Specs'' Meadows Soon to Be cited over the conflagration which for Playing In Fast Companytime took on serious aspects. The Deal Has Been Closed.

> Another Carolina league pitcher has been purchased by a major league club, this time Lee "Specs" Meadows of Durham being the twirler who will have a chance to try out in big Scout Bob Connery, of the Boston Cardinals, who was in this terseason is over.

It is understood that offers were made him by the New York Giants, Athletics, but the Boston Cardinals range for the books and see that were the ones that finally landed the their children attend school.

"Specs" Meadows, as he is known in the Carolina league, is conceded be one of the best twirlers that the league has produced. He pitched college ball several years before he broke into professional baseball but since playing with the league clubs he has established a reputation for good pitching that few class D twiriers ever succeed in doing. He is one of the few pitchers in baseball that wears glasses, but despite this handicap he is able to watch every move-ment on the field and very few things ever happen in the game that he does not see.

The following special from Boston confirms the sale of Meadows: "Boston, Aug. 5 .- A pitcher afflicted slightly with weak sight and forced to wear glasses while working in the hill has been purchased by the people. Whenever Cardineta Cardinets.
