That it is shrewd statesmanship to utilize the churches as far as may be possible has been shown by the Chin-Yuan Shih Kal's call for a day of prayer, a few months ago, concen-trated the sympathetic attention of the Christian world upon China and her problems as no other action could

Japan At Zurich.

No nation has better understood the value of religious avenues of publicity and of sentiment-molding than Japan. For more than fifty years she has been hospitable to missionaries, and has bestowed favors upon them. Her foremost statesmen are at present actively co-operating with mission-aries in creating a better feeling between the two governments upon the California question. California question.

One sufficient answer to this would be for Christians in a mass from all the world to move upon

Naturally, the convention accepted

Naturally, the convention accepted this invitation, and for the next three years there will be a great deal of discussion among the thirty million members of the World's Sunday School association concerning the convention in Japan.

If the Japanese had meant this merely as a diplomatic stroke, for the promotion of good will toward their nation, they could not have done anything more effective.

Making Quakers in Japan.

One of the remarkable changes in new Japan, is the growth of the peace sentiment. For this one man, and he an American, is largely responsible. Historically, Japan is a warlike nation. The military virtues have been apotheosized. The first place in her social system has been given to the warriors, which is quite the opposite of the Chinese mage, for in China her soldier in tranked lewest in the scale.
