A $50,000 Jury in Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—The richest jury ever summoned in Cook county, with a total estimated wealth of more than $50,000,000, has been completed. Isaac A. Doff, deputy sheriff, armed with the summons fought his way past doormen, office boys, and private secretaries to the offices of the wealthy men who form the jury, and not one of his victims escaped their

Following the action of the board of aldermen last night in accepting the proposition of the county commissioners in regard to the establishment of a reform or training school for the city and county, Chair-man E. W. Patten of the board of commissioners today stated that the work of improving the buildings at the old waterworks property, where the school is to be, will begin at once, in fact as soon as a carpenter can be secured. It is thought that it will take about 30 days to do the necessary work and in the meantime preparations will be made looking to the nanagement of the institution

"It is so, your excellency, and your wishes shall be respected." said the obsequious host.

"How does the widow happen to be here alone?" inquired the judge without much show of interest. "Her brother is at Lyons, France.

He is a buyer of silks for Americans. He will soon be here." "Is she good looking and rich?"

asked the judge. "Had I known, your excellency, that Chicago, Canada, had such handsome I should have gone there for cond wife. As for riches, she my has my best rooms and orders what she wants. My bill against her will be very much." "Think she's on the marry?" "When I saw you, sir, and knew that you were an American I said to myself:

"'He comes from the same country He looks like a widower. He appears to be rich. Why should not the widower marry the widow and thus make each other happy?"

"Thanks for your interest in the case, old man, but go slow. An American widower and an American widow will always find each other in good time if you leave them alone. Just leave it to us."

They met at the table, but were not introduced. The judge found the widow to be r woman not much over thirty. She was right and keen and self possessed. he found the judge to be a man of bout forty-eight, hale and hearty and inclined to be frank spoken. Of course they became interested at once, and after a few minutes the implicit re-entered the office to say to his wife: "Today, Marie, I have done a noble thing. The widower will marry the widow, and when they return to America they will probably live in New York, Arizona, and be happy all their days. Did I not tell you when we were married that as a landlord I should be a magnificent success?" Neither the Widow Chatham nor Judge Fordham had a story to tell. It came out casually in conversation that she was the widow of a Chicago wholesale grocer and had taken the trip abroad at the instance of ber brother Tom, who was a silk buyer for a New York house and who would soon be with them. It came out the same way that the judge had retired from the bench in New York and was low taking it easy abroad while his onds went right on piling up interest, They found themselves agreeing on almost all subjects, especially on the greatness of Chicago and the purity of

There was just a bit of mystery about the brother. He was to ar rive at such and such a time, but rive at such and such a time, but he didn't arrive. It was all, the fault of the alls men, he wrote. They were taking things easy and refused to be hustled. He would be along in good time, however, and in one of his letters he wrote that it would be a pleasure for him to meet the judge. The judge smiled grimly when this extract was read to him. He seemed to doubt it. After their acquaintance had lasted two weeks and one day just after a tolegram had been received by the widow the judge strelled jute the railroad depot and found her about to take a frain-that is, he thought she was. There is a pretty fair mountain at Lausanne. It is high enough to have precipices and rugged enough to put a man out of wind to climb it. When you have followed "Lovers' walk" far enough you strike into "Heart's highway," and a quarter of a mile farther you debouch upon a platform called "Maiden's rest." The judge and the widow had been up there twice. On the afternoon of the early morning walk they took the path again. When they had reached the plateau and found seats and had a few words to say about the view the widow looked the judge fair in the eyes and said:

"Yes?

"Where do I come in?" she asked after awhile.

"You don't come in. Tommy did the there anything more to say?"

"Sir. I do not know you!" answered the widow as she arose and started down the path by her lonesome

"And so you go away to Lyons?" repeated the landlord after the judge had announced his intentions.

"Yes: I have to go." "And the widow from Chicago, Can-
