Socialist Columns.

These columns are published every Saturday, and controlled by the Socialist Local of Asheville, which alone is responsible for the opinions expressed.

The Asheville Local meets every Sunday at 11 a. m. in its reading room, Central Labor Union Hall. All interested are invited.

THE SOCIALIST PARTY

At the center of the great revolutionary movement of today stands the socialist party organization.

Around and about this center there revolves that larger, indefinite thing we call the socialist movement.

Beyond that there is a dim, nebulous something called radicalism, that comes and goes, sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other, seldom itself conscious of its position.

Without this central organization the remainder would be cloudlike as are its outer limits at present.

There would be no socialist ticket to vote did there not exist this party organization to maintain the political machinery.

There would be little socialist literature to read were it not for this organized body that establishes papers, circulates pamphlets, distributes books and maintains educational centers.

It is this central heart of the movement that formulates incoherent rebellion into intelligent revolutionary activity. By its discipline and its educational work the wheat is sifted from the chaff and a clear, coherent set of principles are evolved.

While this organization performs the work of a political machine, it is the antithesis of all other political machines. Its boss is its membership, its spoils the converts made to socialism, and its campaign fund is drawn from the pockets of those who do the work.

No man or paper, no clique of office holders or gang of sluggers can dominate the socialist party organization, because its democracy is not in name but in action.

It is not an independence league, financed and directed by a single ambitious individual. It is not a secret, boss ridden body as are the central councils of other parties.

It is clear, open, frank, democratic, to accord with the principles it professes.

Every local branch is an educational center where members meet, exchange ideas, discuss politics, listen to lectures and plan campaigns of agitation, education and organization.

This organization is not exclusive, like other party machines. On the contrary, it invites to membership every one who is willing to accept the socialist position and work for socialist success. The party invites both to the duties and the opportunities of membership. It affords an opportunity to have a voice in the determination of policies, platforms and candidates; it asks assistance in the carrying on of the propaganda of socialism.

By just so much as an army is a more effective fighting force than a mob, so such a disciplined, educated, self governed, political organization, more effective than boss ridden organizations of the democratic and republican parties.

The man or woman who claims to be a socialist and is not a party member is shirking the work while reaping the benefits of this organization.

No socialist wishes to do this. The independent socialist is losing the assistance and strength that comes from systematic co-operation. He is wasting energies in a cause in which every atom of energy is needed.

How to Vote

Five political parties will make their nominations for congress and senate present their claims for the support of the voters of November 5. They are the republican, democratic, progressive, prohibition and socialist. Although the first four have various opinions on other matters which they hold to be more or less progressive, they all believe in and are wedded to and governed by the system known as capitalism, or the dominion of Mammon, under which little real progress is possible, even to the one claiming to be the most progressive. They are all aided and sustained in all their moves and are in full sympathy with the monied interests. This system was known from the beginning of history and was condemned by Moses, but its power has ruled the civilized world in a constantly increasing degree. Christ placed his ban upon it. "Ye cannot love God and Mammon." St. Paul said: "The love of money is the root of all evil." These sayings are thoroughly true if history and experience count for anything. What are the results? Civilization is filled and permeated with economic inequalities, selfishness, wrongs and crimes of all kinds, slums, degradation, suffering, insanity and suicide which as effects cannot be separated from their cause. Will you vote to perpetuate these conditions? Such must certainly be the unfailing result of the success of either of these parties in the future as in the past.

What other course is offered that promises relief? What about socialism as presented by the socialist party? Socialism is a protest and a rebellion against the present conditions of society. "It consists merely in the proposition to establish the social or collective ownership of the means of production and distribution and to have this managed through the fullest democracy." Socialism is the exact antithesis of capitalism. The two cannot exist together. They are as incompatible as freedom and slavery. Socialism would throttle capitalism, and exterminate Mammon had it the power which a majority of votes would give it. Mammon dethroned, there would be no advantage, but only a burden to anyone through the possession of surplus wealth. Consequently there would be no poverty.

All would share, not an equal but an equitable proportion of possessions and advantages. There would be no idle rich, no overworked or struggling poor. In fact, no rich man, no poor man, no beggar man, no thief. All crimes and wrongs now inspired by a money consideration such as murder, highway robbery, burglary, theft, embezzlement, gambling, adulterations, saloons, the alcohol and opium traffic, prostitution, white

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Successful Concert of the Chickadees.

One Little Chickadee Sang a Solo.

VELYN was very fond of little chickadees, and she was so pleased when daddy said that he was going to tell them a story about them that evening.

"You know," commenced daddy, "the chickadees had a concert the other evening for the other birds. They sent out invitations on petals of flowers, and on the petals they made little holes with their beaks. They made six holes, meaning that the concert would begin at 6 o'clock. Exactly at 6 they all arrived.

"They were all invited to perch of the nearby apple tree and pear tree, and the chickadees hopped about on the grass below.

"Then the concert began. First one little chickadee sang a very sweet little solo, which won a great deal of applause.

"The choruses were enjoyed tremendously, too, and the refrain of 'chickadee-dee-dee' was lovely, the other birds thought.

"But, as you can imagine, the chickadee knew that it was the fashion to have special features at concerts or at least one special feature.

"So as a surprise, just before the last number, which was a chorus of all the chickadees, a special feature was announced by the leader of the concert.

"We are to have," said the chickadee leader, "a different number from any other on the program.

"At this all the birds looked at one another with astonishment.

"We are to have," the chickadee leader continued, "a ballet.

"Now, the birds knew that in 'really real' grand opera there is usually a ballet, but to have one at their concert was wonderful.

"But before they had time to talk about it out came all the little chickadees, dancing and hopping and wearing little wreaths of flowers about their necks. Each one carried a little flower in his beak, and every flower was of a different color.

"For some time they danced in and out of a little circle which they made. They received constant applause.

"It was something new and different to have a ballet dance at the concert. The birds were very much impressed with the chickadees for being so apt to date.

"The chickadees were delighted that their concert had been such a success, for, as a matter of fact, they had been rather nervous in getting up a concert when the other birds had given such beautiful ones during the spring. They knew that their votes were not at all lovely, but the birds had wanted to hear them, and now the chickadees were very, very happy."

THE GAZETTE-NEWS FREE IDEAL ART EMBROIDERY PATTERNS

A BEAUTIFUL APRON, IDEAL ART PATTERN. Reduced.

This apron design is unusual in shape but makes up very prettily when worked out as intended in solid, eyelet and buttonhole embroidery. Every woman and every girl, too, for that matter, needs pretty aprons and this one is especially attractive. It is but one of a number of suitable apron designs among the 165 Ideal Art Embroidery Patterns contained in the complete outfit being distributed while the present supply lasts, to our women readers.

Here is a partial list of the 165 patterns in the Ideal Art Embroidery Outfit:

It would be practically impossible to print this whole list here, and it would take 100 days to print all of the designs if we put one of them in this space every day. The above list is very limited, but shows the scope of the collection of patterns, and any woman can tell from it that it will be a valuable package to have.

The Ideal Art Embroidery Outfit contains 165 newest and most select designs, transferable by simply rubbing the back of the pattern with the finger, thumb nail, or other smooth object—a new process just discovered—the most practical Embroidery Hoop and a Book of Lessons in Stitching by Mrs. DuParque, the noted French expert, which gives plain instructions for using 48 different stitches.

Every woman who is a reader of this paper is entitled to one of these outfits. A coupon is printed each day on some page of the paper. Read this Free Embroidery Coupon, which tells you how to identify yourself as a reader of this paper.

These patterns transfer so easily, without the slightest danger to the fabric, that it is a pleasure to use them. No hot iron or dampening or carbon paper is necessary.

Call at this office and examine this wonderful outfit.

Remember also, that each reader who brings in the coupons will receive for the coming year, each month, the great new woman's magazine—TODAY'S. You will be pleased with TODAY'S, the most practical and helpful woman's magazine published. Leave name and address for sending the magazine when calling for outfit. The coupon gives full details.

A MAY MANTON PATTERN FREE.

Another feature which should not be overlooked is the May Manton Dress Pattern which you may select from any of those shown in TODAY'S MAGAZINE, without cost. When you receive your magazine select the pattern you want and send the number of it with your name and address to the publishers of TODAY'S and the complete dress pattern selected will be mailed to you free.

slavery, child labor for gain and numberless others could not exist for want of an adequate motive. There would be no trusts monopolies, strikes, lockouts, financial panics, political parties or bosses; no wasteful wars or extravagant military or naval equipment; no tariff question and no rulers or lawmakers other than the whole people. There would be equal opportunities for all persons to realize from birth the highest physical and mental development of which they were susceptible and their needs fully cared for to the end of life; in return for which a fair share of ability and effort would be due and required to add to the general prosperity. All public business would be done by the public in its own chosen democratic way and the natural impulse of every one would be left free to practice the Golden rule and assist others in all ways rather than to ride upon their backs as now. These are essentially the aims of the socialist party so far as it has progressed and are especially worthy the earnest consideration of every one who believes in Christianity or who seeks the highest development and well being of the human race.

Now if you are satisfied that you are personally receiving for your efforts more than a fair share of the good things of this world, regardless of the needs and desires of others, you will be likely to stand pat and selfishly vote, more or less indifferently, with one of these capitalistically ruled parties. If on the contrary you believe and desire that your own happiness and that of millions of your fellow beings now suffering for the want of a square deal would be mutually improved by a change of conditions, you can work toward that end by voting with the socialist party. In any event, I urge each and every voter, in the burning words of Wendell Phillips, spoken at the close of an impassioned address, delivered more than 70 years ago, while pleading in behalf of the chattel slave, now for the complete emancipation from industrial slavery, to "vote as you pray."

DR. JABEZ FISHER, Fitchburg, Mass.

St. Louis, Mo., July 13, 1914.

Comrade State Secretary, Asheville, N. C.

On August 26th, we shall send H. G. Creel on a 15,000 mile voyage to Hawaii, Fiji, Samoa, New Zealand, Tasmania and Australia. In addition to his typewriter, he will carry a motion picture camera, and complete outfit to secure stories and pictures of exploitation of savage peoples of the South Sea Islands and first hand information relative to government ownership and collective ownership or collectively used industries in the latter three places. We believe that his stories and picture lectures will be the greatest propaganda ever introduced in America.

You will recall that Australia, Tasmania and New Zealand were originally British penal colonies to which was exiled England's slum population—"criminals." At the time these deportations took place, England was publicly hanging men and women for infractions of minor laws. Theft was a capital offense. There is a record of one woman, 78 years old, destitute and starving, who was hanged for the theft of sixteen cents' worth of bacon. A man, insufficiently clothed, was hanged for stealing a bundle of rags in mid winter. And so on through the list of men, women and children guilty of poverty.

With a change of environment from the slums of England to a new country, these criminals founded what is conceded to be the model government of the world. Their second generation gave to the world the "Australian Ballot," the fairest form of voting known, used in the United States of America until the introduction of the voting machine. In the year that we hanged John Brown, the Australians instituted a freedom of the press. The work-in-progress history of Australia is the most wonderful story unwritten and proves the power of environment beyond the possibility of successful contradiction.

In Fiji and Samoa, Creel will make inland trips with native guides and carriers and for the first time in history, the untraveled places of earth will be photographed and written up as seen through working class eyes. Heretofore explorers have been financed by business of political interests seeking markets or territory and their accounts have necessarily been colored by the interests back of them. The Globe Trotter travels, of which this has been the first, will introduce something wholly new in travelogues.

We are confident that local, state and national movements will be greatly benefited by the forthcoming lecture and pictures and we hope for your hearty co-operation.

With best wishes, we are, fraternally,

THE GLOBE TROTTER.
