstrative reception of his Texas trip here. In his speech he said he appreciated the greetings of the people of Houston, regardless of politics, and understood them to be a tribute to the head of a united nation.

The sidewalks and streets were thronged with people, and at several points along the route hundreds of school children were massed, singing national songs, as the procession passed.

Dallas Ready for President. Dallas, Texas, Oct. 23.—With thousands of flags and countless yards of bunting fluttering in the breeze and with the city crowded with visitors as seldom before in her history, the city of Dallas, metropolis of the great domain of northern Texas, is awaiting in eager expectancy the coming of President Taft.

Immediately upon arrival here the President's private car will be switched to the Texas State fair grounds, where the President will address the crowds from the race track grand stand.

Might Run Factories and Workshops With Internal Heat of the Old Earth

HOW THE DRILLS WOULD WORK AT THE BASE OF M. FLAMMARION'S GIGANTIC GEOTHERMIC PIT.

Camille Flammarion's idea of a great pit from which the internal heat of the earth could be extracted for the practical purpose of running factories and workshops is, of course, at present quite a hypothetical project.

A MARINE PARADE TO BE A FEATURE

THOUSANDS OF VISITORS ARE GOING TO WILMINGTON

Special to the Gazette-News. Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 23.—A marine parade is a rare spectacle for the reason that only seaports can present such an exclusive attraction, and for the additional reason that even in seaports they are not every day occurrences.

The thousands of visitors who will come to Wilmington to see the president of the United States, will find the harbor particularly attractive, while in the marine parade they will witness a spectacle that will be both grand and memorable.

In view of the fact that this great gateway is so signally important to Wilmington and to North Carolina at the present time and in the hope of the future for an equitable solution of the commercial centers of the commonwealth, it is fitting that the harbor shall receive its measure of significance as a state and local asset of great magnitude and as the one great factor that ultimately is to afford relief to the State's manufacturing, commercial and agricultural centers from the discriminating freight rates that hedge about their opportunities and circumscribe their enterprise.

Expected Gold Exports. New York, Oct. 23.—The stock market was weak today and money conditions here and abroad were again advanced as a principal reason, opinions of bankers continue to reflect much diversity on the subject; the prevailing belief being, however, that the situation abroad has been much exaggerated.
