

Best Laxative For Elderly People

Age has its attractions no less than youth in a more serene and quieter life. But it is in this very life of rest without sufficient exercise that comes with it, that the disorders that arise from its activity. Chief of these are a chronic, persistent constipation.

Most elderly people are troubled in this way, with accompanying symptoms of belching, drooping after eating, heaviness and general lassitude. Frequently there is difficulty of digesting even light food. With mental trouble comes a loss of interest in life, a loss of energy, as it is hard to find a suitable remedy. First of all the advice may be given that elderly people should eat only such as is easy to digest, water, or any of the more violent purgatives, or what they need, women as well as men, is a mild laxative tonic, one that is pleasant to take and yet acts without gripping.

The remedy that fits all these requirements, and has in addition tonic properties that strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which thousands of elderly people use. Frustateworthy people like Mr. W. W. Robinson, 100 W. Olive St., Co. Stateville, Ill., say they take it at regular intervals and so that they are not only in general good health, but that they have not in years felt as good as they do now. You will do well to always have a bottle of it in the house. It is good for all the family.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 465 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

BOY'S LEG BROKEN

Struck by Bicycle Ridden by Another Boy—How It Happened Not Known.

While on his way to school about 1 o'clock this afternoon, Josephus Murdock, the 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Murdock, of 35 Ashland avenue, was run over by a bicycle ridden by another boy, Ben Morgan, and had his leg broken below the knee. It is not known just how the accident happened. The boy was immediately attended by Dr. A. F. Reeves and the bones were set; and it is thought that he is doing very well. Morgan works at the market house, it is said. The accident occurred on Ashland avenue.

the Hibernal bank. Our officers happened to be right across the street and I told Mr. Burns that if he wanted to get a good look at McManigal then was his chance. Burns went out and got a good look at him. McManigal then went to the headquarters of the Iron Workers' union and finally home.

"We trailed McManigal and his wife the next day again as they walked with their children, looking into shop windows. I had been in McManigal's neighborhood for several days and was afraid his children, who had seen me, might recognize me and call their father's attention to me. I saw McManigal buy a pair of shoes, which he is now wearing, and I remember he was amazed after I had arrested him when I told him the size of the shoes he had on, how much he paid for them and who was with him when he bought them.

"Trailed Him to Toledo.

"McManigal left home carrying a suit case and I took a train with him to Toledo, keeping well away from his home. I arrived in Toledo, Toledo, Ohio, was waiting for McManigal at the station, and they set down in the station for a talk. McManigal pulled out a map, which I saw was of Detroit, as I passed them. They traced it over with a lead pencil, but finally went to the Meyerhoff hotel. J. B. registered as F. Caldwell and McManigal as G. Porter.

"I had received instructions to arrest J. B. as soon as I had located him, so I called up Chicago on the long distance telephone for instructions and got Raymond Burns on the other end. He told me to call in a half hour, and in the meantime get into communication over the telephone with his father, who was in Houston. Raymond Burns came on from Chicago with Detective Hiddingser and Mead.

"We stopped at a hotel on the opposite side of the street, but, as the police in Toledo were not in sympathy with us, we were afraid to risk an arrest there and determined to follow them to the next place.

"The next morning McManigal left the hotel with J. B. McManigal. McManigal had a suit case and at the station J. B. got a small grip from the check stand. They bought tickets for Detroit. The police of Chester were our friends and we felt happy as we boarded a train that morning for Detroit. McManigal and McManigal sat five seats ahead of us in the same day coach.

Two Are Arrested.

"We reached Detroit at noon and they went to a hotel. We decided to make the arrests there. We did so and took them to the depot, buying tickets for Chicago.

"J. B. kept shouting about being kidnapped and finally attracted the attention of some police officers, so we all had to go back to the police station. The rest of the afternoon we worked hard trying to get them away, and finally McManigal, who had his money in Chicago, persuaded McManigal they would be better off in his home town and J. B. signed a waiver to proceedings in Detroit.

"Later on James B. presented that remark, which he overheard, and said to us that he had never blown up a safe or robbed one in his life and that every dollar had been paid by the man 'upstairs.' He got a bit talkative and said 'I'm another Vincent Altman. It took $30,000 to clear him and I've got hundreds of thousands of dollars and the American Federation of Labor back of me. Clarence S. Darrow will be my attorney. They did not convict Altman, and they never can convict me. You fellows don't want me for no safe blowing. You want me for that job in Los Angeles.

Samuel L. Brown, chief investigator for the district attorney, wavered concerning a trip to San Francisco with possible arrests in view, and finally did not go up.

"The next arrest in this case will be 'higher up,' he said, 'a man well known in the labor world, and it will take place soon.'
