CHEMIST GETS SAMPLES OF LOCAL FOOD STUFFS

W. A. Smith, Assistant in State Department, in the City for This Purpose.

W. A. Smith, assistant food chemist of the state department at Raleigh, is in the city today collecting samples of food products and food stuffs for analysis in the laboratories of the department. Besides Asheville, Mr. Smith visits a number of other western North Carolina towns on his trip, where samples are also taken. He travels over the entire state and many of the more important points are visited more than once a year. He was in Asheville on the same errand some time last summer. Special trips have to be made at times on account of complaints about certain products but luckily Asheville has not yet bothered the department to that extent.

Very few people know that the products that they buy from their grocer are being closely watched at all times by those who are attempting to enforce the pure food laws, but in reality almost every retail, and all wholesale merchants are frequently visited and samples taken of their stock to find if they are complying with the law. Those who are in violation of it are rather severely dealt with too, and it is doubtless a pretty safe idea for

GOLD CHILLS PASSED OVER HER
Stanton Lady Has a Disagreeable Experience, But Is Able to Help Herself as Well as Her Daughters.
Stanton, Mo.—"I felt a throbbing," says Mrs. Cora Armstrong, of Stanton, "in my left side, and I suffered for months with womanly troubles. Cold chills would pass all over me, and I would get so weary at times that I would have to lie down. I bought a bottle of Cardui, and by the time it was taken, I was feeling better, so I tried another bottle, and by the time that was gone, my troubles had left me entirely. I have been healthier, since I took Cardui, than ever before in my life. There is no medicine, anywhere, better than Cardui. I have not only taken it myself, but both my daughters, who were very delicate, have been helped by Cardui more than anything they ever tried." The best way to cure womanly troubles, pains, headache, backache, etc., is to help nature, by taking Cardui. Cardui is a true tonic. It helps to build up the delicate womanly constitution, and brings health and strength to the system. Fifty years of success, in relieving aches and pains of other weak and illing women, is proof that Cardui should help you, too. Try it. N. B.—Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

GOLDER WAVE IS COMING, SAYS THE WEATHER MAN
The Thermometer Tobogganing Downward and the End Not Yet in Sight.
The people of the city are about to be let in on a big secret. It is turning cold today. The worst part of it is, however, that the real cold wave is yet to come. What the thermometer registers in your back porch now is just a prelude to what is going to be in the morning, according to the weather man who made the prediction. The fact is that Asheville is about to be visited by another of those very pleasing northwestern gales. The last one is probably very distinctly remembered, when the mercury took a toboggan slide from 63 degrees one Sunday morning to the unucky 13 the next morning. The present "snap" started this morning about 4 o'clock, when the wind shifted to the northwest, and since then the mercury has been slowly but surely going down. It promises to be out of sight by morning, though, even at the present rate. At 8 o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 38 degrees and at 1 o'clock it was down to 24. The weather man says it hasn't stopped yet, and it is likely to be down between 10 and 15 degrees by morning. He thinks, however, that the worst will be over within 24 hours, which is consoling. There is no definite prediction as to whether the snow will continue or not; but the assurance is given that if it clears up, it will be considerably colder, so it is likely that there will be much thanksgiving if it keeps on snowing. The present cold wave, as before stated, is coming from the northwest and the temperature near its source are rather low. That reported from St. Paul this morning was two degrees below zero and at other points it is almost as low. The freezing line has extended all the way down through Texas and practically to the border of Mexico. It is still warm on the Atlantic coast but the wave is likely to strike there before it is dissipated.
