NATIONAL LEAGUE RAG
CINCHED BY NEW YORK
 Pitchers' Duel Between Mathewson and Rucker, Latter Recalled from Wedding Trip.
 Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 5.—New York clinched the pennant by defeating Brooklyn, 2 to 0. Should Chicago win all its remaining games and the Giants lose theirs the New Yorks cannot be overhauled. The game yesterday was a pitcher's duel between Mathewson and Rucker, the latter having been recalled from his wedding trip to pitch. He was to have been married October 12 but the ceremony was advanced to Sunday last. Rucker pitched as well as Mathewson, but two errors following a hit by Doyle in the fourth inning were responsible for one tally. Rucker retired in the eighth to let Daly bat for him, and the New Yorks scored their second run, off Knetzer in the ninth on Devoe's single, a steal, a wild pitch and an infield tap by Snodgrass. The game was further signalized by a triple play in the ninth, when, with Doyle on second and Snodgrass on first, Murray popped up a fly to Stark. The hit and run play was under way and the runners were going full tilt. Stark tossed the ball to Daubert, doubling up Snodgrass, and the triple was completed when Daubert threw to Tooley, nailing Doyle.
 Score: R. H. E.
 New York 2 8 0
 Brooklyn 0 7 2
 Batteries—Mathewson and Meyers; Rucker, Knetzer and Erwin.

MAN AND HIS BRIDE ARE HURT BY TRAIN
 Mrs. H. F. Heflin of Greensboro Badly Injured in Grade Crossing Accident.
 Gazette-News Bureau, Daily News Buildings, Greensboro, Oct. 5.
 Another serious accident occurred at the Summit avenue crossing of the main line of the Southern railway late yesterday afternoon, when fast mail No. 26 struck a buggy in which were Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Heflin, demolished the vehicle and hurled the occupants probably 25 or 30 feet. Both Mr. and Mrs. Heflin are badly injured.
 Mr. and Mrs. Heflin came to Greensboro from Washington recently. They have been married only a few weeks. Yesterday afternoon they were out driving in a new buggy that Mr. Heflin had just purchased for his bride. In attempting to cross the tracks at Summit avenue the buggy was struck; the occupants thrown out; the vehicle demolished, but the horse escaped injury.
 A watchman at the crossing, it is claimed, warned Heflin of the train's approach. It is said that Heflin failed to heed the warning. The Summit avenue crossing is regarded as a death-trap; and when it was established one or more Greensboro people strongly urged an overhead bridge.
 The accident at the Summit avenue crossing yesterday afternoon makes the fourth at railway crossing and tracks here within the past week.
Masonic Cornerstone Laid.
 The first brick of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home here was laid yesterday. The laying of the cornerstone and the actual and active commencement of building operations were attended by appropriate exercises. The building will be located at the corner of the roads just west of Lindley park. The work will be pushed as rapidly as possible and it is expected that the first story will be completed within a month or six weeks and that the roof will be on before Christmas. The building will be handsome and a credit to Greensboro and the Order of the Eastern Star.
Founders' Day Observed.
 The State Normal here observed Founders' day today. A committee from the faculty, accompanied by students went to Greene Hill cemetery and there placed wreaths of flowers and evergreens on the grave of the founder and the first president. At 11 o'clock an address was delivered by Clarence H. Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer. This evening short addresses will be delivered by representatives of the different classes that have graduated since the opening of the institution in 1892.

PEOPLE ARE DISCUSSING NEW TAX ASSESSMENT
 Some Contend That Assessment of Real Estate at Its "Money Value" Is Wrong.

The people of the county are manifesting great interest in the new scheme of taxation and many of them not a little dissatisfaction. Frequently you hear men on the streets, especially farmers, declaring that taxes are too high and that the system of assessing real estate "at its money value" is all wrong. There was an interesting discussion on the square yesterday between a resident of Upper Hominy township and Leicester township with one of the county commissioners, who helped out both of them at times.
 Incidentally the Upper Hominy man declared that land in his township was assessed at 40 per cent higher value than that of Leicester and the burden of argument seemed to bear this out, and was accounted for by the fact that Leicester has no railroad.
 The Upper Hominy man insisted that land and everything else should be taxed according to the income derived from it, and the Leicester man, who was maintaining that land should be assessed at its money value, asked him what should be done in the case of a diamond ring which produced no income. The other did not say.
 The Upper Hominy man went on to say that Biltmore Estate forest land adjoining his was assessed at $2 per acre, while his own, which was not as good as the other, was assessed at $5 an acre. It seemed to be admitted that there was something wrong about this, on the face of it.
 Both the farmers were good talkers and the Leicester man valiantly upheld that land should be taxed at what it would bring if sold.
 If the discussion indicated anything it was that the property owners are thinking a great deal about taxation.

BEEF VS. BEANS.
 Vegetarian and Meat Eater Making Transcontinental Endurance Test.
 New York World.
 Vegetarians and meat eaters, which is to say pretty much everybody, must be interested in these two scientific tramps, Jesse and Warren Buffum. Dr. Dudley A. Sargent, physical director of Harvard university, wants to test the relative value of meat and vegetables in sustaining a man under physical strain. So he set Jesse Buffum, 25 years old, and his brother Warren, 22 years old, to walking across the continent from Boston to San Francisco.
 Jesse must eat meat; Warren must live on vegetables. Both must sleep outdoors, whatever the weather may be, and must refrain from the use of alcoholic drinks. Last Sunday night they slept in a field near Ota, Ind., after the manner of tramps who eat anything they can get. Yet, when the Buffums arrived in Chicago, they said they were having a fine time on the walk.
 The hotel clerk was momentarily nonplussed at the request for accommodations on the roof of the hotel, fifteen stories up, made by the brothers, who are under contract to sleep out of doors, but he recovered sufficiently to say:
 "Well, I've put 'em everywhere except on the roof, so why not the roof?" and, accordingly, summoned a page, who took them to the roof and told them to take their choice of the whole floor.

 The two brothers have a style of walking described by Dr. Sargent as the North American stride. Their calf muscles are only slightly developed, so easy is their method of gliding over the ground.
 Warren, the vegetarian, so far has a little the better of the test, being in somewhat better shape than his brother. They will remain in Chicago several days restive.
 Each takes his turn at trundling a wheelbarrow containing clothes and an emergency supply of food—both kinds. Just before they started Dr. Sargent carefully weighed and measured the Buffums and learned their normal heart action and respiration. Presumably this is being done every now and then during the tramp so that everyone may know whether beef or beans, chops or cabbage, pork or potatoes, provides the best fuel for the human mechanism.
 Although the Buffums say they are having a fine time, it is difficult for a man in an easy chair to understand how both can have a fine time over the same stretch of road. Then, again, Warren seems to have the better of it, for he gets hungry on route he can help himself to fresh corn or potatoes or tomatoes, and cook them along the road if his conscience is flexible and the farmer is out of sight. Jesse, of course, cannot lead off a lamb or a sheep, and must content himself with canned meats.
 The Buffums are like real tramps. In that they need not bother about the expenses of their journey. Harvard pays those, and as there are no taxis or parlor car berths to be rented, it is not probable that the experiment will break the university.
 You are not experimenting on yourself when you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a cold as that preparation has won its great reputation as a dextensive sale by its remarkable cures of colds, and can always be depended upon. It is equally valuable for adults and children and may be given to young children with implicit confidence as it contains no harmful drug. Sold by all dealers.

 Cobb has captured the American league records for base-stealing and run-getting. He stole 85 bases and made 149 runs during the season, and leads the league in batting with a percentage of .417. His 247 hits this season breaks the major league record held since 1897 by Keeler with 243 hits.

THE GAMBLERS
 Charles Klein's Great Play May Teach a Moral of Wall Street to Men---But to Every Woman It Teaches a Lesson of Married Life.

LIKE most of his successful plays, Charles Klein's great drama, "The Gamblers," deals with the problems of the day from the masculine point of view. As "The Third Degree" was intended to show the evils of the police system, "The Gamblers" is a hit at the politician reformer and the Wall Street crowd, but the women who go to see the play will tell you differently. They see in it an expose of married life, one of the reasons why the divorce evil is growing and why homes are being broken up every day. And they're right.
 Two men held central positions in the play—Darwin, the righteous distasteful in many virtues, at least thinks of others before himself, and that settles it with the average woman. You men who complain that you are losing your wives' affection, go to see "The Gamblers" and ask yourself: "Am I self centered like this man? Am I like a Pharisee? Do I pride myself upon my goodness, my honesty and my honor to the exclusion of every other human feeling?"
 Darwin never for a moment contemplates that there may be another point in view equally right with his own. His requests to his wife are really commands. She is well provided for, but provided for as he dictates; her friends, her occupations, must be of his choosing; his interests must be hers, no matter what old time associations and friendships hold her back.

PROVIDENCE MEETING NAMES STATE TICKET
 Rhode Island Democrats for Income Tax and Direct Senatorial Election.
 Providence, R. I., Oct. 5.—Despite some expressions of dissatisfaction prior to the democratic state convention here yesterday by delegates who did not like the idea of having the state central committee draw up a ticket of state officers, this ticket was accepted by the convention. The nominee for governor, Lewis A. Waterman, of Providence, led the party last year.
 The other nominees are: Lieutenant governor, Albert A. Archambault, of Warwick; secretary of state, Sayles B. Storer of Gloucester; attorney general, James A. Gassell of East Providence; general treasurer, Albert M. Stelner of Providence.
 In the platform adopted President Taft is severely condemned for vetoing the tariff bill, action which is attributed to the fact that "these bills came from a democratic house." Constitutional amendments providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote, and for an income tax, are recommended and "reasonable regulation" of corporation is urged.
 The platform also recommends the democrats of the sixty-second congress "who so faithfully carried out the pledges of the democratic party in passing much needed tariff legislation."

There isn't a woman living whose sympathy wouldn't go out to the first man, for women, take them as a class, detest dishonesty in speculation above all things. They have suffered too much by it. But by the end of the play not a feminine member of the audience has a particle of sympathy for the virtuous district attorney who conquers the Wall Street thieves.
 And why? I ask you. Because it turns out that he prosecutes and muckracks for his own political advancement? Not a bit of it! That wouldn't worry the average woman. Because of the way he treats his wife. Selfishness incarnate crops out all over him, while the other man, lack-
