

The Banquet to Henry Clay in New Orleans in 1842 Cost $100 per Plate

Never before had the historic old St. Louis Hotel, near the famous French Market Place, contained such an assemblage of beautiful women and famous men. Here it was that Henry Clay made his only speech in Louisiana, and with matchless eloquence paid a glowing tribute to the beauty of Southern women. Before and after this banquet the guests sipped the famous French Market Coffee, as was the custom in those days. Then this famous beverage could be had only at the French Market. Now you may serve it at your own table, for the old French Market blend is perpetuated by Protestant Methodist Sunday School Picnic.

The Methodist Protestant Sunday schools will go on their annual picnic at Riverside park Thursday of this week. A special car will meet the Woodfin Hill school at Grace at 9 a. m. The Weaverville car will bring them in to that point and take them back in the late afternoon for one fare of five cents. The Woolsey hall school will come on the special car a little past 9 a. m. The main school, which meets in the Y. M. C. A., will take the cars at the rear of the postoffice on Government street. The cars will leave for Riverside at 10 a. m. or 9:45. "In the afternoon," the committee announces, "a free ride will be given to West Asheville and return. All the Sunday school members and their families, fathers and mothers especially, are invited to spend the day at the picnic. It is hoped that all will send their children even if they themselves cannot go, as the children will be well cared for. The home department and cradle roll are also invited. Every one is asked to prepare a basket. Those who cannot are invited to get away. Those who cannot get off for the day are invited to turn down for dinner which will be from 12 to 1."

Titled Ladies Will Rise With the Sun
There will be any number of titled ladies up with the sun in London on the morning of the coronation. The coronation at Westminster Abbey will not begin until 7 or 8 o'clock, time enough, one would fancy, for a short morning beauty sleep. But it is the early duchess who will catch the hair dresser; these important lackeys of high life are not very numerous in London, and coronation collars are matters of moment and moment. Therefore her grace the duchess, the countess and my lady will sleep sitting up in their puffs, pass under the curling tongs when chanticleer calls on the sun to rise, or scramble into a court train and race to get into the procession. Just in time to avoid the re-belling frown of a punctual queen.

CHOPPED VEAL, German Style.—Put through a machine or chop very fine two pounds of lean veal; for this the shoulder is inexpensive and well flavored. Season with one teaspoonful of salt, one-half of a teaspoonful of onion juice, one-half of a teaspoonful of pepper and one table-spoonful of chopped parsley. Form into small chops, inserting a piece of bone or stick of macaroni in the small end; dip each chop into slightly beaten egg, roll in fine bread crumbs and immerse in smoking hot fat for eight to ten minutes according to the thickness of the chop. Serve with tomato sauce.

JUNKET AND LEMON JELLY.—Wine or other jelly may be used instead of lemon if wished. Make some junket in the usual way, and for the sake of variety serve it in champagne glasses. When the junket is quite firm chop the jelly and heap it on the junket.

TELLS CHARLOTTE FOLK OF ASHEVILLE'S WATER

Also Sanitary Conditions; Fly Fighting, etc.—Dr. McBrayer interviewed by the Observer.

Dr. L. B. McBrayer, one of the examiners of the state medical board, has been in Charlotte during the past week engaged in his duties and a recent issue of the Charlotte Observer has a column and a half interview in which Dr. McBrayer tells of the sanitary and health conditions in Asheville and the systems employed by the sanitary department.

The interview starts with a description of the water supply which is no doubt interesting to the people of Charlotte, especially to learn that Asheville people can use all the water they wish. He then tells of the milk and meat inspection; the campaign against the fly; sanitary, surface closets; regulations with respect to tuberculosis; street cleaning; and closes with a few words in regard to the educational system.

CARRIERS' WINDOWS ARE TO BE CLOSED ON SUNDAY

Effective June 25 no Delivery of Mail Will Be Made Except to Box Renters.

Effective Sunday, June 25, the carriers windows at the Asheville postoffice will be closed and only those patrons of the office who pay box rental and have their mail placed in lock boxes instead of delivered by carrier will be privileged to enjoy their Sunday mail. The order closing the office on Sundays was received by Postmaster Rollins yesterday afternoon from the postoffice department at Washington. Recently the people of Asheville were handed cards with the request that they inform the postmaster whether or not they desired Sunday mail. To those who received cards the answer was overwhelmingly in favor of closing.
