THIRTY-ONE MEN ARE YET MISSING

Several Reported as Missing Turned up Safe—Medals May Be Given for Heroism.

New York, Oct. 4.—There is still hope that the list of the probably drowned, from the swamping of the battleship New Hampshire's barge in the Hudson Saturday night, may be further reduced by reports from men set down as dead or missing who may still be alive but unlocated.

A striking feature of the tragedy is the revelation of the fact that so many sailors, men who live upon the water, are unable to swim. A recent census of the ship showed that more than 200 were unable to swim.

In the face of these cheerful developments two other drownings among sailors of the fleet occurred yesterday. One of the crew of the Kansas, believed to have been Regent, gave his life in saving a young woman visitor to the battleship.

Last night a sailor, cleaning the side of the hospital ship Solace, lost his balance and was swept under the vessel by the swift tide. A companion dived to the rescue but without avail. The name of the victim was not learned.

Grappling for the lost New Hampshire men brought no results. One sailor's body was found, but examination showed it to be that of Joseph V. Dudley, a coal passer from the repair ship Panther.

Memorial services for the dead were held on the New Hampshire yesterday afternoon. They were attended by all the officers and crew of the New Hampshire, by officers of all the other naval vessels in the North River and a complement of fifty men from each ship.

STATE'S EXHIBIT WAS BEST AT OHIO VALLEY EXPOSITION

In Minerals, Fisheries, Fruits and Grains Excelled Those Shown by Every Other State.

Gazette-News Bureau, Chamber of Commerce Rooms, Holton Building, Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 3.

Announcement is made from the office of Governor Kitchin that a North Carolina State board for the American Red Cross Society has been formed, composed of Governor Kitchin as president, Joseph G. Brown of Raleigh, Col. Alex J. Enoch of Raleigh, Horatio Clarkson of Charlotte, Capt. James P. Sawyer of Asheville and Bishop Robert Strange of Wilmington.

This board is to serve as a standing finance committee for the American Red Cross Society in this state, members of the commission receiving contributions toward any fund being raised for great disasters for which the society may be gathering funds and forwarding them to the treasurer of the board, Joseph G. Brown, of Raleigh, and he in turn to the general treasurer. It is a notable fact in this connection that President Taft is president of the Red Cross Society for the United States and the United States war department audits its accounts and all insofar as they relate to its dealings in this country.

In its international work during the past four years the Red Cross Society has distributed in its relief work nearly five millions dollars.

Passenger Station Plans Rejected. An order rejecting the plans submitted by the Atlantic Coast line for remodeling the Fayetteville passenger station is made with directions that revised plans be submitted within 30 days.

The commission pronounced rejected plans inadequate because waiting rooms are too small and general arrangements are not what they should be.

THEY REPRESENT $14,000,000,000

The Aggregate Capital, Surplus and Deposits of Banks in the American Association.

PRESIDENT IN HIS ADDRESS DEPLORES THE POSTAL BANKS

Says Attitude of Association Upon Bank Guaranty Plan is Justified in Oklahoma.

Los Angeles, Oct. 4.—The annual report of the general secretary of the American Bankers' Association, read today by Secretary Fred Farnsworth, shows that the association has a total membership of 13,305 banks, and that the aggregate capital, surplus and deposits of membership is $14,000,000,000.

Louis E. Pierson of New York, president of the association, delivered his annual address, saying in part: "The past year has been an active one for our association. Your postal savings bank committee strenuously opposed the adoption of the law establishing such institutions, but in spite of its efforts and the active work of its indefatigable chairman, Mr. Lucius T. Moore, president of the Chicago Savings bank, congress enacted such a law June 25, 1910, through the insistence of the Administration that the party's pledge in its campaign platform should be carried out.

"The opposition of our association was based upon the principle that it is improper for the government to extend its paternalism and enter the banking business as it would be to enter the grocery or any other business; that there would always be a temptation on the part of succeeding administrations to regard the deposits so received as revenue rather than obligations; that such deposits, if accumulated to a vast amount and payable on demand, would in any future war crisis, weaken the national credit when that credit should be strongest; that, while adopted in other countries, it is a question whether it is beneficial or harmful to our country as completely and effectively served by savings institutions in the East operated under state laws and supervision of unquestioned stability, and in the West by savings departments in National and State banks—thus offering every facility and protection, such a departure by the National Government is entirely unnecessary.

"While the law, as passed, places its operations in the hands of a committee somewhat as an experiment, it is reported that there is being exerted the political pressure for individual benefit predicted by our members and so repugnant to all principles of good government.

"The attitude of our association has been justified in its opposition to the bank guaranty hereby by the report of the condition, being not beneficial, and that it can only be hoped that Congress will heed the unanimous warnings of our members as to the ultimate consequences of a Postal Savings Bank system and at an early date repeal the present law.

"During the year the failure of two cotton houses and one grain concern revealed Bill of Lading frauds totalling nearly $10,000,000. This condition, long predicted by your Bill of Lading Committee, precipitated a loss of confidence in this document as an instrument of value to the extent of foreign bankers, largely affected through these frauds, passed resolutions announcing their determination to withhold acceptance of drafts drawn against Cotton Export Bills of Lading after October 31, 1910, unless the American banks through whose hands they passed would guarantee both the genuineness of the signature of the railroad agent on the bill and the receipt of the cotton by the railroad.

"This stand no doubt was influenced by the failure of our senate to enact into law the Stevens bill, drawn to hold issuing carriers liable for bills of lading signed by authorized agents whether or not the goods had been received, which bill, by a vote suspended the rule of the House, was passed by that body earlier in the session.

The space swept comprises almost three acres of lumber yards, factories and stables on 11th avenue, 24th and 25th streets. For nearly four hours the fire was beyond the control of the fire department and it was stopped at length by an accumulation of apparatus which combined threw water at the rate of 25,000 gallons a minute.

Five hundred horses were rescued from stables. The fire was remarkably free from serious accidents. One fireman was badly hurt by a bucking horse and several others were less seriously hurt.

The fire started in the lumber yard of Moore Brothers, 11th avenue and 24th street, quickly destroyed it and soon ignited the kindling wood factory of Clark & Wilkins which was likewise burned to the ground. Besides these structures the following were either destroyed or badly damaged.

Six story factory of the New York Metal Ceiling company; stables and storehouses of James J. Duffy, contractor; the Pennsylvania hotel, a three story structure; warehouse A, United States Express company; vacant two story factory of the Atlas Metal Bed company.
