GOOD HOMES FOR WORKMEN.

The city of Cleveland is going to have a model suburb under municipal control. It is a tract of nearly 100 acres on which will be erected homes for 500 families, with streets, parks, playgrounds, tennis courts and private gardens planned in advance and carried out according to the most modern requirements for health and convenience.

The suburb is within easy access of a great factory district, and is intended for mill workers. They will be able to get, for about the same rent they are accustomed to pay, incomparably more comfort and better conditions for family life, according to the plans.

Society is just waking up to the fact that the men and women who do the world's hardest work have always had the poorest living accommodations. It isn't merely "social justice," but it's social efficiency, to provide for those who toil the best accommodations possible.

KANSAS NOT COMPLAINING.

Whether hard times, throughout the country generally, are an actuality or a state of mind, here's one section that isn't doing any complaining. A Kansas banker writes to an eastern relative this agricultural means of joy:

"We'll have 3,000,000 bushels of wheat in this county. That means $2,000,000 cash for one crop of wheat, to say nothing of the other crops. As we have only 20,000 people in the county, the $2,000,000 will divide up nicely.

"Our alfalfa crop is going two tons to the acre for the first cutting, our oats sixty bushels to the acre, and our rye is six feet high.

"The largest wheat crop in the State's previous history was about 54,000,000 bushels, but this year we will beat it by about 50,000,000 bushels.

nearby and put the situation up to the business men. As a result practically every business house was closed and the townsmen went to the fields to help harvest the grain.

HOMES FOR VISITORS.

If the manufacturer of a product which had to be advertised to be sold should suddenly receive a flood of orders which it was beyond the capacity of his plant to fill, there would be only two things for him to do. He could of course curtail the advertising, in which case he would sustain indefinite loss, or he could enlarge his plant to meet the requirements of the demands for his product.

The Greater Western North Carolina Association is spending good money every year to induce tourists to come to the towns, villages and even farms of this section. Even if some of the small towns and villages do not contribute to the advertising fund, it is being spent for them, and they can reap the same benefits proportionately that the larger towns do.

In a certain little village not far from Asheville there is one house from which were turned away one day this week about a score of tourists. There was no room for them at that house, and most of them had to go away from that town because they could not find accommodations—at least not the quality of accommodations that they desired.

If this matter concerned this town alone it would not so greatly matter; at least, it would be the business of the people of that town alone; but it concerns the whole of the section. Every tourist lost is so many dollars lost to Western North Carolina.

Continued peace in the Balkans, even such questionable peace as there is, depends on the aged emperor, Francis Joseph of Austro-Hungary.

The Balkans promise to be a fruitful source of news on the death of the aged emperor. Whether Minister to Greece Williams criticized conditions in Albania or not, there is no doubt he could have found plenty to criticize.

PRESS COMMENT. The Tarheel Muse. Colonel Willbrod Aldhelm Hildebrand, editor of the Greensboro News, has long been jealous of the supremacy of Charlotte in song. Charlotte preserves poets by means of bounties and a close season. Desperate Greensboro now lugs out an alleged, and in our opinion wholly fictitious, "Colonel L. J. Brittain" of Thomasville and attributes to him a Chattertonian manuscript on "Jewel Cotton Mills." For example: "The noblest girls in all the world, We see them take their stand; They leave the scriptural distaste out; Work willingly with their hands."
