CANADA DEPORTS THAW FREES THAW

Thaw Raves and Struggles When Officers "Kidnap" Him.

TAKEN AFTER THREE HOURS OF LIBERTY Fugitive Heads for New Hampshire and There He Is Arrested.

By Associated Press. Coaticook, Sept. 10.—Harry K. Thaw, removed forcibly from his quarters here today, was released in American territory and for three hours traveled in an automobile with a number of American newspapermen. The Matteawan fugitive was dropped over the border by the Canadian authorities into Vermont. Alone, dazed and free, he did not know what to do. The newspaper men following him took him into their car and traveled with him. They passed over Vermont into New Hampshire. As the car progressed the newspaper men reported Thaw's movements. Thaw wandered about the hills of Coos County, N. H., for three hours today after being thrust across the Canadian border at Norton Mills, and was arrested by Sheriff Drew of Coos county at Little School house, five miles from Colebrook just before noon. Thaw made no resistance and was brought immediately to Colebrook.

The sheriff, recognizing Thaw, held up his hand for the car to stop. Thaw ordered the chauffeur, a French-Canadian, to bring the car to a standstill and then alighted and went into the sheriff's car without protest although the officer had no warrant for his arrest. The Matteawan fugitive and the newspaper correspondents then proceeded to Colebrook. Thaw was not locked up in jail but was taken to the office of Thomas Johnson, a local attorney, whom he retained as his legal adviser upon his arrival here.

During the early part of his flight from Norton Mills, Vt., Thaw lost his hat and when he reached here he wore a cap borrowed from one of his newspaper companions. His only possession was a bunch of cigars. Forcibly Resisted Removal. Believing this morning that he was being kidnapped, he resisted forcibly his removal from Coaticook, only to find that the outcome of his quick dash in an automobile to American territory was to bring him unexpectedly freedom and place him in the hands of the men who up to the present time had devoted their energies to the reporting of his escape.

Thaw was dazed at the suddenness of the events of the morning, without his array of legal counsel he did not know where to turn for advice. After brief consultation with the newspaper men the automobile hired by the reporters with Thaw in it went on to Averill. Here a brief stop was made and by 10 o'clock he had crossed the Vermont line into New Hampshire.

Armed with written orders to deport Thaw issued by C. J. Doherty, acting minister of the interior, at Ottawa, E. Blake Robertson, assistant superintendent of immigration, whom he overhauled last night. He told one of his plans except subduing them and two dominion policemen. Go to Thaw Quarters. Accompanied by his subordinates and the two policemen Robertson went to Thaw's quarters in the detention pen shortly before 8 o'clock this morning. They found him up and dressed and about to start on what he called his day's work. Robertson, an aide of the group, told Thaw that he had orders to deport him to Montreal.

These could not have been more surprised had he been told that he was to be deported. Before Thaw could reply Robertson ordered him to get ready to start on the trip, adding that an automobile was waiting for the party to leave. Thaw's surprise changed to fury in a moment. He refused to go and picked up a bottle hurled it at Robertson. The missile went wide of its target, crashed through a window and broke on the roadway outside. Robertson and his men seized the prisoner and forcibly ejected him from the room. As Thaw was thus unceremoniously carried down the stairs to the automobile he kicked and fought his captors, shouting that he was being kidnapped. Robertson sought to quiet him with assurances that the proceeding was entirely regular and that his cries were futile. The two dominion policemen added actively in placing Thaw in the automobile. With the prisoner safe the entire party, policemen and all, entered the car and was whirled away to the border.

Townpeople Indignant. A knot of spectators gathered quickly outside the building and watched the struggle. Except for the principals they were the only persons in Coaticook who knew what was going on. None of the lawyers here representing New York state were notified of the plan to deport Thaw, and none of Thaw's lawyers had an inkling of what was in the air. They were dumfounded when they learned later what had happened. Townpeople unopposed their indignation when the news became general and sought Hector Verrett, of counsel for New York state for an explanation. Mr. Verrett had none to offer. Neither he nor Mr. Jerome, he said, had been told of the deportation plan. Neither had any part in it he declared.

Thaw was well on the road to the international line before the newspaper squad learned what had happened. They followed him. He crossed the line near Norton Mills. He was well within the state before the immigration officials stopped their cry, deposited him on the ground, told him he was free and drove back to the Canadian border. Thaw's Counsel Dumbfounded. Montreal, Sept. 10.—The members of Harry K. Thaw's family and his lawyers here were dumbfounded when they learned that the fugitive had been deported. "I am simply paralyzed," said J. N. Greenshield, K. C., the leader of Thaw's board of lawyers. "I cannot understand it. With a writ of prohibition and habeas corpus out, it seems to be to be utterly impossible to believe. It is all beyond me. It certainly is a disgrace to the country and to our administration of law. All we can do, if Thaw has been forced across the line is to bring Robertson, the assistant superintendent of the immigration department, before the court of king's bench; but what good will that do us?" Mr. Greenshield's received a telegram from Thaw's secretary notifying him that Thaw had been taken to Norton Mills, Vt.

W. K. McKewen, another of the Thaw counsel, said: "Deportation of Thaw, in the face of the writ of habeas corpus, certainly looks like contempt of the court of appeals. Jerome is informed. Manchester, Vt., Sept. 10.—William Trassie Jerome, New York's special representative in the Thaw case, learned unofficially of the deportation of Thaw from Canada an hour after the Matteawan fugitive had been put on the line into this state. Canadian officials, he said, had promised to notify him of any steps taken and he was awaiting such official notification.

FEARS COTTON TAX. English Newspaper Says Clarke Bill May Cause "Serious Trouble" to Liverpool Brokers. London, Sept. 10.—Commenting on the tax on cotton futures proposed in the United States, the "Westminster Gazette" today says: "It is feared that the tax will apply to bearers on this side. This would lead to a great deal of inconvenience and would cause serious trouble to brokers."

ESKIMOS KILL TWO EXPLORERS

Disappearance of H. V. Radford and George Street Thus Explained by Reports.

By Associated Press. New York, Sept. 10.—Members of the Arctic club here are surprised at the report of the murder of H. V. Radford of New York and George Street of Ottawa by Eskimos at Shultz lake near the Arctic ocean. The members of the club declared that if the report of the killing of Radford and his companion was true, it was one of the first instances of display of savagery among the Eskimos.

BOTH MEN SAID TO HAVE BEEN SPEARED

Said to Be One of Few Instances of Display of Savagery Among Eskimo Tribes.

Ottawa dispatches report that Commissioner Perry in Regina has received definite information of the murder of the two explorers about the fifth of June, 1912, while the men were en route to Fort McPherson, but since Eskimo advice are usually accepted with caution members of the Canadian mounted police force have been sent out to investigate the circumstances.

WAKE ROAD AUTHORITIES SEVERELY ARRAIGNED

Grand Jury Reports Horrible Condition at One of the Convict Camps.

Special to The Gazette-News. Raleigh, Sept. 10.—The most drastic arraignment of the road authorities in the history of Wake county perhaps was the report yesterday of the grand jury on the condition of camp No. 3, located in the state fair grounds. Only 17 inches of floor space was allowed each of 21 negroes confined in a filthy wooden cage, the report says, and to turn over the prisoners were compelled to roll on each other. They did not have room to lie on their backs and stretching was out of the question.

WILSON URGES CURRENCY BILL

President Still Insists that Congress Promptly Take up and Dispose of Reform Measure.

By Associated Press. Washington, Sept. 10.—President Wilson today discussed plans for currency legislation with the senate democratic steering committee. Senators Kern, Hoke Smith, Clarke, Lea, O'Gorman, Owen, Chamberlain, Martin, Thomas and Bacon were present. Senator Bacon expressed a desire that the senate should take a few weeks' rest before undertaking the passage of a currency bill, but the president, it was said, was determined to continue his insistence that currency be disposed of as soon as possible. The president received from Senator Owen a poll of the senate democrats which, it was said, showed practically unanimity in favor of going ahead on currency with all possible speed.

When the prolonged conference was concluded, Senator Kern, chairman of the steering committee, announced that there would be no delay in taking up the currency bill and that the committee would meet later today to determine upon a course of action. He said there was no thought of a senate recess, but that it would probably adjourn three days at a time unless some business developed which would require meetings more often.
