Whether Turkey Will Agree to Modified Terms Problematical-Official Statements of Harmony.

By Associated Press.

ONDON, Nov. 23.—Nothing has developed within the last 12 hours to show whether the Turks will find the proposed modifications in the terms offered by the allied Falkan nations sufficient to induce them to agree to an armistice preparatory to a definite nearepreparatory to a definite peace.

The pienipotentaries now on then way to Tchatalja on behalf of the al-lies are reported to be carrying with them fresh terms of peace in a form that may open the door which is still regarded as standing ajar for their reception. The Ottoman government coints out that it still has half a million soldiers to draw from, while the Bulgarians have none. The allied Bal-kan nations, however, retort that they are now in a position to march 180,-000 troops who have heretofore been engaged elsewhere, to swell the be-sieging force in front of Tchatalja.

Should the war break out it is as sumed in military circles that an at-tack will soon be opened on the forts along the Dardanelles whose fall would permit the Greek fleet to bombard the Turkish capital.

Meantime a nerve-racking stream of rumors continues to pour out from Vienna of the mobilization of Austria and Russian troops and to these ru-mors is added one from Prague which mors is added one from Prague which says five German army corps have called up their reservists. These rumors accord badly with Premier Asquith's statement last night as to the prevailing harmony among the European powers. Official denials quickly follow each story of the calling up of reservists by the various armies, but the denials fall to dissipate the but the denials fail to dissipate the general anxiety sa to the situation.

Fortune's first smile was for the blue, the toss giving Captain Spaulding the kick-off and the west goal.
After a volley of kicking from both teams they finally settled down with the ball in Yale's possession on the blues' 26-yard line. On Flynn's kick, however, the ball changed hands on Harvard's 24-yard line and Wendell Harvard's 34-yard line and Wendel made seven yards through the blu line on two rushes. Two fake kicks favored Harvard, making it a first down on Yale's 24-yard line. Another gain, and Brickley dropped back to try at a field goal, but he falled.

The ball was brought out and Yale kicked after one rush. There came a

The crowd that had been celebrating the "night before the battle" was just retiring for a few hours sleep when the vanguard of the day's visitors reached the city.

Discussion of the two teams, their relative strength and the individual ability of the players seemed the sole theme of conversation—Harvard continued the favorite in the early morning betting with plenty of Yale money theme of conversation—Harvard continued the favorite in the early morning betting with plenty of Yale money in sight as soon as the prevailing odds of ten to nine showed signs of lengthening. Remembering that the last two games and resulted in scoreless ties and that the Yale-Princeton contest last week was also without decision, several wagers were recorded in favor of a Harvard victory in any event. The odds of 10 to 7, or 2 to 1 still prevailed this morning.

The coaches reported that the players were in splendid condition. The Yale team breakfasted short after 8 o'clock and then went on a walk into the country. The Harvard players were about the hotel at New London about the same time and by 2 o'clock grips were packed and preparations completed for the 50-mile trip by special train to this city.
