PLEMMONS HELD TO HIGHER COURT

Judge Adams Binds Over Man in $1000 Bond, Whose Machine Killed Boy.

MANY WITNESSES TELL OF MOTOR CAR TRAGEDY

Two Declare Plemmons Drove Slowly—Herman Owenby Says Accident Was Unavoidable.

W. Crawford Plemmons was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Adams this morning on a charge of manslaughter and after the evidence was in he was bound over to Superior court under bond of $1000, the same amount under which he was held for the preliminary hearing. The manslaughter charge grew out of the death of Linwood Bell Tuesday evening, when Plemmons' automobile, at the intersection of Vance and Woodfin streets, collided with a coasting wagon on which the boy was riding, with his cousin, Albert Smith, who was injured.

Quite a number of witnesses were heard, the first being Mrs. Ledbetter, who lives on Woodfin street, between Vance and Oak street, and who was sitting on her porch when the accident occurred. She said she did not pay much attention to the machine when it passed the house, did not know how fast it was running, or whether the horn was sounded or not. She saw the children, after the machine had struck them, lying in the street, and from where she was sitting she thought the machine ran about 10 steps beyond.

Mrs. Blackwell, who lives between Vance street and Central avenue, was the next witness. She said she was in the house when the little boy came in and said two little children had been run over by an automobile. She rushed out and saw the machine stop close to her house, 31 steps from where the children were lying in the street, that Captain Sprouse had stepped off the distance. She said the man who was driving the car got out and pulled a little coaster wagon from under the car. She went to the scene and saw Dr. Briggs looking after the children but did not remember whether or not Plemmons had assisted him.

J. C. Hughes, the next witness, said that he was driving a dray wagon down Woodfin street and was looking for a house number when a man in the wagon it hit him said, "there are two children killed by that automobile." He said he looked up and saw the machine just passing on and that was his opinion it ran about 25 or 100 feet before it stopped. He rushed down to the place and saw Dr. Briggs attending the children, but did not see Plemmons helping until he drove his machine up and took the boys, with Dr. Briggs, to the hospital.

E. M. Israel and Mal Lawrence Young then testified as to some observations they made as to how far a person could see up Vance street, when coming down Woodfin in the direction the machine was going when the accident occurred. This testimony was to the effect that from a point at least 70 feet up Woodfin, a stretch of about 90 feet of Vance street could be seen. This testimony was corroborated by Captain Sprouse, who made the exact measurements. The latter also testified that the automobile stopped at a point 84 feet from where the children were struck. He took the former point as pointed out to him by Mr. and Mrs. Blackwell. He estimated that the machine had skidded 10 or 15 feet.

Said Plemmons Drove Slowly. H. C. Crowell, who was driving the Arboast car immediately behind Plemmons, went on the stand and said that when he first saw the children they came out from Vance street on a coaster wagon and attempted to turn the corner but the wagon skidded and they went directly under the machine. He said Plemmons was driving slowly and that it looked like the wagon was going faster than the machine. He said Plemmons had turned his car away from them towards the curb but that he was very close to Vance street when they first appeared. He also offered what might be termed expert testimony, as to the effect of applying breaks to a machine on a wet pavement, as was the condition on the afternoon of the accident. He said that a machine would skid farther than it would roll if the breaks were not applied slowly. It was his opinion that in an emergency a man would be likely to lock his wheels, and in that case it was more difficult to stop in a short distance.

Clifford Arboast, who was also in the machine behind, corroborated Crowell's testimony as to when the children had appeared on the street. Herman Owenby, who was in the Plemmons' machine, said that the accident was unavoidable, as the boy simply dashed under the car.

Dr. Briggs' Testimony. Charles A. Webb and Locke Craig, attorneys for Plemmons, asked that Dr. Briggs be called to the stand and he was sent for. He said he did not see the accident but went to the scene and assisted with the injured boy. He said Plemmons helped him and had one of the boys when he arrived. He took it and ordered a car to be brought to take it to the hospital. He knew nothing about which car had struck the boys or how far it had gone.

Judge Adams was of the opinion that the case should be passed upon by a jury. It is probable that more witnesses will be summoned before the case is tried in Superior court during the October term.

CITY NEWS

Born to Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Early, a daughter.

There will be a meeting of the county teachers at Leicester tomorrow.

Sheriff Williams today received a commitment for the removal of Burnie Dillingham, who is insane, to the hospital for the insane at Morganton.

The Asheville and East Tennessee railroad will run cars tonight to and from Weaverville to accommodate those who may wish to attend the fair and the play at the Auditorium.

At a meeting of the directors of the Farmers' Union Supply company, which was formed to do a mercantile business sometime ago, E. B. Stradley was elected as manager of the establishment, which is to be started at once.

The Cherokee Indians, who are here attending the fair and who have participated in the games of LaCrosse and the war dance, will go to the Auditorium tonight in a body to see the performance of Mutt and Jeff. They will occupy the boxes.

Evangelistic services will be held October 12-22 at North Asheville Methodist church on Chestnut street. The preaching will be done by Re. P. C. Battle, evangelist. Mr. Battle has been evangelizing more or less for 20 years and practices the "old time" gospel. "Everybody is most cordially invited to attend the services, which will be every night at 7:30 o'clock and every afternoon, except Sunday, at 4 o'clock.

All who have any Mission hospital offerings are requested to pay them at once at the Battery Park bank. There are still a number of the contributions banks out. They should also be sent to the Battery Park bank. The latest contribution is more than $30 from Trinity church to be added to their $213 previously reported. One all-year-round hotel has asked for one of the little banks for the winter guests toward next year's Hospital Sunday campaign.

At the Bible class for men at the Y. M. C. A. tonight, which is usually taught by Judge Pritchard, the teacher will be J. C. Martin, president of the association, who will talk on the subject, "Life Giving Stream." An oyster supper will be served from 7 until 7:30 o'clock and the class will take up the time between 7:30 and 8 o'clock, the whole occupying but an hour. There were 50 present at the class last week and tonight it is expected that there will be many more.

At the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. directors Tuesday night it was decided to ask Locke Craig to be the speaker at the new and contributing members' banquet which is to take place on the evening of Thursday, October 26. Mr. Craig has accepted and will deliver the address. Invitations will be sent to at least 300 next week. The banquet will be provided by the Ladies' auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. At the banquet five directors are to be elected for the association. There will be an excellent musical program.

Dr. W. W. Rowe, pastor of the Grace German Reformed church of Newton, will open the fall session of the Y. M. C. A. men's meetings Sunday afternoon. A number of other speakers have also been secured for the fall and winter meetings. Dr. Rowe is a strong and forceful speaker and his coming has been awaited with interest. The club of 20 men will render several selections and B. Stinson will sing "There's a Beautiful Land on High." It is planned to make this one of the biggest meetings of the year.
