Columbia's Eight Oared Crew Looks Stronger Than Ever.

Captain Jim Rice's 1936 varsity eight-oared crew of Columbia university which defeated Princeton and Penn so handily last Saturday. Rice is delighted with the material he has in his first boat this year, for he believes he has now attained the wherewithal to humble his old rival, Charley Courtney, the Cornell coach, whose men the Columbia oarsmen will have to whip in order to win the intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie.

The exceptional pitching ability of Morrisette for the Capitals yesterday afternoon at Oates park was too much for the Mountaineers and the game was won by the visitors by the final score of 7 to 3. Had Perkins been able to hold Morrisette as he should have, the likelihood is that Asheville would not have been able to get any of the runs they did secure during the game. Morrisette was all there with the goods, with lots of speed, a spit ball that the locals could not do more than foul. He was easily the star of the game. It is almost a safe bet to say that when Mack sets a catcher that will be able to hold all that Morrisette sends him, he will be the wonder of the league. He was secured by Mack from the Baltimore Internationals, where he made a record that was the sensation of the league.

The game yesterday was slow and at times was very uninteresting, being marred by the arguments advanced by the players over the decisions of Emory Miller. Miller did not do much better than when he made his first appearance here at the opening of the season and handed out several decisions that were considered "bum." Twice he changed his mind about decisions he had made, which put several of the players in a bad humor.

Lee, the new infielder who reported yesterday from Chattanooga, worked yesterday and showed up fine. He held down the third bag like an old timer and it was utterly impossible for the Capitals to get by him with runners stealing or get a ball through him.

In order to give Welch a chance to show what he could do at second, Manager Cook was on the bench yesterday, for the first time since the season opened. Welch's work at second was not what it should have been but no doubt this was due to the changing around and he will doubtless show up better after more work there.

Durham, May 16.—In one of the best games played here this season, during which neither side scored until the seventh inning, the Bulls defeated the Patriots by the final score of 2 to 1. The feature of the contest was the pitchers' battle between Forbes and Harper of the Patriots, both twirlers were a little wild, but as a whole their work was splendid and each pitched ball that should have won an ordinary game. The Patriots were unable to connect with Forbes pitching for but one hit until the ninth, when they were able to get hits which resulted in the only run made by them during the contest.

Charlotte 2; Winston-Salem 1.
Special to The Gazette-News.
Winston-Salem, May 16.—Knocking a home run over the left field fence in the sixth inning, Weiser of the Hornets yesterday afternoon brought in two other men and won the game for the visitors, the final score being 2 to 1. This lead secured by the homer was too much for the Twins and they were never able to push but the one score across, although in the ninth the Twins took a rally and at times it looked as if they were going to even up things. The fine fielding of the Hornets kept them from doing it.
