PRESS MOTOR ON A TEAR; PAPER OVER HOUR LATE

Pure Food or Poor Food?

When so eminent a food expert as Dr. Wiley not only approves, but actually advocates the use of a product, you may be absolutely assured of its purity and healthfulness. In a recent speech Dr. Wiley commended in strongest terms the use of Cotton Oil as one of our most valuable food constituents, stating that undoubtedly better health would follow its general use. Cottolene—the perfect shortening—has been the leading product in Cotton Oil cooking fats for over a quarter of a century. You will find the doctors all with you when you use Cottolene in place of hog fat.

of starting an afternoon paper for the mail train; the proper official slammed over the starting lever of the ten-horsepower press motor—and then there was silence. Something had gone wrong with the levers of the compensator, the juice flowed not, and a little examination showed that the services of a motor doctor would be required.

The mails were missed. The contingent of "office subscribers" began to drop in, one by one, for their evening tonic. An electrician hurried to the scene and began peering and prying into the recesses of the bulky critter. The carriers came trooping in, tempus fugit as usual and presently the paper was an hour late and getting later every minute.

Then the telephones began to sing their merry tune; at first at irregular intervals, one, then another, and by and bye and as fast as one inquiring subscriber received his explanation another would call. The office force took turns at manning the telephones, to repeat the monotonous: "paper's late; very sorry; trouble with the motor; hope to get started in a few minutes."

Darkness descended, and to cap the woes of blue Monday the electric lights went bad; same on, flickered away again, in the tantalizing way lights have.

Finally the motor was put in running shape once more, the press boomed forth its sonorous song, and the carriers set out in the darkness to traverse the city and its environs—an hour and a half behind time. This soon abated the telephone calls somewhat, but it was well along towards 9 o'clock before the calls entirely ceased. Accidents will happen even in the best regulated newspaper shops. This particular motor is due to go on a tear about once a year, and there is never any warning sign.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO DRAFT A PROSPECTUS

Greater Western North Carolina Association Executive Committee's Progress.

The executive committee of the Greater Western North Carolina association, which met yesterday in the board of trade rooms, adjourned without taking any definite action on any of the many things discussed; but they succeeded in getting several matters in shape so that they will be ready to be reported on at the meeting of the directors which is to be held here December 15.

It was determined to draw up a prospectus in which would be set forth the objects and purposes of the organization and a committee, consisting of W. E. Breese, jr., H. W. Plummer and George S. Powell, was appointed to prepare this.

The methods of advertising the western part of the state as well as the manner of financing the organization occupied a great deal of time yesterday.

It seems to be the idea of the leaders of the organization that it is better to take action with deliberation rather than to hurry things along. They desire to get started on a firm basis and for this reason they propose to give every proposal mature consideration.
