Nothing to Worry Over.

"I heard something the other day that greatly surprised me, and I have been worried about it ever since." "What was it?" "I don't know whether I ought to mention it to you or not, but I was told that your daughter's husband was a free thinker. She's such a lovely girl! I hope it isn't true." "Of course it isn't, or if it is it won't make any difference. Laura takes after me, and my husband was a free thinker, too, when I married him. Now he never thinks."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Inspiration and Sitting Tight.

George Eliot believed that her novels were the product of inspiration or genius. Anthony Trollope thought his was the result of "cobbler's wax, madam," or the faculty of sitting tight in his chair and turning out 250 words every fifteen minutes for two or three hours before breakfast. The method succeeded so far as to bring him a return of $50,000 and the reading public a set of novels which are being more appreciated every day.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Not So Very Much.

"You've got nothing on me," said the cook. The mistress looked her over carefully. "Only one hat, one skirt and two bunches of puffs," she retorted, "and you'll take 'em all off before you leave too."—Pittsburgh Post.

A Tale of Two Cities.

"I thought your minister was to have a call to Minneapolis." "He did expect it, but he went up there to preach a trial sermon and took his text from St. Paul, so it's all off."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Take care of your thoughts and your words and deeds will take care of themselves.
