AS TO SOIL TESTS.

The Waynesville Enterprise tells of a Haywood county man who sent samples of the soil from different parts of his farm to the agricultural department, where it was subjected to chemical analysis, and as a result of the advice furnished him by the department as to the nature of the dirt and what it needed for various crops, on land where he had previously raised 10 bushels of corn to the acre he last year raised 75 bushels and has prospects of 100 bushels this year. "This demonstrates," says our Waynesville contemporary, "the contention made by the enterprise that we should have a practical and easy way for every farmer to get his soil analyzed."

"As a matter of fact western North Carolina is composed of a greater variety of geological formations than any other section on the continent except it be some contorted sections in the Rocky mountains. Every township contains different soil problems. Practically every farm is a separate study. Consequently we are not able to profit by Mr. Smith's or Mr. Jones' newspaper article telling what he did to raise 75 bushels of corn to the acre. The 50 barrels of lime, etc., which he used might ruin his neighbor's land if the latter should try the same formula. We need and we must have machinery which will enable our people to take advantage of the knowledge which is being gained by the government departments."

Commissioner Graham has informed the editor of the Enterprise that the State department in co-operation with the United States department is having a soil survey of the State prepared, but it is slow work as only three or four counties can be covered in a year. A portion of Haywood county was surveyed in connection with the Asheville or Buncombe sheet, and one can get a copy of this map by application to the Soil Survey Division, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. This department has now in press a bulletin relating to the composition of the mountain soils. "I hope it will be ready for distribution in a week," he says. "It is impossible for the department to make an analysis of the soils on every farm in a county; the different characters are mentioned in the bulletin and then the individual, by actual test, must assist the force of the department in ascertaining what the fields on his farm may require to be made most productive. The department will gladly aid you in any way it can, and don't hesitate to call upon us."

The Enterprise is not satisfied with this, but is figuring out the cost of putting in a local department, the paper to bear the expense. It wishes "to provide means whereby an expert opinion relative to his soil may be procured by every farmer who will bring a specimen to Waynesville; this we will do, sooner or later," it says.

THE STATES DEMONSTRATION WORK.

Realizing that the leading function of the State department of agriculture is not its police work but that of producing agricultural wealth among the farmers of the State the department is establishing in each county a number of local experimental farms, one on each public road leading into the county seat on which simple but vital experiments are conducted in plain view of every passerby. This local experimental work is planned with a view to arousing interest on the part of the farmer in the study of his own local conditions of crop production. In this way they hope to aid the farmers in each county to increase their crop yields and thus enable the State to grow at home the millions of dollars worth of food supplies which are now annually shipped into the State from outside sources.

"From now on," says a note from the department, "we shall desire to reach the farmers of your county through your paper and tell you from time to time, for publication, short articles on our work as it progresses in your county and on other agricultural subjects of interest to your subscribers." The local experimental farms are established upon lands of farmers who agree to loan the experimental plots to the

of all items of expense; the farmer receiving, of course, all the returns from the crops grown. He is actuated by the desire to secure for himself and his neighbors more exact knowledge of the relationship existing between the soils and crops of his locality and to gain a more complete mastery of the factors that govern successful farming in his community.

We cannot have too many of these local experimental farms, and indeed it is not too much to hope that the time is not far distant when every farmer will keep in touch with the department. It is paid for with the people's money and is established for the benefit of the people. Write, if you are interested, to W. A. Graham, Commissioner of Agriculture, Raleigh, N. C.

Charlotte street, although lined with fine dwellings and well kept yards, with but few vacant lots, has still something of the spirit of the country, more of the prosperous village. It is a Macadam roadway. A hard pavement, no matter what construction, will be noisy. They lay brick now so it is not as noisy as laid the old way, but a horse shoe in violent and repeated contact with a brick will be audible as long as there are ears to hear. It will also be hot, a fact that will have emphatic evidence in seasons like the present. It is a pity they cannot have a Macadam and oil combination that will retain the good features of the Macadam and do away with the miserable dust which is also a costly erosion. Concord is experimenting along this line, with excellent result. About eight weeks ago a much traveled stretch of street, two blocks, was sprinkled with a special preparation of crude oil. The street is now dustless and odorless.

GREENVILLE POLICE AT WORK ON THE CASE

Police Department Still Hopeful That Sooner or Later Man Will Be Landed Behind Bars.

Gazette-News Bureau.
 The Hotel Raleigh, Raleigh, July 7.
 Governor Kitchin offers $100 reward for John Huff, who assaulted Patrolman McConnell.

All the clues and information that the police have been able to gather throwing any light upon the whereabouts or movements of the negro known as John Huff who Monday shot Patrolman McConnell, have thus far failed to materialize into the apprehension of the fugitive. A negro who was placed under arrest at Greenville, S. C., yesterday as a suspect had been released, the authorities being satisfied that he is not the man wanted.

Sergeant McDowell and Patrolman Leverett, who went to Spartanburg in an effort to pick up a clue there, went on to Greenville last evening, returning to Asheville this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The officers say that they failed absolutely to find any trace of the negro at Greenville of that section. They say that the officers of Greenville are working hard on the case and lending every assistance possible to the Asheville authorities.

Patrolman Fred Jones and Frank Connor returned from Hendersonville, Greenville, Spartanburg and Piedmont last night. They had track of the negro but lost the trail not far from Greenville. Patrolman Jones said that they found where the negro was in Hendersonville Tuesday morning and left a grip which, when opened, was found to contain certain articles of clothing and a razor belonging to a man named Haydock of the Buena Vista section. The grip also contained a small notebook with Haydock's name written in it. The negro Huff stole the articles from Haydock's house while making his escape Monday afternoon. The officers followed the negro's trail toward Greenville, inquiring along the route about the man. The last heard of Huff was at a quarry not many miles from Greenville. There they learned that a negro answering Huff's description had applied for work. He was tendered work but said that first he must have something to eat. Food was refused him until he had worked some, whereupon the negro refused the job and moved. That was the last trace the officers had of the negro. The officers learned that near Piedmont resided a negro who, it was stated, reared John Huff. They visited the place but the man said that the John Huff he had reared was dead; that the only John Huff he knew of living had been raised by a negro in Spartanburg. The officers went to Spartanburg, found the man they were looking for, who told them that the living John Huff was reared by the man they had left near Greenville. They started back toward Greenville but learning that Sergeant McDowell and Patrolman Leverett were gone in that direction, came back to Asheville.

STILL SEARCH FOR JOHN HUFF

But All Clues and Information Have Failed to Throw Light on Man's Whereabouts.

DEPLORABLE TRAGEDY IN KNOX COUNTY, TENNESSEE

Knoxville Sentinel, July 6.
 A trap set by A. Troutman to kill a chicken thief killed his nearest and best neighbor, Rufus Baker, Wednesday night at about 3 o'clock, on the former's farm, eight miles north of the city on Oak Ridge. Troutman is under a bond of $2000 on the charge of murder. His preliminary hearing is set for 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon before Judge D. G. Leahy, before whom this morning at 7 o'clock he was for the first time formally arraigned and committed to jail.

Not in years has a tragedy aroused public interest in the north end of the county as has this one. Encompassing two of the most prominent men of that section and the county, and extraordinary circumstances surrounding the killing, interest is at fever heat about the tragedy, and there were but few people in that section who closed their eyes last night, the majority spending the night by the side of the dead body, discussing the unusual features.

The relatives and friends of the dead farmer refuse to believe that his premises is the trap set by Troutman and of which Troutman claims he had been warned, was due other than to lawful ends, he, at the time of the killing, it is claimed, being on the search for a flock of young turkeys.

Troutman today expressed deep sorrow and regret at the result of the tragedy and said:

"This is a fearful mistake, unless Rufus Baker has all these years been something for which he has never been given credit. I set that trap for a chicken thief who had been robbing me and me, and I never dreamed that it would kill anyone else. I would give all the gold around here for the world's best detective who would save me from this terrible mistake."

CHARLOTTE PEOPLE CELEBRATED THE HISTORIC FOURTH

Charlotte people celebrated the historic Fourth and made history at the same time by voting their big bond issues, $150,000 for water, $150,000 for sewerage, $150,000 for streets, $100,000 for schools, and $50,000 for an auditorium. This decision to add $450,000 to their bonded indebtedness is the most notable forward stride ever taken by a North Carolina city. The people of Charlotte have yearned for good water his hot weather, but the majority for the schools was greatest showing that they thirst more for education.

It may be that not all the New York newspapers believe in a personal or other sort of devil; but there is Murphy or Tammany.

Togo is coming. A joint debate between him and Hobson would be worth while.

TO REMEDY THE HARM

Representative Weeks has introduced in congress a resolution providing that the $2,000,000 appropriated for forest purposes during the fiscal year just ended shall be available at any time until June 30, 1912. The intention of the geological survey is held responsible for the loss of the greater part of the appropriation. The harm will be remedied if the Weeks resolution is adopted, and it is believed it will be passed at the close of the extra session.—Chattanooga News.

WHAT THE BAR ASSOCIATION FAVORS

According to an explanation made by Charles W. Tillett it is not abolition of the rotation system that has been endorsed by the North Carolina bar association, but a modification of that system. "The association," he says, "was put on record as advocating a change as to divide the State into two large circuits and provide for ten judges in each circuit, and then have a provision that the judges rotate only in their own circuits except by consent or possibly by direction of the governor for exchange of courts." And this can be endorsed as a step in the right direction. It would be a considerable easement of the inconvenience and unnecessary system now in vogue in this State.—Chattanooga Chronicle.
