

Appendicitis

How to Avoid It and Escape a Surgical Operation, Told by One Who Knows.

A Simple Method That is Always Effective—Trial Package Free.

It has only been a few years since it was discovered that a surgical operation would cure appendicitis; in fact, it has been but a short time since the disease was discovered and named.

Whenever there is an inflamed condition of the appendix, caused by impaction of feces in the small cavity opening into the intestine, you then have appendicitis.

The older doctors used to call this inflammation of the bowels, and were puzzled to know the cause.

Even now, with all the knowledge we have of the disease, no medicine man can tell you why we should have an appendix, why we find it where it is, or what are its functions, if it has any.

The disease for which the operation is a cure is usually caused by indigestion, and in many cases follows a large and indigestible meal.

Physicians have until recently recommended an operation, but now, as it is known that it is caused by indigestion, or dyspepsia, a cure without an operation is assured.

Where the patient is treated with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the unhealthy conditions prevailing rapidly disappear, the stomach and intestine are placed back in their normal condition, every organ of the body operates as it should, and the inflammation is reduced and the operation avoided.

Conservative physicians, who are looking after the best interests of their patients, will always keep a supply of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets handy in their office, where in cases of sudden attacks of indigestion they can relieve the patient at once.

There is no record of a case of appendicitis where the stomach and bowels were in a healthy condition and properly digested the food from their meal.

No better advice can be given to any one who has been threatened with appendicitis, than to tell him to go to the drug store, pay 50 cents and take home a package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Whenever heartburn, gas in stomach or bowels, sour eructations, acidity or fermentation are present, act at once. Take a dose of the Tablets and get relief as soon as possible.

At all drug stores—50 cents. Send in your name and address today, and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address: E. A. Stuart, Co., 159 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

NO AUDIENCE WITH THE POPE

colleagues of his American Catholic friends here, who believed that in the meantime the vatican might change its attitude. One of the former president's American friends who had been with him in Egypt, came to Rome Saturday without, however, any authorization from Mr. Roosevelt, and conferred with Cardinal Merry Del Val, the papal secretary, in an endeavor to avoid a situation, which as is now stands, has caused a real sensation in Rome, although it was not entirely unexpected. But his efforts were unavailing.

Situations Made by Vatican. While at Constantinople in February last Mr. Roosevelt wrote to Ambassador Leshman, saying that he would be glad of the honor of an audience with King Victor Emmanuel and the pope. The audience with the king was promptly arranged. Before an arrangement could be reached relative to an audience with the pope, several telegrams were passed and the negotiations were ended by Mr. Roosevelt refusing in any way to be limited as to his conduct and announcing that an audience with the pope under the circumstances was impossible.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Roosevelt, while declining to accept any conditions in connection with his audience with the pope, had neither directly nor indirectly made, during or after the negotiations, before or considered any engagement in Rome except those of an official character and he actually entered Rome with two definite engagements, the audience with the king and the dinner to be given in his honor by the municipality.

History of the Negotiations. The history of the negotiations is about as follows:

While at Cairo Mr. Roosevelt received the following telegram from Ambassador Leshman, dated March 23:

"Monsignor Kennedy, rector of the American Catholic college, in reply to an inquiry which I caused to be made requests that the following communication be transmitted to you:

"The holy father will be delighted to grant an audience to Mr. Roosevelt on April 5, and hopes that nothing will arise to prevent it, such as the much regretted incident which made the reception of Mr. Esplanade impossible."

Replying to cable to Ambassador Leshman, on March 25, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Please present the following to Monsignor Kennedy: 'I would be a real pleasure to me to be presented to the holy father, for whom I entertain high respect, both personally and as the head of a great church. I fully recognize his entire right to receive or not receive whomsoever he chooses, for any reason that seems good to him, and if he does not receive me, I shall not for a moment question the propriety of his action. On the other hand, I, in my turn, do not decline to make any stipulations or accept any conditions which, in any way, would limit my freedom of conduct. I trust that on April 5 he will find it convenient to receive me.'

On March 28, Mr. Roosevelt at Cairo received a cablegram from Ambassador Leshman, giving a message from Monsignor Kennedy, which concluded by saying:

"The audience cannot take place except on the understanding expressed in the former message."

The following day Mr. Roosevelt sent another message to the American ambassador, saying:

"The proposed presentation is, of course, now impossible."

Entirely Personal. Mr. Roosevelt particularly deplored this incident, which he regarded by his friends, both Catholic and Protestant, in America, as personal, and that it shall not give rise to an acrimonious controversy. With this end in view, he cabled today the following statement to Rev. Leman Abbott, editor of "The Outlook," at New York:

"Through 'The Outlook,' I wish to make a statement to my fellow Americans regarding what has occurred in connection with the vatican. I am sure that the great majority of my fellow citizens, Catholics quite as much as Protestants, will feel that I acted in the only way possible for an American to act, and because of this very fact, I most earnestly hope that the incident will be treated in a matter-of-course way as merely personal, and not as at all warranting the slightest exhibition of rancor or bitterness."

Hopes There Will Be No Rancor.

"Among my best and closest friends are many Catholics. The respect and regard of those of my fellow Americans who are Catholics are as dear to me as the respect and regard of those who are Protestants. On my journey through Africa, I visited many Catholics as well as many Protestant missions. As I look forward to telling the people at home all that has been done by Protestants and Catholics alike, as I saw it, in the field of missions endeavor, it would cause me a real pang to have anything said or done that would hurt or give pain to my friends, whatever their religious belief. But my purely personal considerations are of no consequence in this matter. The important consideration is the avoidance of harsh and bitter comment such as may excite mistrust and anger between and among good men."

"The more an American sees of other countries the more profound must be his feelings of gratitude that in his own land there is not merely complete toleration, but the best of good will and sympathy between sincere and honest men of different faiths—good will and sympathy, as complete that in the innumerable little battles of our daily American life Catholics and Protestants meet together and work together without the thought of difference of creed being a present in their minds."

"This is a condition so vital to our national well-being that nothing should be permitted by regarding it, better equipped and criticism, acrimonious attack and defense, are not only profitless, but harmful, and to us upon such an incident as this as an occasion for controversy would be wholly indefensible and should be frowned upon by Catholics and Protestants alike, and all good Americans."

Statement from Vatican. When the correspondent called at the vatican last evening great surprise was expressed when it was learned that Mr. Roosevelt had given out the text of the message exchanged by Monsignor Kennedy and the American ambassador, as they were regarded by the vatican in the light of diplomatic documents.

Monsignor Kennedy explained that on March 21, John W. Garrett, first secretary of the embassy, called upon him to "transmit" Mr. Roosevelt's request for an audience with the pontiff on April 5. He said that Mr. Garrett insisted upon the word "transmit."

"The following day," said Monsignor Kennedy, "I was authorized to send Mr. Roosevelt the first message which is quoted in his statement. The reference to the Fairbank's incident in the message was intended by the vatican only as a friendly intimation I notice that my second message is not fully sent. It ran thus:

"His holiness will be much pleased to grant an audience to Mr. Roosevelt, for whom he entertains great esteem, both personally and as president of the United States. His holiness quite recognizes Mr. Roosevelt's entire right to freedom of conduct. On the other hand, in view of the circumstances for which neither his holiness nor Mr. Roosevelt is responsible, an audience could not occur except on the understanding expressed in the former message."

After this no further communication reached Mr. Roosevelt. It further appears that it was John O'Loughlin, who was assistant secretary of state in 1909, and a great personal friend of Mr. Roosevelt's, who attempted to intercede with Cardinal Merry Del Val. The following semi-official version of what transpired at that interview was furnished to The Associated Press by a vatican authority:

"Cardinal Merry Del Val said to Mr. O'Loughlin:

"Can you guarantee that Mr. Roosevelt will not visit the Methodist here?"

Mr. O'Loughlin replied: "I cannot. Indeed, I believe that Mr. Roosevelt is just the man to go there. He will do as he pleases."

"It is indefensible," said the papal secretary, "for any person to ask to be received by a great personage whose feelings he would be unwilling to respect."

In the conversation the cardinal declared that no court in Europe granted unrestricted audiences.

"Mr. Roosevelt himself," said the cardinal, "when he was president, declined to receive persons unconditionally at the White House."

Without giving the names of the persons, the cardinal recalled a case where President Roosevelt having been erroneously informed that a certain person was visiting him by the authority of the vatican, immediately sent a cabinet officer to the apostolic delegate at Washington to inform the delegate that he could not receive this personage, but he meant no discourtesy to the pope by his refusal. The pontiff, when informed of this, replied:

"I esteem President Roosevelt more than ever."

Returning to the present incident, Cardinal Merry Del Val remarked: "It is not in any sense a question of religion. Mr. Roosevelt might have gone to an Episcopalian, a Presbyterian, or any other church except the Methodist, and delivered an address there and he would have been received by the pope even on the same day. But he could not be received when it was suspected that after the audience he intended to go to the Methodist church in Rome, which is carrying on a most offensive campaign of calumny and destruction against the pontiff."

The papal secretary even recog-
