This Week

Devote a part of your time today and every day this week to a serious consideration of the questions at issue in the present political campaign. It is your duty as a citizen. There are many things for you to think of, but the main question to consider is whether or not the administration of

has been a success. If it has been and President Wilson and the Democratic Party have given you what it professed two years ago, then show your approval of the President and the Administration, and your loyalty to the Party, by bringing your friends to a realization of the duty before them to support

Congressman Gudger

at the polls on November 3rd. Also consider what the present Democratic Administration, headed in North Carolina by has accomplished in your behalf in maintaining an Economic and Efficient Government; in building up and perfecting your Public School System; in constructing one of the finest systems of Good Roads in the United States.

LOCKE CRAIG

BUNCOMBE'S HONORED SON

Then, if you think that the representatives of the Democratic Party in the State and County have kept their faith with you, as President Wilson and a Democratic Congress have done in the Administration of the National Government, take an active part in arousing further enthusiasm on behalf of the local

Democratic Candidates

Remember that a vote for Congressman Gudger and the following District and County Candidates is a vote for the Wilson Administration.

- For Congress—James M. Gudger, Jr.
- For Solicitor—J. E. Swain.
- For State Senator—Zebulon Weaver.
- For Representatives—Gallatin Roberts, H. L. Nettles.

WEAVER SUMMER SCHOOL PROPOSED

Trustees of Weaverville Institution Start Movement for School's Establishment.

At a meeting here Saturday afternoon in the board of trade rooms of the trustees of Weaverville college, Weaverville, it was decided to offer the college and equipment to the Methodist conference in Shelby next month for use in establishing a summer school for the Methodist young men and women of the south. This movement has been under consideration for several months by President Newell and the trustees, and it is their belief that conditions are ripe now for securing such an institution at Weaverville during the summer months.

It is the plan to make such a summer school a co-operative affair, the trustees to ask the various conferences and Methodist institutions in the south to work together for the establishment of the school. A number of the larger colleges do not conduct summer schools because of the intense heat of the summer months, while others do not have sufficient students to justify the employment of a faculty large enough to properly conduct a summer school.

It is believed that both these situations will be solved by the establishment of a summer school at Weaverville. A more ideal climate could not be found; and it is believed that other institutions will be only too glad to send men as members of the faculty and thus work together for the success of the school.

Friends and patrons of Weaverville in the city and section are confident that the establishment of a summer school there would prove an unequalled success and they will await with keen interest the action that is taken on the proposition at the conference meeting in Shelby next month. They believe that the school will be established, beyond all possible doubt.

BIG DAMAGE CASE IS FAST NEARING AN END

Case of Steele vs. Southern Went to Jury in Superior Court Yesterday.

Following the charge of Judge E. B. Cline, delivered after Superior court reconvened yesterday afternoon the case of M. T. Steele against the Southern Railway company went to the jury. The case was called Friday afternoon and has occupied the time of the court since then. The plaintiff is suing for $50,000 damages for loss of his sight, alleging that, while employed by the defendant as an engineer, and blew in his eyes when he went to investigate the sand pipes on the engine, thus destroying his sight. The case has been one of the hardest fought tried here in several months and has attracted a great deal of attention.

Mrs. Avonia Smith has been granted a divorce from Dr. Owen-Smith, statutory grounds being given in the suit. The complaint states that the plaintiff and defendant were married on October 17, 1909. The case was not contested and the judgment was that the plaintiff be granted an absolute divorce, with the costs of the action taxed against the defendant.

The defendants took a non-suit in the case of the Southern Bell and Asheville Telephone & Telegraph company, against whom suit was brought by J. E. Martin.

A compromise judgment in favor of the defendant was agreed upon in the case of Adams Bros. company against the Red Shale Brick company. Yesterday's session of Superior court marked the beginning of a term of two weeks, during which civil cases will be tried, and on November 9 a term of one week for criminal cases will convene, with Judge Cline presiding.

All ladies of the city who are interested in this work, and those who have recently joined the auxiliary, are extended an urgent invitation to be present tomorrow morning and participate in the meeting. Sewing machines valued at $10,000,000 were exported from this country in 1913, more than $4,000,000 worth going to Europe.

RESOLUTIONS OF FAIR ASSOCIATION

Directors Determined to Make Exposition Next Year Big One—People Thanked.

The directors of the Western North Carolina Fair association have formulated the following set of resolutions, in which the determination is expressed to make the fair next year the greatest success of its kind ever held in this section of the state, and at the same time extending a vote of thanks to all who contributed to making the past fair the success it was, despite weather conditions:

"Be it resolved by the board of directors of the Western North Carolina Fair association: That the future welfare of the agricultural interests of Western North Carolina can be largely extended by the continuation of the efforts of the last four years, and in spite of the very unfortunate weather conditions of the present year, we are firmly of the belief that:

"First: The fair will be continued next year on a larger and more comprehensive scope than at any time in the past.

"Second: That notwithstanding the reduced receipts owing to unfortunate conditions, all premiums legitimately awarded according to the rules and conditions of the catalogue will be paid in full within the next thirty days.

"Third: That we fully appreciate the efforts made by all the people from the western part of the state in making it possible for us to have a full and complete exhibit.

"Fourth: We extend to the schools our sincere thanks for their exhibits and presence, and hope that they have had some experiences in connection with the work that will be of lasting benefit in future years.

would have made this the best fair in its history. But we trust that the good work done in preparation will not be lost but will be clearly manifest in next year's efforts."

ARGUMENTS IN STEEL CO. CASE ARE RESUMED

U. S. Attorney Refers to Alleged Maintenance of Uniform Steel Prices

Philadelphia, Oct. 27.—When argument was resumed yesterday in the dissolution suit of the government against the United States Steel corporation indications were that addresses of lawyers would not be finally concluded tonight. Twenty-three hours already have been consumed by attorneys in the presentation of argument.

Henry E. Cotton, special assistant to the attorney general was the first speaker today. Mr. Cotton, who spoke for more than six hours last Friday, in resuming yesterday reverted to the alleged maintenance of uniform prices of steel products for long periods after the formation of the steel corporation. The government charges that the uniform prices maintained by the steel company and in defendants resulting from the Gary dinner in New York which were attended by a majority of the iron and steel members of the United States Steel corporation. Mr. Cotton urged that witnesses the government had called and the documents clearly proved that the steel corporation took the lead in having the independents go along without keeping up prices.

David A. Reed of Pittsburgh, of counsel for the steel corporation, followed Mr. Cotton. He defended Andrew Carnegie's action in disposing of his interests to the steel corporation when it was organized. Mr. Reed said Mr. Carnegie had no thought that the corporation intended to monopolize the steel business. Mr. Carnegie's one thought he said, was to devote his time to philanthropy.

"ON TO RICHMOND" THE "BATTLE CRY"

Carolina Men of Asheville and This Section Expect to See Carolina Win Nov. 26.

"On to Richmond!" That is the "battle-cry" that has been heard from every side since Saturday night, when the first news was received over the wire that the husky football squad of the University of North Carolina had walloped the strong Vanderbilt team on their own grounds Saturday afternoon, the second time that the trick had ever been turned by a southern team on Dudley field in Nashville.

Alumni of the university here and supporters of the team through years of defeat have been watching the work of the team this year ever since "Doggie" Trenchard and his assistants brought the boys to Kanuga lake in August to begin training. It has been considered the alumni's team, just as much as it is the university's team, and the outcome of Saturday's game was awaited with keen anticipation.

That victory Saturday was the match which fired a mine that has been planted in the hearts of university men for nearly ten years—since Carolina administered her last drubbing to Virginia. Carolina men in Asheville and western North Carolina now are as certain that Virginia is going to get "her's" on Thanksgiving day as they are certain of the same being played. Not only are they convinced of this, but they are determined to see the job well done. They are going to Richmond.

In past years—several of them—prospects have not been very bright for Carolina to win the Thanksgiving game, and for that reason there has not been a great number attending from this city and section. Now the situation is reversed. Discussion of plans began Saturday night for taking a solid Pullman car of Carolina root-ers to Richmond November 26, and by sundown last night these plans had grown to proportions of a train load. Those boys are going, too. And at least a part of The Gazette-News staff will be with them.

Singewald-Jaques Wedding in Hospital
A wedding was solemnized at the Meriwether hospital Sunday morning at 11:45 o'clock, when Miss Marie Louise Singewald became the bride of J. Morris Jaques. The ceremony was performed in a private ward of the hospital, where Mr. Jaques lies critically ill. Following an operation for appendicitis last Wednesday night, the wedding ceremony was solemnized by Father Dyer of Saint Mary's seminary, Baltimore, and only the father, mother and brother of the groom and two attendant nurses were present. Mr. Jaques' physicians stated yesterday morning that his condition had become worse, and following this statement the ceremony was immediately arranged.

Mr. Jaques, who is a prominent young man of Asheville and Miss Singewald were to have been married in Baltimore yesterday and arrangements had been made for a brilliant wedding ceremony. Mr. Jaques was arranging to leave here last Wednesday for Baltimore and was stricken with appendicitis just before he was to take his train. An examination by physicians showed that an immediate operation would be necessary to save his life, and he was rushed to the Meriwether hospital, where the operation was performed.

Miss Singewald was notified of his condition by wire and immediately came here to be at his bedside. Sunday morning when there appeared to be little hope for her fiancé's recovery, Father Dyer was summoned and the wedding ceremony quickly arranged. Immediately following it, the bride went to the home of Mr. Jaques' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. James, to await further news from her husband's bedside.

Information given out at the hospital yesterday was that Mr. Jaques' condition has improved somewhat since Sunday, and hopes are held out for his recovery.

At a meeting recently held at the Black Mountain High school, a committee, composed of B. L. Woodward, M. R. Eckles, Mr. Dickey, Mr. Landis, Mr. Hageman and Miss Pansy Anderson, was appointed to investigate the cost of installing a sanitary plant at the school and the committee will hold a meeting this afternoon, at which time they will report on the cost of the plant. It is believed that the plant will be installed at the school and it was decided to employ a janitor to look after the plant and the building.

Mrs. Barnett is president of the association, and Miss Margaret Doria is secretary.
