

==OUR== THANKSGIVING!

WE WANT to thank our customers and friends most heartily for their support and patronage of the past year. It's been rather a remarkable year in the history of this store. A year of rapid strides—of sure and steady progress. We've gone ahead by putting difficulties out of the way—by giving in value always a little more than the purchaser expected. We're thankful to our friends for the friends they have made for us—for their kindly interest. We're thankful that our efforts have been appreciated. They've been hard, earnest efforts—that have shown results in our ability to offer Merchandise of the topmost quality at money-saving prices.

Our present big stock of Clothing and Furnishings is the very best example as to that. Suits and overcoats of the very newest, snappiest style—all pure virgin wool—many silk-lined—and at $18, $20, $25 and $30. They are values, a real buying opportunity that ought to awaken in you a little Thanksgiving on your own account. Your suit, your overcoat is here. May we help you select it.

AMUSEMENTS

Thanksgiving matinee and night—"Flower of the Ranch."
Matinee at 4 p. m.
Friday, Nov. 26—"The Golden Girl."

"The Flower of the Ranch." At the Grand next Thursday (Thanksgiving), matinee and night, there will be a stirring story of the rugged west set to music. "The Flower of the Ranch." This offering is by Joseph E. Howard, composer of "A Stubborn Cinderella," "The Girl Question," "The District Leader," and a number of others, but "The Flower of the Ranch" is easily the best thing Howard has ever put before the public, and that is saying a lot when several of these have had phenomenal runs. The story of the play is laid in California during the days of '49. During the rendition of "The Days of '49," a stage coach of the frontier day type is introduced and makes one of the prettiest of stage pictures.

"The Flower of the Ranch" is not a shogun opera, for there is only one pistol shot fired and that is back behind the scenes. It is a good, clean, wholesome entertainment and a decidedly novel character.

The company consists of Jess Harris, a comedian entitled to star; J. M. Clayton, John E. Frank, Charles T. Mast, Walter E. Long, Alva D. Simms, Mark Reed, Miss Nellie Watters and Miss Ellen James, together with a singing and dancing chorus of 30.

The scenic, electrical and costume production is adequate in every respect.

So as not to conflict with the Bingham-Mooney football game, which will start promptly at 2 o'clock, the matinee will not begin till 4 p. m., giving everyone ample time to attend the game at Riverside park and still be in plenty of time for the performance. The entire Bingham school accompanied by both teams, will attend the matinee in a body. The stage, theater and boxes will be handsomely decorated in the colors of Bingham and Mooney.

Reserved seats for both matinee and night opened at the Mountain City Stationery store, and indications are that there will be two capacity houses.

"The Golden Girl," Friday, November 26.

Hough, Adams and Howard have carved another notch in the ladder of fame with their latest musical comedy success, "The Golden Girl," which comes to the Grand for one performance Friday, November 26.

These authors have never yet known what it is to write a failure, and in the production of "The Golden Girl" they are said to have outdone all previous efforts, and made a distinct departure from all former successes.

The plot contains a pretty love story, with scenes laid at West Point military academy, and shows Messrs. Hough and Adams in their merriest mood, while Joe Howard's music is pronounced the best he has ever composed.

Forgetting the jingle, song and mirth of the lighter side of the musical comedy, there is always a scene that remains firmly implanted in the memory of the auditor. "The story of the devotion shown by old General Carroll, who served under Moberly and who worshipped the "Stars and Bars" better than anything else in all the world. His story of how he gave up his sweetheart to fight for what he thought was right, brings tears to every eye, and his beautiful character stands out like a beacon light through kaleidoscopic changes in this whirling spectacle of song and music. To say that the piece was staged by Ned Wayburn is an assurance that it contains many novel and unique features.

The principal parts are in the hands of Jimmy Lucas and Marie Flynn, who are ably assisted by a score of well-known players, and a beauty chorus of 50, such as only the LaSalle school turns out.

The big musical features are "The Indian Love Song," which gives ample scope for beautiful stage settings and picturesque costuming; and "Wine, Woman and Song," which contains many novel features; while the song hits include "I Think I Hear a Woodpecker Knocking on My Family Tree," "I Can't Love Everybody," "Let's Go Down and Take in the Shows," "Vive la Nuit" and "Kiss Me."

Reserved seat sale opens at the Mountain City Stationery store Wednesday at 9 a. m.

HOME OF MRS. HYATT DESTROYED BY FIRE
Blaze at Waynesville Did Considerable Damage—The Forests Burning on Utah Mountain.

Correspondence of The Gazette-News, Waynesville, N. C., Nov. 21.—The residence of Mrs. J. B. Hyatt, out near the railroad crossing, on the way to White Sulphur Springs, was burned last Friday night. Fire was discovered on the roof about 11 o'clock and is thought to have originated from a flying spark from one of the neighbors' chimneys. The local volunteers made good time, considering the distance and were able to extinguish the fire after the greater portion had been burned.

Mrs. Hyatt's loss is estimated at $5,000 with only a small amount of insurance. The streaks of fire seen from here last Saturday night on top of Utah mountain was a grand spectacle, in spite of thoughts of the thousands of dollars damage being done to the valuable timbers.
