A Surprise for Aunt Maggie

BANQUET CLOSES BROTHERHOOD DAY

Several Speeches Made and Prizes Are Awarded to Winners in Parade.

Following the fraternal parade yesterday afternoon, a great throng of people went to the fair grounds at Riverside park to hear the last big address of Brotherhood day, delivered by Hon. John S. Rutledge of Cleveland, one of the foremost lodge men of the country. The attendance during the afternoon was almost as great as during the morning, when Mr. Bryan appeared, and with the good patronage received last night, the management reports that 20,000 paid admissions were received during the day. The closing exercises for the day at the grounds were presided over by Rev. R. N. Wilcox of Hendersonville, who presented Judge Thomas A. Jones. The latter introduced the speaker of the afternoon in a short but appropriate address. Judge Jones referred to the great reforms that are encouraged by Mr. Rutledge and declared that the world needs more men of his type. The speaker had selected "Fraternalism" as his subject, and those who heard him yesterday afternoon must have been convinced today that fraternalism is among the very best institutions that the country possesses. The speaker declared that the fraternal order raises the standard of every member, and that these members are needed men before they join. He declared further that the fraternal order makes a man a better citizen and a better man in the home. The festivities of Brotherhood day closed last night with the reception and banquet at the Battery Park hotel. J. C. Sales of Fletcher presided in the ballroom, and after the invocation by Rev. J. S. Williams, he introduced the following speakers, who represented various fraternal organizations that had taken part in the happenings of the day: M. L. Shilman, representing the Odd Fellows of the state; W. W. Wilson, representing the Knights of Pythias; Morris Meyers, representing the Eagles; Rev. W. A. Newell, representing the Woodmen of the World; Judge Thomas A. Jones, representing the Modern Woodmen of America; W. Lloyd Pennell, representing the Jr. O. U. A. M.; and L. B. Rogers, representing the United Commercial Travelers. There were also impromptu speeches by: Rev. R. N. Wilcox, P. L. Long of Fletcher, P. A. Cummings, N. Buckner, Charles G. Lee and Guy Weaver. The committee, composed of Sol. Gallert, J. E. Coburn, Lieutenant A. W. Freeman, R. L. Gash and Guy Roberts, which was appointed to decide on the prize winners in the parade yesterday afternoon, reported last night, and the following awards were made by Sol. Gallert, the chairman of the committee: Silver cup, offered to lodge in Haywood, Henderson or McDowell counties having largest percentage of membership in the parade, K. of P. lodge No. 183, Fletcher; silver cup, offered for lodge in Buncombe county making same showing, Red Men; silver cup, offered for lodge outside these four counties making the same showing, lodge No. 14,699, M. W. A., Bryson City; silver cup, offered for lodge in western North Carolina making best showing in parade, in uniform, Asheville canton, I. O. O. F.; silver cup for lodge making best showing in parade, not in uniform, Central Labor union. The Woodmen of the World at Hendersonville and Hominy received pennants. The pennant for third place was not awarded, however, it being reported that the Asheville M. W. A. and the Biltmore Jr. O. U. A. M. had tied for this place.

RAYMOND LEE TO COACH B. B. TEAM

Winston-Salem Twirler Will Train University of N. C. Team Next Spring.

Special to The Gazette-News. Chapel Hill, Oct. 8.—That "General" Raymond Lee, the captain of the victorious Winston-Salem team in the Carolina league, is the man slated to coach the 1914 baseball squad of the University of North Carolina is an assured fact, if the most favorable of circumstances are to be credited to the Winston pitcher. Although the athletic authorities of the university have taken no determined action with regard to the selection of a coach for the baseball squad, that road of matters within the past few days have pointed conclusively in favor of Lee. The rise of "General" Lee in the field of baseball has been a wonder. From an unknown quantity as class pitcher in his junior year at the university he sprang to the front in 1911 as one of the first pitchers in all of Carolina's baseball history. In that year he swept everything before him, not losing a single game, and counting as his victories two 1 to 0 games against the University of Virginia. In 1912 his record was not less creditable, again battling against Rixey, the University of Virginia twirler, for a 4 to 0 victory in Charlotte. Since joining the Carolina league he has well sustained his college reputation. Of the 32 games pitched he won 20. Altogether he worked in 45 games, 10 in excess of any pitcher in the Carolina league. To forsake the blacksmith shop after 10 years of continuous service and to decline an offer to serve on the city police force in order that he might equip himself for a practicing physician and incidentally gain recognition on the football field is a hint at the interesting life story of Charlie McCall, who has registered at the University of North Carolina. McCall weighs 287 pounds when realizing his full normal physical state, but the strenuous football practice which he has daily encountered since early last summer has reduced his weight to 235 pounds; however, his indomitable spirit and pluck are persistent and daily he is seen on Carolina's football field shaping himself for a position at guard.

HE LOST $700 IN NOTES AND MONEY

W. H. Pearson of Candler yesterday afternoon lost about $700 in notes and money while at the fair to hear Mr. Bryan speak. The money and notes were in a wallet and were stolen from his pocket, presumably by a pick-pocket or "blip." Mr. Pearson had just started to the bank to deposit the notes when he met a friend who insisted that they catch the next car for the fair grounds, which was done, Mr. Pearson thinking he would wait until today to make the deposit. Several other men are reported as having lost small sums of money, as was stated yesterday, and it is understood that a very careful investigation is being made by the sheriff's office and the police department, of the cases, and until the fair is over a double force of officers will be present where the large crowds gather.

TAKING COUNTY AND STATE EXAMINATIONS

Several applicants are taking the state and county examinations at the county court house today for certificates to teach in the schools of the county and state. These examinations are held semi-annually, in July and October of each year, and a large number of applications are always sent in by those wishing to stand the tests. The North Carolina department of education will grade the papers submitted by those taking the state examinations, and W. H. Higgs, superintendent of the Buncombe county schools, will look over the papers of the county tests.
