VETERANS JOIN IN CELEBRATION TODAY

Lee-Jackson Day Appropriately Celebrated at Home of Dr. and Mrs. Glenn.

ELABORATE LUNCHEON SERVED BY DAUGHTERS

Survivors of "Thin Grey Line" Enjoy Program of Music, Dances and Recitals of the War.

About 80 veterans of the Confederate armies of the war between the states met yesterday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Glenn, at No. 41 Starnes avenue, for the annual observance of Lee-Jackson day. Following a delightful program, during which many of the veterans took part, an elaborate luncheon was served by the local chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and then followed another program of music and readings and personal stories of the war, told by the veterans.

The meeting was one of the most enjoyable yet held and the veterans expressed themselves as being highly pleased with the entertainment they received. General J. M. Ray presided over the meeting, which was opened with prayer by Rev. E. W. Cauble, chaplain of Zeb Vance camp of veterans, and Rev. T. R. Young rendered a song that was thoroughly enjoyed by the large number of old soldiers. Mrs. J. J. Yates gave a reading, using as her subject, "General Lee," which was one of the gems of the meeting. Personal stories of the war were told by veterans Neal Cales, W. T. Rogers and George H. Bell, and the recital of the stirring days of '61-'65, as told by the men who helped to make the history of that great conflict, was doubly interesting to the old soldiers, many of whom recalled the incidents of battle, camp and march as told by the speakers. An original poem written by Captain J. W. Albright was read by his daughter, Mrs. E. C. Chambers, president of the local chapter of the U. D. C. Mrs. Chambers also read the ritual of the U. D. C., following the prayer by Rev. Mr. Cauble.

One feature of the meeting was the music of three old soldier fiddlers, Dan Clayton, Mack Slagle and John Dillon. These old soldiers played the tunes of a generation that has almost passed and many could be seen with tears in their eyes as they listened to the tunes once familiar to our grandparents. Mrs. L. W. Young and Mrs. Slagle presided at the piano, and their selections were well received by the veterans.

Lieut. Robert Patterson a veteran of the Spanish-American war, gave several selections on the banjo for the benefit of the old soldiers, which were received with much applause. Several of the old soldiers, which were received with much applause. Several of the old soldiers gave dances while the music was being rendered and, while all are old and many crippled with pains and aches, their execution of the dances of long ago were given with the grace and ease that would be a surprise to some of the dancers of today.

The singing of Dixie by several Children of the Confederacy was a pleasing feature of the program. Crosses of honor were bestowed upon Veterans James T. Patton and M. M. Parker by Mrs. E. C. Chambers. Mrs. Glenn's residence was handsomely decorated for the occasion and the luncheon was one of the largest and most elaborate served to the veterans during any of the previous reunions held here.
