ADVANTAGES OF BEING BOW-LEGGED.

It is our keenest, most enduring pleasure to search out and present sentiments and ideas for the encouragement of various classes of readers of The Gazette-News.

How legs are trustworthy. They embody the architectural principle of the arch, which is stronger than two straight pillars. The tortoise, who finished first in that memorable marathon with the hare, the bulldog, who whatever odds will finish first or die, both belong among the bow legs.

The Hickory Democrat prints the following letter of appreciation from W. A. Self, the brilliant Hickory lawyer:

Gentlemen: To the champion of Bow Legs (August Budget), whoever he or she may be, I bow and lift my hat. I have used a pair all my life; have never attempted to exchange, being convinced that there is no substitute "just as good"; yet, I have not had the courage to proclaim their superlative architectural and artistic merits to this perverse and woefully non-aesthetic generation.

As to the concluding command—I assume that we are not to lose sight of the scriptural admonition, "Let your moderation be known unto all men," which, being interpreted, meaneth, "Have regard for the rule of reason."

A GOOD EXAMPLE.

People have a great dread of courts and lawyers, which probably explains why a man will submit to any amount of huddling from an attorney. He thinks probably at the time that if he ever gets that lawyer alone in a quiet place, out of the protection of the court, he will fix his countenance as his best friend would not know him.

There is at least one judge in North Carolina who has given notice that in his court a witness is a citizen and his rights which lawyers must respect. That is Presbiter who in Warren county showed a witness who was this in some courts, but you can't abuse a witness in my court," said Judge Peebles. In comment thereon the Goldsboro Argus says: There has always been too much of this done by lawyers, and we have always contended that it was wrong. Nine times out of ten a witness is dragged into court against his will and is sometimes forced to testify against his best friend, and then has to be subjected to all kinds of abuse and ridicule, and answer all kinds of embarrassing questions, and has no redress whatever. This practice has become so general that witnesses naturally feel a dread and hesitate to appear as a witness when there is any way out of it.

MODEL CARMEN.

The ideals of conduct for conductors and motormen, and held by the men and their employers, are indicated by essays written by the carmen of St. Louis in contest for $500 in prizes, awarded by the president of the railway company. Motorman Jacob Reuhl won the first prize. He described the "Model Motorman" thus: "Should be neat and clean and never drink."

Answers questions politely and briefly and never be drawn into conversation. Stop the car conveniently at crossings for passengers to alight.

Be cheerful and obliging about opening front door for passengers. Watch for children and others darting across streets from behind vehicles.

Sound gong and run slowly in passing schoolhouses or children on the street.

Emil Glarwan won the first conductor's prize, describing the "Model Conductor" as follows: "Should make rides so pleasant passengers will want to ride with him again."

Call out important streets and transfer points. Notify passengers when reaching streets where they have asked to be let off.

Register fares as soon as collected to avoid disputes. Keep bill in sight while making change to avoid disputes as to its denomination.

Give passengers bills when requested, instead of loading them down with small change.

Assist aged or infirm persons, children and women with babies in getting on and off cars.

Judged by these standards there are a number of model carmen in Asheville.

The St. Louis company might have included a prize for the best essay on "The Model Passenger."

Twenty-eight years ago yesterday R. R. Clark, now editor and owner of the Statesville Land-bottom rung of the ladder. About 19 years later he became editor, following one of the ablest and most brilliant of North Carolina journalists the State has ever produced—Joseph P. Caldwell. Mr. Clark has worthily worn this mantle, has constantly developed and broadened. He is one of North Carolina's great men.

It seems as if the board of aldermen ought to comply with the petition of a majority of the Charlotte street property owners—a decided majority—who ask that the street be paved with bitulithic instead of brick; especially as the contract for the brick paving has not been signed. The brick costs more, and is objectionably noisy. Many of the property owners say they would rather the street were left as it is than paved with brick.

Hickory people are already reaping the rewards of enterprise. Says the Democrat: "There were three purchases by outside parties of real estate in Hickory last week traceable directly to this city's $200,000 guarantee fund to new industries. People want to own property in a town that is building for the future like ours. By the way, there are few better investment bargains in North Carolina now than Hickory real estate."

Speaking generally, it is hen vacation time. The dignified barnyard dame has about quit laying. She will give her attention for a few days to her wardrobe, getting rid of her old habiliments and decking out in new.

Wood's Fall Seed Catalogue

just issued—tells what crops you can put in to make the quickest grazing, or hay, to help out the short feed crops. Also tells about both Vegetable and Farm Seeds that can be planted in the fall to advantage and profit. Every Farmer, Market Grower and Gardener should have a copy of this catalogue. Mailed free. Write for it. T. W. WOOD & SONS.

The styles in men's tailoring and millinery will be about the same.

"That $2,000,000 increase in taxable values is a mighty good showing for Buncombe, even if the automobiles did almost escape the assessor's searching eye," thinks the Charlotte Observer. Maybe the automobilist's license tax saves his conscience.

Now is the time to begin laying the foundation for a successful fall season on next year.

That was another great game yesterday, although it came out wrong. Representative of Dudley Family Protests.

Editor of The Gazette-News.

As one of the representatives of Gov. Dudley's family, I take it as a personal insult the item which you published in Saturday afternoon's paper of Aug. 26th, page second, under heading, "Young bridegroom arrested on felony charges." You should notify your correspondent to be correct in his reports where it reflects on others. You could give stranger's name alone without any mention of a spotless name—Gov. E. B. Dudley (my grandfather)—causing humiliate of the actions of a stranger to the most of the family. Since your publication however, it has been proven that the charges were entirely false and the gentleman has been honorably discharged.

I think it due the family for you to correct the error, and in future you should be more careful in bringing others in connection with party concerned before the public. MRS. MARY DUDLEY ROBERTS, 128 West Beaver St., Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 31, 1911.

Hospital Sunday.

(Contributed) As the day for the hospital approaches the interest increases.

The railroad men have already made an offering. They observed the 29th. Mr. J. H. Lange gathered in a liberal offering from them. If any have been missed they will find the same collection "basket" at the Glen Rock hotel on the clerk's desk.

All the ministers of all the churches, both white and colored, will next Sunday announce the offering and tell their congregations about the needs of the hospital and some of the good it has done.

Sunday school superintendents and teachers will do the same. Everybody who knows of the offering and the hospital will do the same to everybody else.

Posters and printed circulars have been mailed to every minister in the county, also to one or two leading members in every church in the county.

Contribution banks have already been placed in the schools at Black Mountain, North Fork, Swannanoa, West Asheville, Biltmore, Barnardsville, Democrat, Ivy Hill, Grace, Weaverville College, Weaverville, Fairview and other schools.

All that have been canvassed will take the offering on September 5. The county has been more thoroughly canvassed than ever before. There is a great interest in Hospital Sunday everywhere in the county.

Many individuals and homes are also taking the contribution banks. During August there were 46 operations at the hospital. The only case lost was a little boy who was in a hopeless condition when taken there. Yesterday there were 58 patients in the building, six more than at any time ever before.

Seventy-two were received in August and 117 were treated. New beds have had to be placed in the charity wards. Pay patients have been turned away every day in August for lack of room. Six were turned away in one day.

It is hoped that all the ministers and Sunday school workers will tomorrow make explicit announcement concerning the offering. Collection envelopes may be had by telephoning No. 359.

CENTRAL BUREAU PLANS CHANGES RECOMMENDED

(Continued From Page One.) ment it with the changes above enumerated, the proposed plan for the establishment of a central bureau in New York city be given favorable consideration by the exchange-banking banks of the country and announces that in making this recommendation it does not in any manner wish to convey the impression that the proposed plan is to at all interfere with the main purpose of the committee in securing legislation now before congress in the form of a Stevens bill.

GREAT DEMAND FOR BURNETTE'S HINGE

Former Asheville Citizen Has Sold Canadian Right for Handsome Sum.

B. Burnette, formerly a resident of Asheville and member of the board of aldermen and now a resident of San Diego, Cal., was a visitor in Asheville yesterday, leaving this morning for his home. Mr. Burnette, while now located on the Pacific slope permanently, nevertheless has a warm spot in his heart for Asheville and ever delights to return here for a brief visit; to shake hands with friends; renew old acquaintances and note the growth of the "mountain metropolis." Mr. Burnette, who recently invented a hinge of merit; a hinge that builders and contractors have long needed, said to friends while here that his patent is panning out better than he thought; that his firm is now turning out great quantities of the goods at their factories in California, and that the demand is greater than the output. The Canadian right to dispose of the hinge in Canada was this week sold to Canadian capitalists for approximately $10,000. It is said, and the output of the product will necessarily have to be increased. The door hinge that Mr. Burnette invented and patented has been placed in the market throughout the country and has been generally accepted by builders as about the best hinge for building purposes on the market. The hinge is so made that when a door is opened the door is raised to escape a carpet, rug, etc., and when closed fits snug and thus does away with any crack or opening at the bottom. The firm of which Mr. Burnette is the senior member, manufactures the hinges in different sizes and of various patterns.
