CAPT. JAMES D. McNEILL IS CHOSEN AS MAYOR

Fayetteville Democrats Nominate Well Known Fireman—Equivalent to His Election.

The many Asheville friends of Capt. James D. McNeill—familiarily known to the firemen of North Carolina as "Jimmie" McNeill—will be interested in the announcement from Fayetteville the announcement from Fayetteville of that city. The following special from Fayetteville to the Wilmington Star gives the facts:

"By a majority of only 22 votes Capt. James D. McNeill Thursday defeated John Underwood for the mayoralty of Fayetteville in the second democratic primary, which was postponed from Tuesday. Only 650 votes were cast in the contest for mayor and of these Underwood carried the First ward 86 to 68, the Fifth by 29 to 23, the Seventh by 23 to 11, but Capt. McNeill won in the others, landing the nomination which is equivalent to election.

Mayor-elect McNeill is one of the best known citizens in North Carolina. He is a "bale fellow well met"; for many years president of the North Carolina State Firemen's association and many years prior to his election a fireman in Fayetteville. Capt. McNeill was a member of the legislature and has served his county and state well. His particular hobby, perhaps, has to do with the firemen of North Carolina. His voice has been heard for years on the firemen's tournament track and those who have heard "Jimmie" McNeill's voice will never forget it. His friends in Asheville are fully persuaded that he will make Fayetteville one of the best mayors if not the best that the ancient city in eastern Carolina has ever known.

MR. TODD'S INVENTION OF A MINING DEVICE

In the window of the Southern Coal company, at No. 10 North Pack square, today, may be seen in operation a mechanical appliance that seems on first sight to be a toy placed there to amuse the passers-by, but in reality is the model of a very useful appliance in the coal mining industry.

The appliance is an invention of Fred C. Todd, who secured patent rights on it last fall and is for the automatic opening and closing of doors in a tunnel for the passage of the dump cars loaded with coal.

Heretofore the lazy riff-raff around the mines has been depended upon to watch these doors because no one else would do it, and in many instances the watchmen have gone to sleep and accidents have naturally occurred as a result. Now these doors, which, by the way, are placed in a mine to divert air currents where they are wanted, are opened automatically by the car. A rail placed high enough from the ground to get above the debris, is arranged along the side of the track so that the car, when passing presses against it, thus working levers at the other end, opening the doors. The levers are arranged similar to switch levers and the door is closed by a heavy weight reversing the action of the levers.

This appliance is in successful operation in mines in Pennsylvania at present, and Mr. Todd expects that it will soon be widely adopted by other mines. There is only one other mechanical appliance of this kind, in which the rail that works the levers is placed in the middle of the track next to the ground and when dirt, coal and other debris piles up, it is put out of commission. Mr. Todd's invention overcomes this difficulty and seems certain of success.

"UNJUST PROPAGANDA" TO DEFEAT BILL DENOUNCED

Washington, May 2.—Mr. Stone of Missouri in a speech in the senate yesterday denounced what he declared to be an unjust propaganda to defeat the Canadian reciprocity bill. His attempt, he said, was being made to alarm the American people by painting the ruin that would follow the free importation of Canadian goods, the products of cheap labor. This contention, he declared, was absolutely untrue and he submitted statistics gathered by both governments designed to show that both labor and live stock were higher across the border than in the United States.

Senator Gallinger asserted that the Missouri senator had proved conclusively that there would not be the reduction in the cost of living which it had been contended reciprocity would bring to the United States. Mr. Stone replied that he had not contended that of itself reciprocity would be of great benefit but had undertaken to show that it would produce no great injury.

"And yet we give away ten millions of revenue," Mr. Gallinger retorted. Mr. Stone urged that the great benefit to be derived from entering into reciprocity with Canada would be to encourage free trade with that country, opening the way to freer trade with the world. He said he hoped to have an opportunity to vote for the house free list bill.

Princess Kawanakojia up to 1902 was Miss Abigail Campbell, the daughter of James Campbell, who made a fortune in the sugar trade in the Hawaiian Islands. Princess Kawanakojia died three years ago.

One of the robes which, it is said, the Princess will wear at the coronation is a cape of birds' feathers which is among the almost priceless garments in the world. It was made from the feathers of a species of island bird now extinct. Each bird had only one of the variety of feathers used in making the cape.

ANOTHER INDICTMENT IN CARNEGIE TRUST CASE

Surrounded by Much Secrecy, However—Name of Accused Not Divulged.

New York, May 2.—The grand jury investigating the failure of the Carnegie trust company, handed an indictment to Justice Davis in the criminal branch of the Supreme court late yesterday afternoon. The proceeding was surrounded with great secrecy, but it was said that the indictment was drawn under a section of the penal law which makes it a felony for a public official to "receive value in consideration of his vote, judgment or decision in any affairs of his office." The law names a ten year sentence in prison or a $5000 fine or both as the penalty.

AT THE THEATRO

The Teatro, last night, seemed to have suffered no loss in popularity as the crowd who gathered there, even up to a late hour could not be seated. The pictures shown were of the usual high order and the illustrated songs and music were all that could be desired. "Solving the Bond Theft" was a detective story of "Wall Street" solved by the daughter of a great detective, by playing office boy and running down a partner of the firm. "To Save Her Father's Honor" was one of those thrilling western stories of the daughter who consents to marry the Mexican villain to pay a debt of honor of her father and who is rescued by her lover in the midst of the ceremony who proves the villain is a cheat and marries the girl in the same hour. "Chums" appealed to the pathetic nature by picturing the loyalty of a dog in saving his young mistress and the family's treasures from invading tramps. In lighter vein "The Physical Culture Fiend" delights the crowd by his unprofessional antics. The illustrated songs by Miss Austin and Mr. Clark were very pleasing, and the selections of Prof. Stewart's orchestra from the leading operas was of the first quality.

"It's a play that hasn't one redeeming feature." "Except the scene in the pawnbroker's shop."—Judge
