A THRILLING RIDE DOWN STEEP GRADE

Additional Details Show That Freight Wreck on Balsam Was Fearful Experience.

ENGINEER, FIREMAN, BRAKEMAN, EACH HAD A NARROW ESCAPE

Entire Train Wrecked, After Running Away Down the Precipitous Mountain Grade.

More complete details of the runaway freight wreck on the Balsam mountain on the Murphy division of the Southern Monday afternoon have been received here. The runaway freight on the Balsam gave the trainmen one of the most thrilling rides of their life and it is probable that there will be one or more vacancies as a result of the disaster. In fact it is stated that Fireman Claude Goodlake of this city, who was injured in the smash-up, will never again go on the road and that a young Irishman who was breaking on the train has determined to seek another occupation. The entire freight train it is said piled up at the foot of the mountain and while members of the crew were injured to a more or less serious extent no lives were lost although several of the trainmen had miraculous escapes. The trainmen last control while going down the steep mountain headed for Murphy. It is a steep grade and one that trainmen usually dread. As the freight train with several cars of coal and other merchandise started down the mountain side, according to information received here, a young brakeman attempted to put on the brakes. He was new at the game; the train gained momentum and the faster the train went the tighter he set the brakes. The brake on the tail-end car broke, under the strong arm of the brakeman, the brake-chain on the second car was snapped and the brake-rod on the third car was broken. All the time the train was going down the grade at a faster rate of speed than was desired. When the engineer gave the signal to loose the brakes and ease the train down the brakeman was endeavoring to hold his own on top of a coal car. The brakes on the tender went to the bad and the train went like lightning down the mountain side. The trainmen realized that the train was from under control and that in all probability they would be killed.

With the train near the foot of the mountain and running at between 70 and 80 miles an hour Fireman Goodlake and Engineer Dick Steele determined if possible to save their lives by jumping. One took one side of the engine cab and the other the other side. Fireman Goodlake stepped down to the lower step and doubling up made ready for a jump-off; at that time however, the train was heading and a coal car shot past him; he had dropped at that time he would have been killed. An instant later and the tender broke from the train and hurtling through space into a ditch that the young fireman had picked out. Fireman Goodlake, realizing that it was a case of life and death, stooped low on the step and when the coal car and the tender went by made ready for a leap. He placed both hands between his knees and at an opportune place literally fell off with the train running between 70 and 80 miles an hour. He was thrown several yards and then rolled probably 60 yards further. He lay unconscious for 20 minutes and finally regaining consciousness and with a badly bruised shoulder and a cut on his head he crawled back to the scene of the wreck.

In the meantime Engineer Dick Steele had jumped. His knees and legs were badly bruised and scratched, while he had a cut on his head and other bruises about the body. He had saved his life, however, and for that he was thankful.

The young brakeman went hurtling through space with the coal car. The trucks were ripped off the car and another car came tumbling on top of the first car and the brakeman. After the accident it was generally believed that the brakeman had been killed. Investigation, however, revealed that he had been buried beneath coal and that while severely injured he was still alive. He was pulled out and will recover. The entire train was wrecked and while practically all of the trainmen were injured none was fatally hurt. Fireman Goodlake, a son of A. M. Goodlake of this city, is now at his home on South French Broad avenue.

CITY NEWS

A meeting of the Asheville Poultry and Pet Stock association will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in City hall. All members of the association and others interested in the breeding of fancy poultry are cordially invited to be present.

Judge Cooke presided over a small docket in city police court this morning. There was but one drunk, a couple of disorderly conduct cases, an assault, a larceny and one other minor charge. Several other minor cases continued until this morning were disposed of.

The remains of John Kunberg, a machinist in the employ of the Southern railway, whose death occurred at the Florence hotel Tuesday afternoon, were shipped to Portsmouth, Va., yesterday for interment. Mr. Kunberg was a native of Sweden but had been a resident of this country for several years.

The November term of United States District court opened this morning with Judge J. E. Boyd presiding. United States District Attorney Holton and Judge Cobb were both present. Judge Boyd delivered a strong charge to the grand jury. The court this afternoon began trial of alleged "moonshiners."

The managers of what was formerly the Asheville pharmacy have changed the name to the Patagon Drug company, which incidentally was the original name of the store which was established about 12 years ago. They also announce that they will be ready soon to resume business in their new quarters on the northeast corner of Pack square.

Two negro convicts, Mann Hunt and Will Caldwell, escaped from Captain Brittain's camp yesterday and have not yet been recaptured, although three deputies and others were out all last night looking for them. Hunt had three years to serve and Caldwell had one year. Both were double shackled and escaped in daylight. So far nothing has been learned of their whereabouts.

The sooner the better. There's every reason why you should use Blue Ribbon Vanilla and Lemon Extracts, and the sooner the better. Pure—strong—delicious.

Chalmers Owners Are "Boosters"

The greatest advertisement for Chalmers Cars has always been the recommendation of enthusiastic owners. That such men as these mentioned are Chalmers Owners is sufficient guarantee for those who have little knowledge or experience in automobilizing.

Many of these men could well afford cars of much higher price—many own expensive cars as well as the Chalmers—in fact, many of them have replaced their expensive cars with the Chalmers. Some are technical men who have an expert knowledge of motors and automobiles.

Chalmers Cars represent all you possibly can look for in an automobile for every use—beauty of line, comfort, power, speed, perfect control, reliability. You can pay more for a car but you cannot find a car at any price that will give you so much real value. 1911 models are now on exhibition at our new salesrooms.
