SIX RAILROADS WERE INDICTED

Government Goes After Railroads and Mining Concerns at Columbus, Ohio.

ALL COMPETITION CRUSHED, IT IS SAID

Government Seeks Injunction to Restrain Them from Doing Further Business.

Columbus, O., Aug. 5.—Suit was filed by the United States government in the Federal Circuit court yesterday against six railroad companies and three coal mining concerns, charging a combination in restraint of trade and asking that the combination be enjoined from continuing business.

The government charges that the Hocking Valley Railroad Amalgamation of the Toledo & Ohio Central, the Kanawha & Michigan and the Zanesville Western roads and its connections with the mining concerns named has crushed competition.

The defendant companies are: Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad, Chesapeake & Ohio railroad, Hocking Valley railroad, Toledo & Ohio Central railroad, Kanawha & Michigan railroad, Zanesville Western railroad, Sunday Creek Coal company, Continental Coal company, Kanawha & Hocking Coal company.

The government petitions alleged that the combination thus formed affects four of the great coal mining fields, namely, the Pittsburgh, the West Virginia, the Kanawha Valley and the Hocking Valley.

It is alleged that the six railroad companies are also, not only among themselves, but with the railroad companies.

The Hocking Valley, the Toledo & Ohio Central, the Kanawha & Michigan and the Zanesville Western were until recently under the control of the Trunk lines syndicate. The Sunday Creek Coal company is a holding company, controlling the Continental Coal company and other companies owning property in Virginia, West Virginia and Ohio.

The government's purposes is to prevent the charge of ownership agreed on last year when the trunk line syndicate turned over the four railroads and their affiliated coal companies to the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern and the Chesapeake & Ohio the latter taking charge of the Hocking Valley, which is the principal one of the four roads.

The suit seeks further to break up entirely the alleged combination between the four roads and the Sunday Creek company, and its subsidiary coal companies, which had been complained of by Ohio coal operators for two or three years, and which has been the basis for innumerable suits brought in county and United States courts in Ohio.

Each of the suits has been the Ohio Coal Operators' association, of which Howard Mannington, of Columbus, is secretary. He laid the case before the department of justice and President Taft more than a year ago and urged that action be brought, and the government has been investigating conditions since that time. The whole suit hinges on the Hocking Valley railroad. The officials of this company, it is alleged, were placed in offices corresponding to those held in the parent company soon after the Hocking Valley road gained control of the capital stock of its subsidiaries, and, according to the petition, were instructed to operate the roads along the same lines as the parent company had been managed.

The company then set about controlling the larger coal companies and succeeded in placing the Continental Coal company which owns 38,000 acres of coal lands in the Hocking Valley district, on its list along with the Kanawha & Hocking Valley Coal company. The Sunday Creek Coal company was formed as a blind, the government charges, to permit the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railroad and the Chesapeake & Ohio along with the four Ohio companies to stifle competition by merging all the railroads and the principal coal companies in the state into one corporation, while still retaining their own individuality.

The majority of the capital stock of the Sunday Creek company was held by the Hocking Valley railroad at the time it was formed, according to the government petition, but was later turned over to the Central Trust company of New York in order to avoid prosecution under the Hepburn law.

The Diagraphoscope

The Most Marvelous Invention of This Age—A Wonder Working Machine Which Will Revolutionize the Medical World and Cure Most Diseases.

Office 5th Floor American Bank Building Will Be Open to The Public Tuesday August 8.

One of the oldest and most potent forces of today is electricity. Edison stated a few years ago if electricity, voltage and amperage could be controlled and directed it would revolutionize the medical world and cure all diseases. That we have arrived at this control today and have taken from electricity its quintessence in the shape of electro radio, the above named machine amply testifies. It is the eighth wonder of the world, supplying a force that is doing more for diseases since its recent successful development than an ocean of drugs or a forest of surgeons' knives. Electro Radio, American bank building, is the only firm in the country having a wonder working machine of this order. The diagraphoscope, besides its enormous initial cost, is a machine so complicated, so delicate in its mechanism, that only the highest type of skilled and trained physicians are able to utilize its marvelous powers. It gives a diagnosis that is absolutely true—not guesswork. This is accomplished by showing to the naked eye every organ in the patient's body. By means of this phenomenal machine's power, one can see the heart in action the rise and fall of the diaphragm, a spoonful of bismuth passing down the throat. Any constriction is as visible in the light of day, as are kidney stones, or, in fact, any abnormal condition. It will show gall stones, so often believed to be cirrhosis of the liver.

You can see right past the appendix, often observing the kidney stones, so often mistaken for appendicitis. No other specialist, no other apparatus in the country can offer a diagnosis such as this. The screen used in the diagraphoscope is placed on the chest of the patient of the body and every interior condition or happening is immediately visible to the naked eye.

This screen is composed of a wonderful compound which costs in the rough just five times its weight in gold. The rays which thus illuminate the human body are so powerful that they will pierce almost three feet of solid wood and reveal a copper cent on the opposite side. Yet their action is not in the slightest degree felt. The diagraphoscope not only reveals a hidden bullet, be it on the right or left side, but just how far it has penetrated. Any enlargement of the joints is immediately revealed and taking you all in all makes the formerly much vaunted X-Ray look like a toy. Remember that the only place in the United States this marvel of the twentieth century is in operation in the Electro Radio Parlor, Suite 52, 53-54 American Bank building.

The long course of arduous study required for even a partial knowledge of the operation of this triumph of the world's greatest minds, as well as its enormous initial cost, places it far beyond the reach of the regular specialists. In fact, only the most elaborately equipped hospitals in Berlin and Paris have been able to stand the gigantic cost of the apparatus itself, let alone the practical impossibility of securing specialists whose skill is equal to the successful operation of its intricate parts. Last Saturday a special demonstration was given at Advanced Medical Science main office, New York City, of this machine to the medical fraternity, and many of the most eminent specialists of the country went to see it. To say that they were amazed would be to put it mildly indeed. A man was placed upon the stand. The costly screen was suspended across his body, the radio forces called into action and in broad daylight, before the eyes of all assembled, his every organ sprang into instant view—another example of the machine's vast superiority over the obsolete X-Ray, to which darkness is essential. The actual patients brought by the visiting doctors who had doubts about the correctness of their various diagnoses, were brought forward. The first of these, a man with every symptom of valvular affection of the heart, was placed behind the screen, and the radio forces immediately disclosed that the whole trouble was not in the slightest of the heart, except as that organ was affected by an enlarged stomach. The usual calm physician broke into expressions of astonishment, which were further increased when a young man thought to be suffering with cancer of the stomach was indisputably shown to the naked eye to have nothing more than an ulcerated stomach. The dark spots of the ulcer were as plain as day. Expressions of amazement were heard on every side and the general opinion of those present was best expressed by the remark made by one of the best known specialists of the age to his associates: "There can be no more guessing; that machine absolutely shows beyond the shadow of a doubt just what is wrong." The doctor having charge as an investigator and scientist is second to none, and the sobriquet of great was bestowed upon him and adopted by the leading societies of Europe and the press of this country because of his almost supernatural faculty of accomplishing that which lesser minds have deemed impossible. His consultation will be free to you for the first week only, after which he will charge you his customary examination fee of $5. The hours are from 9 to 12, 2 to 4, and 7 to 8.

If you are skeptical if you doubt, come and be convinced. Remember that things move along so rapidly nowadays that people who say, "It can't be done," are interrupted by some one doing it.

Tell your friends to call upon the doctor. Free examinations for one week, beginning Tuesday August 8. Rooms 52-53-54 American Bank building, Cor. Church St. and Patton Ave.

FOUR HOME RUNS FEATURED GAME

Asheville Won from Bristolites by Score of 10 to 4—Interesting Contest.

Four home runs and Shelby's desperate try for Smith's homer were the exciting features of yesterday's game between the Mountaineers and Bristol at Riverdale, making an entertaining game out of one which started off without "pep" or life on a heavy diamond.

In the second inning the "cellarites" started in to clinch the game just for a novelty, when Cochran placed one over the left field fence for four bags; Jenkins followed with a single, Brown sacrificed him to second base, Tabor followed with a single to left field and Jenkins was perched on third with one man down; West walked and the bleachers groaned, but lo! Stults struck out and things looked brighter, when Johnston came up and hit a high one between Sharp and Mullen in center and they both wanted it, but being such courteous friends they "Alphonsed and Gastoned" until two Bristolites had crossed the rubber. Foreman struck Shelby out just to be on the safe side, ending the inning.

In the sixth the visitors took courage again, when Cochran walked up and calmly dropped one of Foreman's benders in the lake for his second home run, but his team mates failed to add to his efforts and this ended the run getting for them.

The Mountaineers took a brace in the third, well assisted by their Tennessee opponents. Foreman led off with a strike-out. Then Sharp picked out a swift one and put it over the left field fence for a homer and prolonged applause. The Bristolites liked the noise so well that they insisted most successfully on its continuance. Mullen next up hit for two bases and Biggie got a free pass. Charlie Smith smacked one straight up and Stults and Moore stood with folded hands while it dropped again to mother earth, then awakened by the unusual noise of the bleachers Moore grabbed the "mill" and hurled it several feet over the first baseman's head and Mullen scored. "Woody" sacrificed to deep center and Biggie came home. Richards hit to Stults, who threw wild to first, Smith scoring and Richards taking second. Bowers struck out, but the Mountaineers had already chalked up four to their credit and were never overtaken.

In the fifth with Mullen and Biggie on third and second respectively Smith again set the crowd wild when he picked out a nice deep hole in the lake and straightened one out for the spot. Shelby, who has a highly developed sense of humor, didn't want any more scores so he went after it, and just as it went sailing over the wire fence surrounding the lake he got his hands on it; at the same instant he rushed into the fence a post gave way with the result that he went right into the lake for a ducking, and Mullen, Biggie and Smith made the circuit. The Mountaineers took more in the sixth and one more in the seventh.

Bristol entered a protest at the end of the third on account of Smith being allowed to hold first when he had hit an infield fly with a man on first and only one man down. However, it is not thought that the protest will be sustained as it was not made at the time of play, which is the rule. Matched scores by innings:

Bribe-Taker in Lorimer Case Says He Performed Public Service.

Washington, Aug. 5.—To his story of how he claims he was bribed to vote for Lorimer, Charles A. White, former member of the Illinois legislature, yesterday added for the benefit of the senate Lorimer committee that he believed every one of the fifty-three democrats who voted for Lorimer did so for a money consideration. He added that he thought some of the republicans who voted for Lorimer got merce for so doing.

White declined to mention the names of any of the republicans he suspected "because it is just a matter of opinion and I do not want to do an injustice to any one." He said he based his opinion about wholesale corruption on the fact that he was bribed and that others had confessed the same.

White declared when cross-examined by counsel for Lorimer that the record in the first Lorimer investigation was wrong in reporting him as saying he "would have sold" his story to Senator Lorimer if the senator had given him $75,000 for his confession. In his response to White's letter.

"It should have read, 'might have sold,'" said White. He added that he might have turned his manuscript over to Lorimer for $75,000 because that amount might have been all the evidence necessary for him to prove his exposure, which he said he was planning to do for the good of the public.

LONDON NOTES

London, Aug. 5.—Except among the Egyptian Nationalists, who, however, have been very quiet of late, the appointment of Lord Kitchener as British Agent in Egypt and the Sudan has been received with the greatest enthusiasm. Here in England satisfaction is expressed at the fact that the government has at last found something that is considered worthy of its talents, while the British residents in Egypt have received the news with the greatest delight.

Although Sir Edward Grey has announced in the house of commons that the application of Lord Kitchener does not foreshadow any change in the government's policy, there is a feeling, both here and in Egypt, that if there is no change, there will at least be a different way of carrying out that policy. Kitchener's reputation gives the imperialist hope that he will deal a little more drastically with those Nationalists, who at the commencement of the late Sir Eldon Gorst's administration, attempted and to some extent succeeded in stirring up trouble.

While the Nationalists are quiet and their leaders disassociate themselves from all talk of violence, there is known to be a great deal of smoldering discontent, encouraged by the Socialist members of parliament. A strong mind, it was felt, was needed to keep this under, and in Kitchener the people believe they have the man. His long experience in Egypt and the Sudan further fits him for the place and his appointment was doubtless made with the utmost practical certainty that British prestige would benefit from his administration. There are some optimists who believe that this benefit will accrue throughout the Near East and that with Kitchener and a strong army in Egypt, British will be able to formulate and carry out any plans she may have in Turkey and Persia or frustrate any schemes of other powers that might interfere with England's policy.

Lord Kitchener's full title is Minister Plenipotentiary and Consul General and his salary is $35,000 a year. In theory he simply acts as the authorized exponent of the views and wishes of his government to the government of Egypt. In reality, however, he is arbiter of Egyptian policy, and will be responsible, under the British government, for the administration of Egypt and the Sudan and the Khedive, the theoretical ruler, is bound to accept his advice. The Khedive is said to have opposed the appointment of Kitchener, for with a strong man at Cairo, the Sultan's representative will have very little to say.

Trade Unionists are looking forward with interest to a fight over the question of the organization of a union among the British and American cotton weavers in the Sudan. The union is to be brought forward by the Egyptian Trade Unionists.

Was Perfectly Bald When He Started to Use Newbro's Herpicide.

Frederick Manuelli, Maryland block, Butte, Montana, bought a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide, April 6, '09, and began to use it for entire baldness. The hair follicles in his scalp were not dead and in 20 days he had hair all over his head. On July 2 he writes, "and today my hair is as thick and luxuriant as any one could wish." Newbro's Herpicide works on an old principle and with a new discovery—destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Herpicide removes the germ that causes hair to fall out, and finally baldness, so that with the cause gone the effect cannot remain. Stops falling hair at once and a new growth starts.
