17.42 140; Duncan Creek, Staton majority

> News from Hendersonville by telefere; and Fletcher went to him by 25 najority, a gain of 18.

Long before the polls had closed in the afternoon the democrats had assumed an attitude of certain confidence and all indications pointed to another democratic victory in the county. The day went to the democrats largely by default, as the progressives had little organization to aid them. However, there had been a small element of fear injected in the prospects with reference to one or two of the candidates and the demoernts worked during the whole day with vigor and effectiveness. It was also evident that Simmons had carried the county in the senator ial primary by about the majority which his managers had figured, over his two opponents, but one of the surprises of the campaign was the race made by Judge Clark. Taft's Strength.

Another surprises of the campaign was the number of votes cast the for the Taft administration. In part this was due to the uncertainty that pre valled in some quarters with reference to the proposed fusion of the republi-cans and progressives. It was also due to the hard work done by the Settle supporters. There were few who were working for Meares, and Taft profited by the work done for Settle. Settle received the votes of great many bull moose, too, that voted for Roosevelt, who did not show the strength which some had expected. Gudger was not scratched to the extent that had been predicted, by somin fact, not to any appreciable extent Craig received the votes of a good many republicans and bull moose, and on the other hand Settle was supported by many wet democrats.

Absence of Bribery.
This was not one of the old time elections. It was conspicuous by the almost entire absence of briber; There was presumably some little money and whiskey used, but not Everything was quiet and ormuch. derly. The floating voters stood about with looks of dejection. They were not approached by the progressive and the democrats felt-that they did not need them.

It was an ideal day, everything was propitious for a heavy vote, but the people were slow in voting and there were not so many cast as had been in-dicated by the interest shown during the past several weeks.
