Loughran-Gill.

An exceedingly pretty wedding was that of Saturday night, when Miss Adelaide Loughran became the bride of James Gill of New York. The wedding was a quiet home affair with only members of the immediate families and the very close friends of the contracting parties present, and took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loughran, on North Main street. A large wedding reception was held immediately following the ceremony, which was attended by about 20 friends of the young people. A buffet supper was served and later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Gill left for an extended bridal tour. However, they would give out no information as to what points would be visited before they take up their residence in New York; Cuba will be among them, friends believe.

The residence was very beautifully decorated for the occasion, the color scheme carried out being yellow and white. Pinks and ferns formed the back ground for the decorations and the cut flowers so extensively used were yellow and white chrysanthemums. In the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, an improvised altar was formed surrounded by banks of palms and cut flowers and the mantels were laden with the long stemmed chrysanthemums and ferns. The altar was lighted with tall white candles with silver shades.

Upon the entry of the bridal party into the parlor, the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was sung by Mrs. O. C. Hamilton, Mrs. Joseph Claverie, Mrs. Willis Collins and Miss Helen Sites, accompanied by Spear's orchestra. Just preceding the entry, Gounod's "Ave Marie" was sung by Mrs. Hamilton. The Roman Catholic ceremony was used and Rev. Father Marion of St. Lawrence's church officiated. The bride, who is noted for her beauty, was a veritable picture of loveliness in a white satin chateau gown trimmed with princess lace, with a court train of princess lace. The bridal veil was of tulle edged with princess lace. It was arranged in a cap effect, being caught at each side with a cluster of orange blossoms.

The bride party was preceded by Little Misses Lucile James and Madeline Loughran, a small sister of the bride. Miss Margaret Loughran, another young sister of the bride, was the dainty flower girl. All three were dressed in white with over pale yellow silk. Mrs. Walter Dixon, of New York, was the matron of honor and was dressed in a gown of yellow crepe meteor, adorned with Venice lace. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Miss Sarah Jones was the maid of honor and was beautifully attired in a white and gold cloth gown. She carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids were Misses Lila Oates and Marguerite Wadsworth, and were lovely in white chiffon gowns, embroidered with yellow roses. Georgia, in a gown of New York was Mr. Gill's best man. Miss Mary Stikemather, Miss Lucile Campbell, Miss Julia Grace and Mrs. Graham Webb assisted in serving the buffet supper which followed the ceremony.

The display of wedding gifts occupied an entire room and the presents were among the handsomest ever received by a bride in this city. The gifts included all kinds of silver and cut glass pieces and sets, a gold tea set, and innumerable gifts of linen, china, etc. The display was one upon which the eyes could be feasted for hours.

The wedding reception, which was so largely attended, afforded the many friends of the young people a chance to offer their hearty congratulations, and to breathe in some of the atmosphere of happiness which prevailed throughout the day.

The reception lasted for some time, and then Mr. and Mrs. Gill drove away to the station, accompanied by a few friends, to catch an outboard train for a honeymoon trip of which their friends know nothing. That was one detail of the affair which they refused to divulge.

Miss Helen Murphy of West Asheville has returned from a several weeks' motoring trip in Canada.

George Loughran came in from Belmont to attend the wedding of his sister, Miss Adelaide, Saturday night.

Miss Fannie Stiehl has returned from a visit to relatives in Memphis.

Mrs. Beekman Lorillard has returned to the city from Newport, where she spent the summer.

Miss Sylvia Blake has returned from a year spent abroad and in the east.

Dr. Robert S. Carroll has gone to New York on a business trip.

Mrs. William Hart has returned from a visit to her parents in Rockingham and a short stay at Wrightsville.

Billiousness is due to a disordered condition of the stomach. Chamberlain's Tablets are essentially a stomach medicine, intended especially to act on that organ; to cleanse it, tone and invigorate it, to regulate the liver and to banish biliousness positively and effectually. For sale by all dealers.

DEFENSE HAS INNING IN M'REE MURDER CASE

Opelousas, Oct. 30.—The defense today began to introduce testimony in the case of Mrs. Z. R. McRee, accused of the murder of Allan Garland.

Spends Quiet Sunday.

In the little room on the third floor of the old red brick jail at St. Landry parish, which she has occupied since the morning of September 21, when she shot to death young Garland, Mrs. McRee spent a rather quiet Sunday. She had breakfast with her husband and four children. Later in the day she received several friends with whom she chatted and laughed, expressing the same confidence in acquittal that she has shown from the day her trial opened, last Monday.

Sunday came as a grateful respite not only to the defendant but to the attorneys, who were thoroughly tired out by the first week of the trial. Saturday Mrs. McRee plainly showed the effects of the long strain, but last night she appeared greatly refreshed and had a smile for the reporters and others who called at the jail.

The jury of 12 men who are to decide Mrs. McRee's fate, spent most of the day on the court house square, talking about on the grass, always in the custody of deputy sheriffs.

The prisoner's friends call attention to the fact that Mrs. McRee's story of why she shot and killed young Garland has never been told—at least the public has heard no more than: "I killed him to protect my honor."

Attempt to Show Undue Intimacy.

The prosecution closed its direct evidence Saturday afternoon in the case of Mrs. McRee. Judge Pavy immediately adjourned court until 9 o'clock this morning.

Only two days of the first week of the trial were devoted to the taking of evidence, the first four days being consumed in securing a jury. It is expected that the trial will last all of this week.

Counsel for the defendant late Saturday afternoon boldly challenged the prosecution to attack the character of Mrs. McRee. This announcement to Judge Hunter, of counsel, follows an objection to a line of questioning which served to interrupt the initial effort of the prosecution to show an undue intimacy between the prisoner and Allan Garland.

MR. POTEET SAVES WIFE

His Neighbor, Who Would Not Take His Good Advice, Is Still in Poor Condition.

Lowry, N. C.—Mr. W. S. Poteet, of this city, says: "My wife suffered from a disease common to all women, for about three years. She took one bottle of Cardui, and was cured—sound and well."

About three months ago, she was taken down again, and I went, at once, and got her another bottle of Cardui. She felt better very soon. By the time the bottle was used up, she was well again.

We had a neighbor, who was in about the same condition as my wife, and we advised her to take Cardui, but she did not. Her medicine bill was $30, and she is not strong yet. Which was the best? Think of paying $0 to 1!

I will certainly speak a good word for this wonderful remedy, every chance I have. It is the greatest woman's remedy on earth."

For pain, weakness, irregularity, and any of the troubles from which weak women suffer, Cardui has proven its helping, curative power.

For nearly a life-time, it has been in use for weak women, thousands of whom have written enthusiastic letters of truly remarkable cures by this old-reliable tonic for weak, sick, suffering women.

Why should it not help you, too? Try it.

just been erected, at a cost of $2,000,000, by Allegheny county, in memory of the men who fought during the civil war. It is the first banquet to be held in Memorial hall and therein lies a story.

A "Dry" banquet.

Arrangements had been perfected to hold the banquet at the Hotel Schenley but requests for tickets were so numerous that there was no room in the hotel and the scene was shifted to Memorial hall. It was to have been a "wet" banquet but committees of old soldiers and the county commissioners notified the chamber of commerce that that it would be against the law of the memorial to serve liquor within the hall and it was announced that the banquet would be "dry." It had been planned to extinguish the lights in the big auditorium suddenly and the waiters were to have entered from all sides of the banquet room carrying dishes of flaming brandy. It was conceded that the picture of 800 tongues of flickering blue flames being carried about the darkened hall and finally placed before each diner would have been effective. But the prospect of this picture was knocked into a cocked hat when liquor was barred and the artistic chef's only consolation now is the fact that the secret service guard of the president would not have allowed the lights to have been turned down anyway.

POLICE COURT

Few Cases on Docket But They Required Some Time for Adjudication.

The docket in police court, this morning was not so crowded as on many previous Mondays, but it took a long time to be disposed of. There were quite a number of "drunks," disorderly cases and fights to be heard, besides a general mixup on North street Saturday night and a couple of retailing charges, all of which required the court's attention until past noon.

The retailing charges were against Frank Craven, colored, and the prosecuting witnesses were Robert Plemons and G. W. Chambers. The former could not identify Craven as the man who had sold him the whiskey, but Chambers said that he saw the transaction, that the sale was made about eight weeks ago and that Craven was the man who had sold the whiskey. Chambers also testified that the defendant sold him a pint of whiskey last Saturday. Craven was found guilty and was given eight months for each offense. He appealed the case, but later withdrew the appeal.

Ben Thomas, a negro, was bound to the present term of Superior court under a bond of $150 for the larceny of $21 from H. Hardman. It seems that Hardman had left the money in his room under the mattress one morning, and when he returned for it, it was gone. Thomas was said to be the only person who had access to the room and was therefore charged with the theft.
