

UNKNOWN AUTOMOBILE SMASHED ROCK WALL

Machine Running at Break-neck Speed Collided With Wall on Woodfin St.

An automobile driven by unknown parties last night about 12 o'clock did away to the fence and rock wall in front of Nos. 55 and 59 Woodfin street, and nearly 30 feet of the wooden fence were torn away. So far as can be learned no damage was done to the automobile which made it impossible to use it to get away in.

The houses are at the head of Central avenue, where it comes into Woodfin, and No. 59 is the home of E. Kibler, while two families by the names of McCauley and Warren occupy No. 65. The rock wall is in front of the latter house. From what was learned in regard to the large hole in the wall and fence by the automobile from people living nearby, it seems that the automobile was being driven at break-neck speed, and was coming down Central avenue at break-neck speed. On reaching Woodfin, it is believed that the driver was unable to control his machine, and in consequence of which the machine made a headlong plunge into the rock wall. Bounding back, it turned to the left a little and struck the house in front of Mr. Kibler's place and it is said that two onslaughts were made on this fence before it was finally torn down. Just back of this is an embankment about four feet high and from the evidence left here the machine must have climbed the embankment at one time, for on top of it are the tracks of the heels and the rim of one of the headlights, the only part of the machine left on the battlefield.

No idea is entertained as to who was in the machine and investigation at all the garages of the city today failed to disclose any machine that looked as though it had charged a rock wall.

HEALING WORK OF THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

What Various Denominations Have Done in Building Hospitals and Dispensaries in Foreign Lands—Children's Part in This Beautiful Beneficence—Their Gift to Averaged $10,000 a Year.

(By IDA CLYDE CLARKE.)

"The Healing Wage" is the title of a very interesting pamphlet issued by the executive committee of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church in the United States. It deals with the healing work of the church for children's day, on May 31, and comes from the educational department of which John L. Armstrong is secretary. The following interesting facts are taken from this enlightening pamphlet:

"The Christian church has 30 hospitals and dispensaries in Africa, China, the Philippine Islands, and Tibet, and 16 medical missionaries, and treated last year 161,000 people.

"The Episcopal church has 19 hospitals and dispensaries in China and Japan, and 12 medical missionaries, and treated last year 321,000 people.

"The northern Baptist church has 57 hospitals and dispensaries in India, China, Africa, and the Philippine Islands, and 54 medical missionaries, and 13 trained nurses, and treated last year 80,000 people.

"The Southern Baptist church has 18 hospitals and dispensaries in Mexico, Africa, and China, and 18 medical missionaries and six trained nurses, and treated last year 65,000 people.

"The Northern Methodist church has 48 hospitals in China, India, Korea, Mexico, Africa, Malaysia, and Germany, and 46 medical missionaries, and last year treated 71,000 people.

"The Southern Methodist church has eight hospitals in China, Korea, Mexico, Africa, and Brazil, and 10 medical missionaries and four trained nurses, and treated last year 61,884 people.

"The United Presbyterian church has 12 hospitals in Egypt and India, and 12 medical missionaries and 14 trained nurses, and treated last year 294,000 people.

"The Northern Presbyterian church has 17 hospitals and dispensaries in Africa, China, India, Korea, Persia, the Philippine Islands, Siam, Laos, South America and Syria, and 190 medical missionaries, and treated last year 390,000 people.

"Our Southern Presbyterian church has 25 hospitals and dispensaries in China, Korea, Africa, and Brazil, and 18 medical missionaries and trained nurses, and treated last year 100,000 people.

"Many other churches in our country and many in other countries are doing medical mission work. 'The Appeal of Medical Missions,' a new book published last year, says: 'A small army of medical missionaries, no fewer than 1,600 are carrying on their work today in more than 900 hospitals and 1,900 dispensaries.'

In 1912, about 50,000 children went on a crusade to take the holy land and the tomb of Christ away from the Mohammedans. Most of them were drowned in the Mediterranean sea or sold into slavery, and very few ever came back home again. The crusaders were mistaken, but they had a noble spirit. Jesus wants children now with the crusader spirit to save not His grave, but His brothers and sisters in foreign lands.

In Richmond, Va., there is a custom that is very interesting. The school children draw the monuments to the places where they are to be set up. The monuments are very heavy, and have to be loaded on Long range rollers. Several blocks are fastened to the wagon, and thousands of children lay hold of the ropes, and when they all pull together the wagon moves right along with its great load. The soldiers and sailors' monument, the Lee monument, and the Jefferson Davis monument have all been moved by the children.

With the coming of Lent the children of the Episcopal church begin to raise their annual missionary offering. This has been their custom for 25 years. The first year they gave $7,000; in 1913 they gave more than $175,000.

The children of the northern Methodist Sunday schools for several years have given $600,000 a year to missions.

Last year the children in the southern Presbyterian Sunday schools gave about $75,000 to missions at home and abroad.

The children began their work with the building of the first 'Lapsley,' which cost about $15,000, and which was built in Richmond, Va., with money given mostly by the Sunday school children.

The boat was too small for the strong currents of the Chesapeake river, and was sunk in 1903. The children then gave over $40,000 to build the second 'Lapsley,' extending their gifts over a period of several years, and they had to be stopped, for they were giving more than the new boat would cost.

In 1907 they gave money for a girls' school in Kiangsi, China. In 1908 their gifts went into the general treasury. In 1909 and in 1913 they gave to the Graybill Memorial school in Mexico. In 1910 their gifts went to build a girls' school at Nagayo, Japan. In 1911 and 1913, they gave to help pay the traveling expenses of missionaries in their fields. In all these years from 1907 to 1913 the gifts averaged about $10,000 a year.

This year the children are asked to do the biggest thing yet for a single year, and one that is very much worth while—to equip a station at Yangshing, China. There is need of land and a hospital building, and a chapel and homes for a physician's family and the families of two missionaries. All this is estimated to cost $10,000. This amount has been divided into 1,600 shares of $10 each. These shares will be sold to Sunday schools, Sunday school classes, and to individuals in any number, from one share up.

We are reminded that Jesus healed the blind, the deaf and dumb, the wounded, the leprosy, the paralyzed and the fevered.

Two games were played yesterday afternoon on the Montford avenue school grounds by teams from the class B league of the Y. M. C. A. In the first game Ramsey defeated Smith 10 to 5, and Wilkinson won over Monetta 9 to 0. Ramsey and Darby acted as battery for Ramsey and Smith and Hardee for Smith. Wilkinson and Darby acted for Wilkinson and Burdick and Hardee for Hardee in the second.

A fire that at first threatened to do serious damage was quickly extinguished by the firemen this morning at 1:50 o'clock at the home of R. C. Erwin, No. 41 Montford avenue. The fire was first discovered by a passing policeman, who turned in the alarm and the occupants of the house were unaware of the fire until it was in the basement and it is believed that it had been burning for a long time before the policeman saw it. The occupants of the house had no idea how the fire could have started, as they stated that no fire had been in that section of the house for several days.

QUARTA'S HAND MAY BE FORCED

She had been delayed in his journey from Washington, the mediation conference was ready to proceed today with its personnel completed.

Conditions Propitious.
Washington, May 21.—President Wilson and his advisers today gave their attention to reports of the opening of the Niagara Falls conference and confidently awaited next developments in the mediation proceedings. Reports of the American delegates—Justice Lamar and former Secretary General Lehmann—were received at the White House over a private telephone wire direct from the mission's headquarters on the Mexican side of the border.

Government officials were pleased to hear news of cordial informal personal relations among members of the two missions and the South American envoys that marked the opening of the conference. Such conditions were considered unusually propitious for the serious phases of the proceedings that will be encountered later.

Disturbing Factors.
There remained, however, disturbing factors in the equation today. The continued absence of news of the movements of John R. Silliman, American vice consul held by the federales at Saltillo, and later reported to be on his way to Mexico City, caused some apprehension. In some quarters belief was expressed that lack of transportation facilities between Saltillo and Mexico City had delayed Silliman and prevented him from making his whereabouts known. Hurta had not yet reported the fate of Samuel Parke, the American soldier who was reported to have been executed after wandering from Funston's lines at Vera Cruz. It was said, however, that the federal dictator had instituted an investigation.

Progressing Smoothly.
When President Wilson arrived at the executive offices immediately after breakfast this morning he was met by Secretary Bryan and several messengers who said to have exchanged with the American delegates at Niagara Falls over the private executive wire. Secretary Bryan emerged from the offices smiling and hastened back to the state department.

"Things at the mediation conference are progressing smoothly," he said.

When the American mission reported developments of last night's session of the conference and outlined preliminary plans for presentation of the American representations.

Americans in Danger.
Panama, Fla., May 21.—Thirty Americans at Laguna, in the Mexican state of Campeche, are unable to escape or communicate with the United States authorities and are in danger of violence, according to J. P. Lewis of Petersburg, Va., who reached Laguna last night from Laguna. Lewis, who reached here on the American schooner Kalpa, said the Americans at Laguna were running short of food when he left and that their predicament was serious. Six Americans, he said, set out on a 200-mile journey through dense forests in an effort to reach British Honduras but that their fate is unknown.

MAN'S WORK.
It is no man's business whether he has genius or not. Work he must, whatever he is, but quietly and steadily, and the natural and unforced results of such work will be always the things that God meant him to do.—John Ruskin.

Light in the Darkness.
Within one week three young men connected with Prince Royal's college, at Ghung Ma, Laos, were married to three young women of the Ghung Ma girls' school. All these young people were second generation Christians.

Rev. William R. Johnson gives the following interesting account of the man who will represent China at the Panama-Pacific exposition:

"President Yuan Shi Kai has appointed H. C. Hwang, principal of the Methodist boys' school at Nanchang, China, as commissioner to the Panama-Pacific International exposition, to take charge of the Chinese exhibits."

"As a poor boy Mr. Hwang entered the mission high school at Kiangsi, about 20 years ago. After graduation he came to the United States, where he worked his way through college.

"During the St. Louis exposition, in 1904, he served as guide, and at that time met Viewoy Tuan Fang, of the Chinese Imperial commission.

"Upon his return to China the young student was appointed as teacher in William West Methodist college, Kiangsi, his native city.

"Viewoy Tuan Fang asked him to take charge of construction work for the Nanchang industrial exposition. So successful was he in his enterprise that the viewoy urged his acceptance of an important government position, but this he declined, preferring to return to his modest work as a Christian teacher in Kiangsi.

"Since 1911 Mr. Hwang has been principal of the Methodist school at Nanchang.

"Soon after the outbreak of the recent revolution, while his school was closed, he assisted in formulating the provisional constitution of the new republic.

"It has taken nearly a year of persuasion on the part of Yuan Shi Kai to induce Mr. Hwang to relinquish his school work temporarily while he assumes charge of Chinese exhibits at the Panama-Pacific exposition next year."

Distress in India.
In the pressure of Mexican affairs and other matters that distract the public attention we are in danger of overlooking the famine conditions that over that part of India where our church is chiefly located," writes a missionary. "I hold in my hand an Indian subscription list published in the Pioneer, which reveals the fact that parts of India, from which it is evident that such men of means as are living there are striving hard to save their less fortunate countrymen from starvation."

"Bishop Worme writes that prices are from two to three times as high as in normal times in some parts of this territory, and that everywhere the Methodist preachers and local preachers on their small wages are more than half starved."

A Mission School for Girls.
The city of Abakuta in one of the largest on the continent of Africa. It occupies a unique position in that it is the capital of an independent state. While all the territory in Nigeria from Lagos on the coast to Lake Chad in the north, is under British rule, this little kingdom retains its independence. From ancient early times it has shown a progressive spirit, and with one or two ex-

OPTIONAL INCIDENTS of a retrograde nature, it has fostered civilization and welcomed new ideas.

In twenty years the changes in the city have completely altered its appearance. The old grass-thatched roofs are disappearing in favor of iron and good houses are being rapidly constructed in every direction. The old order of things is rapidly passing away, and this is without a doubt owing to the spread of education. There are scores of good schools and a very fine grammar school, to which those who desire a secondary education can go.

Following the British precedent, the native government subsidizes the schools by a certain amount per capita, and every year there is a public examination. One object of this aid for our mission schools, with the result that we cannot compete with the schools of other denominations in the number of teachers and in schools and their equipment. Consequently, we are far behind the others in the number of schools, and in the average attendance.

But with all these schools we have the honor of possessing the old girls' school in the city. One of the hidden blessings of the persecution of our missionaries at Abakuta in 1909 lay in the fact that Mrs. C. G. Lumbley was compelled to return to Abakuta, where she inaugurated the girls' school by gathering a few girls about her. She worked for some time without much encouragement from the mission, but in 1910 her work was recognized and $200 granted for a school-house. This amount was not sufficient, and Mrs. Lumbley, Dr. Lockett and the native Christians made up the deficit, and we now have a good native property in the school building.

At the close of the year's work, 1913, the first prize function of the girls' school was held. Thirty-six girls had been in attendance during the year, and the work done was of such a high grade that we felt bound to allow friends in the city to inspect the school and the work. Invitations were printed and sent out, and the prizes were distributed by Mrs. Krum, whose daughter is a pupil in the school. The church was tastefully decorated, the school banner placed on the platform, and the ferns and flowers beautified the building accordingly. The girls gave several recitations, which were much enjoyed by the large audience. The Akaka and the Ovela (the two kings), with their retinues, were present, and many of the educated portion of the population. The church was filled. After the presentation of the prizes the two kings spoke highly of the work done by Mrs. Lumbley, and then gave the girls a Christmas present of 65.

The visitors were then invited to an exhibition of the work in the school room, which included papers on the ordinary class subjects, needlework and laundry work. Tea, cake and other refreshments were then partaken of at the mission house. It may interest our readers and supporters to know that the Akaka has promised $50 toward the extension of the school premises, and that Mrs. Lumbley has already collected over $150 for this purpose. The school's greatest need is for a lady missionary to assist Mrs. Lumbley.—S. G. Pinneok.
