Special Term of Court for County Probable. Solicitor Will Shortly Decide Whether He Will Make Application for It.

It is probable that Runcome county will soon have another special term of Superior court for the trial of criminal cases or that the governor will be asked to authorize such a term, since it is practically certain that the criminal docket will be congested by the time the regular term convenes on February 5. If the special term is called it will probably begin January 15. The matter has not yet been decided by Solicitor Reynolds, but will be during the week. He may ask for a term of one week. The term convening February 5 lasts for three weeks.

A special term for the trial of criminal cases was held here a few months ago, when the docket was greatly relieved, but during the past few weeks defendants have been fast increasing and now there are about 25 prisoners in the county jail. There are also four manslaughter cases to be tried and some important whiskey cases, besides a large number of miscellaneous cases.

If the term is authorized by the governor, and there is little doubt but that it will be, it is expected that Judge Cline of Hickory will be asked to hold it.

Only the continued cases will be tried, those in which presentments have already been returned, therefore a grand jury will not be necessary.

Take Pure Food Fight to the Federal Court. Constitutionality of Indiana Enactment is Attacked by Attorneys for Manufacturer.

Washington, Dec. 27.—The spectacular contest which has been waged over the constitutionality of the Indiana pure food law of 1907, was yesterday transferred to Washington, when the fight was renewed in the supreme court of the United States. The court is expected in this case to decide whether any state may enact legislation regulating food brought into a state from another.

Attorneys for Marion W. Savage filed with the court their reasons why the law should be declared unconstitutional. Their brief was submitted in a suit by their client to enjoin State Chemist Jones from enforcing the law. Savage claimed to be the owner and sole proprietor of a business known and conducted under the title of "International Stock Food company," manufacturing in Minnesota preparation for cattle and selling it in Indiana and other states. The United States circuit court for Indiana declined to enjoin the chemist from enforcing the law and Savage appealed to the supreme court.

One of the points urged against the law was that it constituted a regulation of interstate commerce, already regulated by the federal pure food and drug act of 1906. It was urged that if the Indiana law was upheld that the merchant and manufacturer must comply with two standards, that fixed by the federal government and that by the state.

Hamburg Odd Fellows to Have Celebration. Weaverville Lodge Will Hold Banquet at West Hotel, Tomorrow Night.

Hamburg lodge No. 235, I. O. O. F., of Weaverville, has just closed a most successful membership and degree work contest and will have the "celebration" banquet at the West hotel tomorrow night. Dr. McBrayer, P. G. R., is to be present as the guest and speaker of the evening. There will be music, vocal and instrumental, and a big time is planned for those present. On last Thursday night a number of Odd Fellows went to Weaverville and witnessed the closing of this contest with the conferring of the initiatory degree by two teams taken out of Hamburg lodge. This is quite an unusual accomplishment for any lodge, and the excellent manner in which it was done is a matter of credit and distinction to this lodge.

THE HAVOC PRESENTED HERE BY HENRY MILLER. One of the Best Dramas of the Season Witnessed by Few People.

One of the best dramas of the season was seen at the Auditorium last night, when Henry Miller, the actor-manager, presented "The Havoc" to one of Asheville's most appreciative and cultured audiences. Those who had seen Miller before in the "Great Divide" and "The Only Way" say that "The Havoc" serves as a better vehicle for his peculiar talents, that of irony and sarcasm, than any play he has ever appeared in.

The play itself, while new, deals with an old problem, that of a man who takes into his home a friend in whom he trusted implicitly, only to have this friend wreck his happiness. Mr. Miller played the role of the wounded husband in such a manner as to produce round after round of applause from the sympathetic audience. Four people constitute the cast, and each one played his or her respective part well.

In the third act, when Miss Crews, playing the part of wife, was pleading with her former husband, Mr. Miller, to be lenient with her present husband, such passion that she really shed tears and at the same time moved many in the audience to tears.

The climaxes were numerous and well acted. As has sometimes happened before, another good show slipped in and but few people were fortunate enough to see it.
