CHARGED WITH LARCENY AND IS BOUND TO COURT

Fred McLain Is Accused of Robbing His Friend— Other Cases.

This morning's session of police court was exceedingly short compared with the preceding sessions this week. There were a few cases of minor importance, including 12 larceny charges against residents of the ten-district which concluded the monthly round-up. A small fight was aired in which Gale Henderson, white, and Russell Benson, colored, had fought it out in a boy car at the Southern depot. It appeared from the evidence that Henderson was the prime mover in bringing on the trouble and that Benson had closed it rather suddenly by the use of a shovel, at the same time effectually closing one of Henderson's eyes. Each was fined $5 and the costs.

The most serious case on the docket then came up, in which Fred McLain was charged with the larceny of $59 from Morris Watts. Watts testified that he came to Asheville three days ago from Statesville and that he met McLain soon after he got here, who had been an old friend of his in Charlotte, his former home. They had taken in the town together Tuesday afternoon and night, he said, and then he had invited McLain to go to his hotel and spend the night with him. He stated that when they reached the room he undressed and went to bed leaving McLain, who said he felt sick, sitting up. Before retiring, he testified, he had put his purse containing the money in the toe of his shoe, locked the door and put the key in his pocket, and when he went to sleep McLain was still sitting up.

He awoke at 5 o'clock and McLain and the money were gone and the door was open. Mr. Sharp, the policeman at Hillmore, then went on the stand and said that on the night of the alleged theft he saw McLain get out of a hack on the bridge at Hillmore and overheard part of a conversation between him and the driver, in which he said McLain cautioned the driver not to say anything. He had suspicion about the man and telephoned head quarters here. Some time later he received a message from headquarters to make arrest and he found the purse containing the money practically in his hands at Hillmore. The only difference was the absence of a $2 bill. McLain did not go on the stand himself but the cross-examination of the state's witnesses, by its attorney, Judge Brown, would indicate that his plea would be that he won the money at a gambling game. Watts, however, declared that there had been no game, although he produced a pair of "bones" that he said the defendant had given him to keep. These were impounded as exhibits.

The defendant was bound over to the October term of Superior court under a $200 bond, although Judge Adams expressed the idea that if the grand jury found him to be the man who had taken the money they might find a true bill for burglary, because of his opening the door and escaping after the alleged commission of the theft.

MISS CRAWFORD IS ARRAIGNED

would be exhumed for a similar examination. District Attorney Adams declined to state whether he contemplated charging Annie Crawford with the murder of all four members of the family, but he dictated the following statement to the Associated Press: "It was established that Annie Crawford is a drug fiend and probably is addicted to morphine. It is also established that Annie Crawford had accepted during the past three weeks to morphine and was in a position to obtain it in practically any quantity during that period. During the indisposition of Elsie Crawford she bitterly complained that her food and drink were doped. I have charged Annie Crawford with the murder of her sister, Elsie."

For five hours the Crawford woman was under examination by the police, she stoutly maintained her innocence and appeared cool and unconcerned throughout. She is alleged to have made numerous contradictory statements and when confronted with evidence tending to incriminate her she would declare again and again, "I don't know."

Annie Crawford also holds an insurance policy on the life of her younger sister, Gertrude, who told the district attorney that she was afraid of her sister. In a fifth of a cupful of the contents of Elsie Crawford's stomach, Dr. A. L. Metz, the city chemist, found three and one-half grains of morphine sufficient to kill two persons. Other Mysterious Deaths. The first of the Crawford household to die was Mary Agnes Crawford, sister of the prisoner. Her death occurred June 26, 1910, suddenly, supposedly of acute meningitis. Three weeks later, July 15, 1910, her father died, uremic poisoning being given as the cause. After an interval of two weeks, or on July 29, 1910, her mother died. In her case uremic poisoning was also given as the cause. Lives Insured for $1750. Annie Crawford held insurance policies on the lives of the deceased in the following sums: Walter C. Crawford, father, $800; Mrs. Crawford, mother, $400; Mary Agnes Crawford, sister, $300; Elsie Crawford, sister, $250. She collected the insurance in each case except that of her sister, Elsie, payment of which was withheld pending receipt of the certificate of death. On Monday morning following her sister's death, Annie made a claim on the insurance company for the money. On that day she also went to the railroad office where her sister had been employed as stenographer, and collected $45 due the deceased. Assistant Chief of Detectives Dan F. Mounsey got the first tip involving the prisoner when he learned that she had recently purchased oxalic acid. Walter C. Crawford, the father, was a carpenter and a native of this city. The mother was of French extraction. Annie Crawford is pale and frail and of small stature. She looks more like a prim and self-conscious school teacher than a person with criminal inclinations. A wealth of dark sandy hair, arrayed in an elderly fashion, causes her to really look older than her 29 years. Her pale blue eyes are magnified by eye glasses of large, thick lenses, her nose is rather small and short and her mouth is large with full lips. She frustrated every attempt of the newspaper photographers to get her picture by persistently holding a large black fan before her face.

$1000 REWARD OFFERED FOR M'KAY'S SLAYER

Efforts Have Been Made, It Is Reported to Employ Counsel for the Petersons.

Reports have reached Asheville relative to the killing of George McKay, in Yancey county, to the effect that his family have offered $1000 reward for the apprehension of the three Petersons, who are charged with killing him, and so far as has been learned here, have not been captured. It appears that McKay came of a well-to-do Virginia family and that they are determined that his death shall not go unpunished. It is also reported that the Petersons are believed by some of the Yancey people to be in hiding somewhere in the county as, it is said, efforts have been made to employ legal counsel for them. McKay was killed near Green Mountain on the C. C. & O. railroad and at the time had 11 negroes with him, whom he had employed to work on a railroad. It is said that the Petersons had a warrant for one of them and were drinking when they went to serve it. At the same time a negro was killed and another wounded, both named Young. It is said that the latter is recovering.

Advice to Women

You are advised to take a few doses of Cardui, the woman's tonic, whenever you feel poorly. It will ease your headache, backache, nervousness, irritability, and other symptoms of womanly trouble. It will help to build up your bodily strength, steady your nerves, brighten your eyes, and bring the glow of health to your cheeks.

Mrs. Fannie Fitzpatrick, of Paris, Ky., says: "I suffered for 2 years, with my back, head and limbs. I had the blues so bad, I could hardly live. I had no appetite. I never had any health, after my last child, until I began to take Cardui. All women who suffer from female trouble, should take Cardui. It is the best medicine on earth, for women."

The sale for Cardui is so large, that every druggist keeps a supply. You will find it in every store you go. It must be good, or it wouldn't sell so well. It is convenient to know you can always get it. Take some today. Why not?

SCENE FROM THE "LET'S ALL GO TO NEW YORK" NUMBER IN "THE ECHO," AUDITORIUM, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 28

"The Echo" company numbering 50 people and carrying two solid car loads of scenery, mechanical effects, properties, etc., arrived in Asheville this morning from Richmond. "The Echo" is the entertaining musical play that enjoyed an all summer engagement at Charles Dillingham's Globe Theater in New York and of which the New York Times said: "It is one of the neatest, cleanest, cleverest and most entertaining musical shows seen on Broadway in a long time." Like all the Dillingham pieces, "The Echo" has a large chorus of pretty girls in attractive costumes. The young stars assisting the principals in many dancing specialties. In fact "The Echo" might almost be called a carnival of dances, for there is constant movement, with Blanche Deyo, who appears as "Kate" the head waitress and Frank Woods who portrays the role of the college bell boy who is afraid of work in a half a dozen pleasing specialties.

The seats for "The Echo" are selling very fast, and it is anticipated the Auditorium will have a very large audience tonight. Says yesterday's Raleigh News and Observer: "The Echo" was the attraction at the Academy of Music last night and it proved to be a highly delightful echo in every way. It is a musical comedy, with plenty of music and comedy in it, and a great deal of dancing also. A big audience was present and the performance was greatly enjoyed from start to finish. The applause was of the generous kind that showed that the audience thought it a presentation worth while. "There are many people who take part in the performance, and among these are a large number of pretty girls who know how to sing and to dance, and who wore costumes that were pleasing to the eye. And the men in the musical comedy could sing and dance also. In fact, everybody who took part could dance, even to the elderly but frisky stenographer and typewriter, and the big bear who featured the bear-finals. And it was lively dancing that was done by all who made up the cast of 'The Echo.' The plot in a musical comedy is never a feature, but there was enough in this to keep things on the go, and to help it along there were riding girls, golf girls, canoe girls, tennis girls, dancing girls, riding men, tennis men, golf men and canoe men, all these in addition to the principals of the cast. Among these the headliner were Miss Blanche Deyo and Frank Woods, who kept the audience in a great state of movement all the evening. Both star and dancer in the cleverest way and Miss Deyo in a pretty girl. Adding these artists were others who did high-class musical comedy work and the entire play went along in the jolliest mood. The principal characters are well balanced and the performance goes ahead at a lively clip.

"Clever and pretty girls, men who measure up to the demands, costumes that are all right, and music that is full of melody are all in 'The Echo,' as well as many special features that are winners. The performance is one that made a big hit in Raleigh and it is worth seeing and hearing by all who get the opportunity. And when the performance is over the verdict is sure to be: 'The Echo' is all right. It's a jolly musical comedy that comes up to promise and gives an evening of rare good amusement."

Madame Sherry. George W. Lederer, who added the word vaudeville to the lexicon of the native theater when he and Alexander Herrmann brought to America about a score of years ago the first all-European company of variety artists, which he labelled the "Trans-Atlantic Vaudeville," a classification he chose with a view to distinguishing the foreign specialty artists from the rank and file of native specialty turns then somewhat in dispute under the term "variety," has successfully used the term vaudeville again in this country. The program of "Madame Sherry," the newest Lederer musical attraction, produced by Lederer in partnership with A. H. Woods and H. H. Frazer, describes the piece as a "French Vaudeville," which means as Lederer explains it, a form of musical play where all songs and all comic business are direct from the story and not, as in the common or garden variety of native musical comedy, mostly introduced matter, regardless of any assimilative qualities the introduction may possess. "Madame Sherry" will be played here by the New York New Amsterdam Theater company on Tuesday, October 3rd. Tickets will be placed on sale Saturday morning at Whitlock's clothing store.
