TWELVE SABBATH LABORERS KILLED

Crushed to Death Beneath Mass of Falling Rock—Ten Others Injured.

Jersey City, Sept. 12.—Twelve deaths have now resulted from the accident yesterday at Erie tunnel. The twelfth victim was John Lewis, a negro, who died in a hospital today. The ten workmen who were injured are recovering.

Nine Were Killed Outright.

New York, Sept. 12.—At least nine laborers were killed outright yesterday and ten others injured, one of them critically and all of them seriously, in the collapse of an overhanging shoulder of rock from above western mouth of the old Erie tunnel under Bergen Hill, connecting the Erie terminal in Jersey City with its westward divisions.

The collapse was directly beneath the edge of the Hudson boulevard which at that point runs along the inner line of Bergen Hill and though the actual slip was out of sight of the holiday crowds, thousands lined the boulevard all afternoon, peering down at the work of removal.

Of the known dead, four are Americans, three were unidentified and two were foreigners.

The American dead are: James Feehan, 50 years old; Fred Schuber, 20 years old; William Hallisey, 28 years old; Joseph Bowman, 19 years old.

Of the known injured the only one in immediate danger is John James, an American, 29 years old.

Drills Broke Down Rock.

For several years the Erie has been working at the gigantic task of carving an open cut for its passenger trains through the solid rock of Bergen Hill, which in some spots is 300 feet high. The cut was opened for travel not long ago, but there still remains the task of heaving a common portal for the old tunnel and the new cut, out of the edge where they will meet west of the boulevard. It was there that the fall came.

A wall of rock from four to ten feet thick still separates the two sets of tracks and eight sets of drills were pounding away at it yesterday. Their jar loosened a strip of rock some 40 feet wide and 20 feet high. It peeled off like wall paper and toppled crashing into the spot where the gang were tearing down brickwork at the mouth of the old tunnel. Instantly they were crushed under a mass of debris and hidden in clouds of dust.

The 1914 league season of the Southeastern association has come to a close. The end came Saturday with Asheville winning from Johnson City, Knoxville winning from Rome and Morristown taking the final game from Gadsden. Knoxville clinched the pennant with Morristown second, Johnson City third and Asheville fourth. Rome pummed Asheville for fourth place ending the season only six points behind the Mountaineers. Gadsden was an easy winner of the tail-end place.

In the game Saturday Hall pitched star ball, allowing Johnson City but four hits and winning his final game by a score of 3 to 1. Garner and Burleson, in the box for the Soldiers were hit freely. Asheville pitched out by making one run in the first and after that there was no scoring until the fifth inning when the Soldiers made a run and tied the score. The score was not long tied, however, for in the next inning the Mountaineers pushed two men over the home rubber and the score ended that way—3 to 1 for the Mountaineers.

SCENE FROM "THE SOUL KISS" AT THE AUDITORIUM, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 15.

The Big Broadway Success at the Auditorium, Thursday, Sept. 15.

One of the season's chief offerings at the Auditorium is the two-act musical comedy, "The Soul Kiss," which brings out the services of a large force of fun-makers, singers and dancers, numbering in all a cast of 80 people. The comedy has a distinct plot and abounds in many comic scenes and colorful stage views.

The scenes are laid in the Latin, as well as the fashionable quarters of Paris, and the story involves adventures of a young artist, who is in search of a "soul kiss" which he describes as a "kiss that rises from the heart to the lips. The new musical interpolations offer many diverting possibilities of which due advantage has been taken in staging same, there being some 20 musical offerings, chief among which is the eccentric comedy

"Has anything been discovered on Venus?" asked the student of astronomy.

"No," replied the old professor, whose mind had slipped a cog and transported him into mythological fields, "not if the pictures of her are authentic."—Brooklyn Citizen.

"What is woman?" asked the speaker.

"Woman," replied a man in the audience—a married man—"is an animal being, with the power of speech abnormally developed, and entirely surrounded by a dress that buttons up the back."

SELECT GEORGIA MAN AS PRESIDENT AND ADJOURN

Second Class Postmasters Had Interesting Three Days' Session at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 12.—J. O. Varnado, postmaster at Valdosta, Ga., was elected president of the National Association of Second Class Postmasters, which closed Saturday afternoon. The convention will meet next year at Washington, D. C., on a date to be named by the executive committee.

Mrs. J. A. Longstreet of Gainesville, Ga., widow of the famous southern chieftain, General James Longstreet, has served for a number of years as vice president for Georgia in the national association. She had much to do with the organization of the Georgia Association of Presidential Postmasters and with the plans which brought to Gainesville the first meeting of the organization ever had in the south. Mrs. Longstreet declined a re-election to the vice presidency for her state and Miss Lizzie Hamilton, postmistress at Buford, Ga., was chosen in her stead.

Among those who addressed the convention Saturday was General W. G. Grant, superintendent of the railway mail service. He said the government is not wasting a cent in the vast postal system and said the government is paying the railroads millions of dollars a year for carrying the mails and is getting millions of dollars worth of service in return. He reviewed the growth of the mail service and stated that the standard of service is steadily improving.

A Terrible Punishment.

She was about ten years old, and apparently very unhappy. A swollen face served to diagnose the case at a glance as an advanced stage of toothache. Over the door they entered was a sign which, being interpreted, read, "Doctor of Dental Surgery."

The mother led her to the operating chair and smoothed back her tousled hair as she laid her head in the little rest. Looking her straight in the eye, with finger poised, for emphasis, the mother said: "Now, Edith, if you cry I'll never take you to a dentist again."—September Lippincott's.
