ADD TO YOUR MENTAL WEALTH.
 Every thinking person, every educated or partially educated man or woman, ought to pursue, faithfully and systematically, some course of study.

If you like languages, carry a text book or story book of some foreign language about with you. Science, too, offers a broad and attractive field. Botany or geology will add to your culture and the higher delights of living. Simple works on zoology may be found that will make every excursion into the woods a keen delight. There are many books on plant life that will unfold a fascinating world that to you may be now unknown. The most vital problems of the world today, perhaps, have to do with the science of agriculture. Take it up, study it systematically, and you will be in closer touch with the pulse of modern life.

Have you ever taken time to study literature systematically? Or political economy? Or any branch of history? The world is full of carefully gathered, systematized knowledge, about the more important things. You should have your share of it. We are never too old to learn; to make our minds more dignified and elegant abiding places; to make ourselves more interesting to our friends and more useful to society.

A little added to one's store of knowledge each day, like a little added to one's bank account, soon becomes a source of great comfort and satisfaction.

MAKES ALL THE DIFFERENCE.

The following is from the Greensboro Record:
 Representative Morehead some time ago sent out under government frank a raft of circulars supposed to be of a frankable nature. Some one read one of them, or one of a batch of them, and wrote the third assistant postmaster general to know if this was permissible. A reply was received stating that it was a clear violation of law. Of course Morehead will not be prosecuted, but he will know better next time. In fact no one believes he did the job himself. Probably he left his frank around loose and someone, easily guessed, mailed the circulars in his absence.

Our contemporary speaks advisedly in saying Morehead will not be indicted. In the first place District Attorney Holton is too busy with his little enterprise of trying to line up Morehead delegates to bother about the little detail of whether or not Morehead is observing the law. It makes all the difference in the world whether it is Morehead or Blackburn who gets in bad at Washington.

Charlotte Observer: "According to The Gazette-News, an Asheville automobile recently went through a rail fence, over a fifteen-foot embankment and into a locust tree, all without killing or even seriously injuring anybody. No Mecklenburg car would think of taking all that trouble without at least furnishing enough casualties to make a front-page story for the newspapers." Asheville cars, as a rule, are merely frisky, not frantic. This is no doubt on account of our unrivaled climate.

There has been attributed to Morehead a willingness to give $5000 to make the State Republican. As Mr. Morehead feels that his election is all that is necessary to bring about this elimination of a Democratic majority he has probably concluded that it would be as well to spend the amount in advance. We may logically conclude that this accounts for the enthusiasm and confidence with which Marion Butler says he views the immediate future.

Thomas E. Watson feared he would be assassinated in Thompson, Ga., Saturday, but he was not. Four has been used so much lurid language about people that he probably feels the only way for things to be evened up would be by somebody killing him. Mr. Watson invariably takes himself too seriously in dog days; so do all other Georgians, except those that come to Western North Carolina for this season.

The census figures, we are told, will in all probability be ready within the next two months. This will mean more trouble for the administration. There will be gnashing of teeth in

A PARALLEL

Waynesville dispatch to Raleigh News and Observer, August 1:
 The republicans had their convention today. There were not more than 60 in the convention. Morehead was nominated for state chairman by J. W. Norwood, editor of the Enterprise; who had been served from the pie counter a piece of census supervisor. He moved that the convention instruct Morehead, and on this motion Postmaster Green locked horns with Editor Norwood and opposed instruction for anybody. He did not want the party chained to any man.

scores of towns in every State in the Union, and the Federal establishment will be held responsible wherever a town is not given the population to which it thinks it is entitled.

"The Central Labor Union of Asheville has endorsed the commission form of municipal government. At the rate it is now going this thing will be almost unanimous before frost," says the Charlotte Observer. The fact is that Central Labor Union is investigating the commission form.

We are hazarding that Senator Gore, although he is not a rich man and has at times been a pitifully poor man, would not take several times $25,000 for the publicity and notoriety he has received within the past week. The spotlight is as the breath of his nostrils to this ambitious blind man.

Our sympathies go out to that committee Democratic State Chairman Eller has named to coax the dove of peace to take up its habitat in the Sixth district.

At any rate, Lo, the poor Indian, has been getting it in the neck in Oklahoma. That, however, has been the Indian's history, more or less, since 1492.

New York's per capita debt is $157.54, but nobody is compelled to reside in that town except those who are in its various prisons.

Morehead plus Butler is expected to yield the superlative in headwork.

That Hook Worm Laboratory Work.

Editor of The Gazette-News:
 I note in your issue of August 1 a stricture on the work of Dr. Ferrell in connection with the hook worm campaign, and more especially in the examination of the specimens sent from the North Carolina National Guard.

It is claimed by the gentlemen interviewed that the work is not being done in a scientific manner and will be discounted by scientists, the claim being based on the fact that the microscopical work incident to the finding of the hook worm eggs is being done by undergraduates.

In regard to this I desire to say that the student of medicine receives practically all his instructions in Microscopical work, during the first two years he devoted to the study of medicine, except what he should have received already in his literary work before he entered the study of medicine. In is evident then that the two year medical student is as competent for this line of work as he will ever be, and in fact more competent than he will ever be again unless he keeps up his laboratory work. I might go further and say that this kind of laboratory work is often done by young ladies who are not supposed to know anything about medicine, and as a matter of fact has been done by a matter of fact has been done by a colored office boy.

Allow me to state further that the life habits of the hook worm and the effect on the human system was not worked out by a physician at all, but a man learned in Biology, Entomology, and Zoology, and this man after familiarizing himself with the Hook Worm has brought it to the attention of the Medical profession. This is no discredit to the medical profession, but at the same time the medical profession does not want any honor that does not justly belong to it. Mr. Stiles is a scientist and is recognized as such all over the world and is an authority on hook worm, and on many other subjects. He never studied medicine per se, but only in connection with his other scientific work. Our Mr. McCormick of the Health department of the city is a scientist along the same line, and is recognized as an authority on the house fly in the same way. Mr. Stiles is recognized as an authority on hook work. Mr. McCormick does not claim to be and is not a physician, and yet he can teach an eight year old boy to recognize the eggs, larvae and pupae of the fly in ten minutes and the boy's observation after that would be correct and scientific, and should not be discredited by anyone.

In the same way Dr. Stiles, or Dr. Ferrell or Dr. McCormick could teach anyone who is familiar with the microscope to examine for hook work eggs and that in a very short time.

I am sorry the gentlemen went out of their way to criticize Dr. Ferrell so unjustly, and am quite sure if they had given the matter second thought, they would not have done so.

Editorial from Waynesville Enterprise August 2:
 Officeholders are men who have rendered valuable party services. They came from the rank and file. Their loyalty has, in most cases, been proven. But it is not right to leave the management of the party to them WHILE THEY ARE IN OFFICE. Most of the evils of which we complain can be laid at no other doors than our own.

The writer believes Mr. Morehead, when elected state chairman, will take steps toward improving our system in this regard.

simply the rallying cry of those who expect to reap some reward by an alliance with the liquor interests, and further is born of a spirit of revenge by certain parties who failed of landing a job. Mark you, it will be a day prophetic of evil to the republican party when it turns its batteries against those who for a quarter of a century have battled for its principles and have seen it grow from a disorganized brigade to a great, well-disciplined, militant host. If upon its banners an invitation to saloons shall fly as its watchword and on its folds envelop the shibboleth, "rescue the leaders," those whose character, ability and fidelity have converted a weakling into a giant, what can we expect but overwhelming disaster?
