HE MAKES HIMSELF ISSUE IN NEW YORK

Roosevelt Says Business Men Should not Be Afraid of "Roosevelitism" — Replies to Dix.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The campaign grew livelier yesterday as Theodore Roosevelt traveled about central New York state. Both fell all day long but at every place at which Roosevelt stopped crowds gathered to cheer him.

In his speeches he dwelt particularly on Rooseveltism as an issue. He told the people that some business men of the state were afraid of it. He said that any fear of him or of Henry L. Stimson, republican candidate for governor, was baseless, and that the attack had been raised by Wall Street. Roosevelt also replied to John A. Dix who said Monday that the Colonel had misrepresented him by saying that he had been connected with the Wall paper combine. The Colonel did not make the apology which Mr. Dix demanded. He insisted that Mr. Dix had not shown that he was not connected with the trust which the Supreme court declared illegal.

The speech last night was in large part an appeal to business men not to be alarmed at Rooseveltism.

There has been an attempt on the part of these business men who are crooked to mislead and frighten their colleagues who are not crooked and especially to mislead and frighten the small business men by telling that Stimson is important in elected governor, because Stimson is closely allied with me, and I, forsooth, am a

READY TO GRADE NEW TROLLEY LINE

Contractors Figuring on Job—West Asheville Line Is to Extend About Two Miles Out.

IT WILL PROBABLY BE READY BY THE TIME HIGH BRIDGE IS

Electric Company Has Franchise to County Line, and May Eventually Extend the Road.

The Asheville Electric company is preparing to push the construction of the West Asheville line so as to have the line ready for traffic about the time the new bridge across the French Broad river is completed. Several local contractors are now figuring with the company in regard to grading the line from the bridge to Jarrett's store, the proposed end of the line at present.

The contractors of the new high bridge, C. B. Clarke & Co., are getting along nicely with the work and if nothing prevents they will likely have the bridge completed in about two months. The rails for the West Asheville electric line are being laid in the center of the bridge as it is constructed. Steel cross-ties are embedded in the concrete, the rails are fastened to these and the whole embedded in concrete.

The West Asheville extension will be about two miles in length from the passenger depot. Jarrett's store is at the intersection of the Haywood road and the Sand Hill road. The coming of the electric line to West Asheville will mean much to the people of that section since many of them have business in Asheville every day, and many working in the city. It is believed that the line will be well patronized from the start. While the Electric company has a franchise from the county to follow the Haywood road in the county line at Turpicks it will not only as far as Jarrett's store for the present, the extension as far as Asheville school, of course, depends upon what patronage the company finds and the settlement of the territory through which it is to pass. The road will be completed before spring.

BROTHER OF L. L. JENKINS DIES IN NEW YORK CITY

Aaron D. Jenkins, who dropped dead in New York Sunday night while walking along Fifth avenue, was a brother of L. L. Jenkins, first vice president of the American National Bank of this city. Mr. Jenkins was the oldest of five sons of the late State Treasurer Jenkins of North Carolina and was 62 years of age.

He had been living in New York for the past 25 years and was engaged in buying and selling stocks and bonds for himself. He resided with a son, who survives, as does his wife, a daughter of the late Dr. Thomas H. Pritchard. The interment was made in New York.

When his father was state treasurer from 1868 to 1877, Mr. Jenkins served as cashier of the treasury department. He served with the Confederate army during the war.

HOLTSLAW GOT HIS SHARE AND ALSO GOT IMMUNITY

Conspiracy Charges in Connection With Furniture Contracts Being Aired in Illinois.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—State Senator D. W. Holtslaw and J. W. Knox of Chicago, salesman for the Derby Book company, were the first witnesses called in the trial of Senator Stanton C. Pemberton and Representative Joseph S. Clark, charged with conspiracy in the awarding of the contracts for new furniture for the Illinois legislature.

Senator Holtslaw was also indicted in the case, but was granted immunity previous to his confession, in which he bore the details of the alleged conspiracy. Holtslaw said he had been promised $1500 to vote for Ford & Johnson company by A. B. Johnson, of this city, who declared this was $500 more than either Senator Pemberton or Representative Clark was to get.

J. W. Knox stated that in a conversation, Pemberton asked if there was anything in voting for Knox. Knox declared Clark asked him how much there was in the contract. Knox told him he did not know. Knox said the day before the contract was let he talked with Holtslaw who also wanted to know how much "was in it," and when Knox asked "how will $500 each do?" Holtslaw replied he would not look at that amount. Pemberton said next day, declared the witness, that the firm represented by witness was not going to get the contract. Otto Fier, who represented the successful bidder in the furniture contract was called by the state. The witness said that he conversed with Pemberton, Clark and Holtslaw about the contract. He said at one time Clark told him he would have to have $1,000 for his vote and that Holtslaw at first demanded $500 but later agreed to accept $1500. The defense made a motion to have the defendants declared not guilty, as no case had been made.

DETAILS OF UNVEILING OF JUNALUSKA SHAFT

Some of the History of the Brave Cherokee Chieftain Whose Memory Is Honored.

Robbinsville, Oct. 26.—One of the greatest crowds of patriots ever gathered in Western North Carolina is expected to attend the unveiling of the Junaluska Monument, at Robbinsville Saturday at 1 o'clock p. m. For more than a half-century the grave of the brave old chief has been left unmarked, and amazingly little has ever been recorded by our historians of the infinite debt the white man owes for his faithful service, especially, that which was rendered Andrew Jackson, at Horse Shoe Bend, Ala., March 27, 1814, where Junaluska saved Jackson's life, and really won the victory for him, as Jackson himself most gratefully acknowledged.

A deed so unselfishly brave and noble cannot be forgotten; and now those good patriotic women of Winston-Salem, General Joseph Winston chapter, D. A. R., propose to give the grave a mark that will do much to enshrine the illustrious Cherokee in the thankful memory of every true American. At the time of his valiant assistance to Jackson, at the battle of Horse Shoe Bend Junaluska had his home in what is now Graham county, and very near the village of Robbinsville, which has since been built.

The state of North Carolina, as a reward for his services, gave him a tract of more than 200 acres of the finest land in his section—a tract that in later years has been known to many as the Smythe farm. Robbinsville, the county seat of Graham, was built on this land.

In the southern suburbs of the village, on a beautifully wooded ridge, is the grave of the chief, and near his side rests the body of "Niece," his squaw. For several years this tract of land has been in the possession of George E. Walker, of Robbinsville, and was included in his recent sale of immense lands and other property to the Whiting Lumber company, resulting only the few square yards where rest the two bodies mentioned—Junaluska and his squaw. This square Mr. Walker donated and deeds to the D. A. R. chapter that erects the monument.

On the farm of Alfred and Robert Colvard, near Robbinsville, and on the banks of the beautiful Tellico river, Mother Nature has placed a magnificent building, which the owners contribute to the cause. This will be transported to the grave, and as it will be attached a handsome tablet of iron, bearing the memorial inscription to Junaluska, with special mention of the aid and victory at Horse Shoe Bend. Around the square enclosing the graves a splendid fence of iron will be placed, and on the gate, in artistic letters, the same immortal name—"JUNALUSKA."

The unveiling ceremony will be most interesting. Besides the party rendered by the Daughters of the American Revolution, there will be speaking by eminent orators, fine music, a biographical sketch of the chief; and, as will be very especially enjoyed, several aged citizens will give personal reminiscences of Junaluska. The veil, a large American flag, will be lifted by two of the Cherokees. In the music, also, the Indians will assist, one chorus, at least will be given entirely by them. It is also hoped that their spiritual leader will favor the occasion by a speech. In the county of Graham, not fewer than 200 of the gentle Cherokees still reside in their loved mountain homes. Almost as a unit, they are expected to be present at the unveiling.

The exact date of Junaluska's birth is unknown. His death occurred in his cabin home, near Robbinsville, November 20, 1858. According to the most reliable estimates, he had reached the age of almost 100 years almost, if not entirely.

On November 2 and 3, the Annual state congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be in session at Statesville, on the fourth, the members will make the journey to Robbinsville; and on the fifth, the unveiling. Address is the nearest railway station. From that point to Robbinsville, a distance of a dozen miles, the journey is by private conveyance, and over a most picturesque road. Good livery is always ready at Andrews. The drive to Robbinsville is made in a few hours.

The gates of the village are open; the doors of the homes are open; the hearts of the people are open; and to every part of the Southland, and all through our great U. S. A., goes an invitation most broad and hearty for every loyal, loving, grateful patriot to be present.

FUNERAL OF DR. J. A. REAGAN IS HELD AT WEAVERVILLE

Body Laid to Rest in Family Cemetery, with Masonic Rites—Large Number of Friends Present.

The funeral services and the burial of the late Dr. J. A. Reagan were conducted at Weaverville this morning in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. A long procession of carriages and people on foot formed at the residence at 10:30 o'clock, and from there followed the body to the church where the services were conducted by Rev. Dan Atkins, D. D., and Rev. A. W. Plyler, D. D.

From there the procession proceeded to the family cemetery and the body was laid to rest according to the Masonic rites. The pallbearers consisted of six of the younger grandsons. Several physicians of Asheville were present to pay their last respects to the memory of the oldest member of the Runcorn county medical association.

The floral tributes were beautiful and numerous. At a special meeting of the Runcorn County Medical society held Tuesday preparations were made for the purpose of honoring the late member. A committee consisting of Dr. S. Westray Battle, Dr. J. H. Williams, and Dr. H. B. Weaver was appointed to draft resolutions of respect and to select floral tributes.

There are only eleven periodic convulsions of which the return has been observed.

The marine locomotive staging is a kind of platform that walks about in the water and in English harbors it has been employed for subaqueous borings, rock removal, construction of piers, setting caissons, recovering sunken cargo and a variety of other operations in places too exposed for barges. It was first used some years ago at Peterhead, Scotland, for removing 10,000 cubic feet of granite about 24 feet below high water. A recent machine for Whitty harbor improvements consists essentially of two structural steel frame-works, one within the other, so arranged as to move independently, and to support each other in turn in moving. Four legs on each frame can be raised independently of each other. In making a step, the legs of one frame—say the inner—are raised, the weight then resting on rollers carried on the outer frame, and this part is then pulled forward by tackles stretched to the outer frame is pulled along on rollers resting on the inner. In practice a third frame is desirable and in this particular machine each step forward or backward is 10 feet, and each side step five feet. Each leg is operated by an independent motor. The machine has traveled a total of 5,400 feet over a sand bottom, moving at the rate of 210 feet in 10 hours, and experienced men have made a step of 10 feet in 15 minutes. The apparatus, 24 feet high, has rotated several storms, with waves breaking over the platform.

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored. My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly, and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and bed, and continued by breaking it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable, several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.
