The MARKETS

The Leading Stocks on New York Exchange—Cotton Market Quotations—Chicago Grain Market.

New York, Dec. 22.—Prices of stocks moved briskly upwards at the opening today, on a large volume of business. Gains were quite uniform and widely distributed.

The undertone of the market was firm, but the only display of interest was in a few metal stocks and a number of specialties.

Stocks of importance kept coming forward but the general list was little affected.

Stocks were affected by profit taking sales, but the market was otherwise strong. High prices for the day's buying were made by some of the market leaders.

MURDERED THE WAITRESS; THEN KILLED HIMSELF

Put His Arm Around Her, as She Bent to Take Dinner, Drew Pistol and Fired.

Peru, Ind., Dec. 22.—A man registered at L. B. Lenhart of Chicago shot and killed Dora Chappell, then killed himself, in the dining room of a hotel here today.

The man was 23 years old, the woman 18.

The woman, who was a waitress in the hotel, bent over Lenhart to take his order for dinner. Lenhart put an arm around her as if in affection, and drew her close to him. With the other hand he drew a revolver, shot her in the left breast and let her body slip to the floor. Lenhart shot himself in the heart and fell from his chair, still clinging to the revolver.

The waitresses ran from the building in a panic. Doran Chappell was a graduate of the Peru High school.

It Was a Love Tragedy.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 22.—The man who shot Dora Chappell at Peru, Ind., today was Roy McKinney of this city. McKinney's father said he and the Chappell girl became acquainted and fell in love when he was employed here. Her father separated them. McKinney had declared he would kill her and himself.

SUCCESSFUL ENTERPRISE OF FRANK LOUGHRAN, JR.

Is at Head of an Oklahoma Concern Which Pumps Sand from Bed of River.

The Loughran Sand & Gravel company is the style of a company in Muskogee, Okla., which has been organized to pump sand out of the river bed for use for building purposes.

Frank Loughran, Jr., son of Frank Loughran of Asheville is head of the company.

Asheville gentlemen who have recently returned from Muskogee say that Mr. Loughran is doing well, and that the patented machinery which the company is using to pump out the sand is working successfully. In that section of Oklahoma, it is said, good sand for building purposes is hard to obtain.

The machinery pumps out the water and sand, and dumps it into cars, the water filtering out, giving a clean sand which soon dries. The many friends of Mr. Loughran will be greatly interested in his success in the youngest state, where he has chosen to make his home.

STOVAIN'S MACHINE NOT SUCH A SUCCESS

Doctors Point Out Many Objections to Use of the New Anesthetic.

New York dispatch, 21st.

Dr. Jonnesco's recent demonstration of the effect of spinal anesthesia as produced by stovaine and strychnine has left the surgeons of the Post-Graduate hospital, where he performed four operations, in a good deal of doubt as to its value and advisability.

They admit that four operations are far too few on which to found any scientific conclusions, but in one case the patient nearly lost his life and in another the single injection given was not sufficient to maintain analgesia during the entire operation, they think great caution should be exercised in using this form of anesthetic.

The first case was operated on by Dr. Jonnesco himself. The patient was a German suffering from hernia. He was of the intellectual type, and expected to feel pain in spite of the assurances of the surgeons. The injection was made into the spinal cord just below the last dorsal vertebra, and for 25 minutes anesthesia was satisfactorily produced. But the operation lasted 45 minutes, and there could be no doubt that during the second half of this period, feeling returned. There were the twitching of the muscles and the rigidity which could not have been simulated if the pain had been merely in the imagination of the patient.

Second Injection Difficult.

In such cases Dr. Jonnesco, who asserts he is able to produce complete anesthesia for only 35 minutes, declares that a second injection can be made without danger. But it is pointed out that this means the suspension of the operation, the raising of the patient to a sitting position, and the exposure of the wound to the risk of infection. Consequently no surgeon would resort to it unless it was absolutely essential.

The second patient was an Italian of the phlegmatic type. He was suffering from appendicitis and was attended by Dr. Robert T. Morris and Dr. Alexander Judd. The case was a simple one, involving an incision of only 1 1/2 inches, and but little pulling on the tissues. The stovaine and strychnine produced the anesthesia required, but it was realized that in this case simple local anesthetics would have been equally effective.

Third Patient Collapses.

The third man to take his place on the table gave Dr. Jonnesco an opportunity to show his method of injecting his anesthetic in the upper part of the body. The man had a bone tumor on his forehead, and the needle was inserted between the first and the second vertebrae. Dr. Morris and Dr. Judd were the operators.

The patient was a German of an intellectual type, who had been subject to epilepsy, and St. Vitus' dance. Three minutes after the drug had been administered he lost all consciousness, as completely as though he was under the influence of ether or chloroform. In twelve minutes he was suffering from absolute collapse and failure of respiration.

He was rushed from the operating table to a side room, and there Dr. Judd applied the most heroic measures to bring him to respiration. He introduced an oxygen tube into his throat, applied hypodermic injections and kept up artificial respiration. By dint of hard work his lungs were restored to their normal functions, but for 24 hours after the operation the patient was subject to intermittent fits of delirium and had to be placed in a straight-jacket. Since then he has recovered.

Made Patient Merry.

In the fourth case, which was also operated by Dr. Morris and Dr. Judd, an Italian of a phlegmatic type had a hernia reduced. It was a simple case, and the surgeons believed that really no anesthetic of any sort was essential.

In this case the stovaine and strychnine produced the effects Dr. Jonnesco claims for them. The patient was a big, dinner after the operation, and is now described as probably the merriest man in the ward.

After returning to their wards all the patients suffered fully as great discomfort and shock as they would have done if ether or chloroform had been used. They were, it is true, free from nausea, but their temperatures went up to 101 or 102, and their respiration was also accelerated. In addition they complained of pains in various parts of the body.

On analyzing these cases the opinion of the Post-Graduate hospital staff is that anesthesia was undoubtedly produced, but that it had been brought on by a method that was dangerous. In two instances a local anesthetic or none at all was all that was really essential. From the third case it seems that stovaine may involve an immediate danger to the respiratory system, which would call for remedial of the promptest and most heroic character. There is also a secondary risk. The spinal cord is a most delicate organ, and in the hands of an unskillful surgeon it might be so injured by the puncture given to it that inflammation would be set up which might lead to the most serious consequences, even four or five years after the operation.

Two Per Cent. of Cases Fatal.

In this connection it is pointed out that there are certain statistics relating to spinal anesthesia produced by cocaine, of which Dr. Jonnesco's method is merely a development, which may well give pause to the general adoption of any spinal system of causing analgesia. For ten years after Dr. Corning discovered spinal anesthesia it dropped out of sight, but since then about 40,000 operations have been performed with its aid. The rate of fatality in connection with them has been about 2 per cent. The average mortality from ether and chloroform is 1 case in from 5,000 to 15,000.

The doctors also doubt the expediency of using stovaine in many cases for psychological reasons, especially operating on patients who have their intelligence awake. They hold that it would be at least doubtful whether a woman of nervous temperament would not suffer a severe mental shock if she realized what an operation she herself really meant. If she is shocked, on the other hand, she never knows the

THE DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Asheville People to Neglect.

Cure the kidney with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Asheville.

S. F. Miller, 39 Turner street, Asheville, N. C., says: "At times I suffered so severely from kidney complaint that I was laid up for several days. There was a dull ache across my loins, extending into my shoulders and a scalding sensation attended the passages of the kidney secretions. I tried a number of remedies and consulted physicians, but did not succeed in finding relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Dr. T. C. Smith's drug store. They disposed of my trouble in a short time and improved my health. I publicly
